

What's the cause of all the extreme weather?

What's the cause of all the extreme weather?

I am glad the droughts in Texas and California are getting attention, especially the cause, because the cause has always been ignored, as if it will straighten itself out. The cause is what I have been trying to get the world to see for over fifty years now.

If the nations had acted on what I had warned them of fifty years ago, we would have plenty of water in all the right seasons. Furthermore, we would have reversed a process that is occurring in soil that's causing death to the trees and plants. We would also have reversed the curse that's spreading throughout the seas that will devastate the fish supply. The irregular cloud and rain formation is only a small portion of what you will start seeing this year diminishing from the grocery store shelves.

Paul Rogers wrote an excellent article showing concerns of meteorologists who are turning their attention to the scientific aspects. This is another plus, because scientific research is needed. But I will tell you what to look for and you will then discover the true cause behind these long-term droughts and maybe even the true cause of global warming; both have the same cause.

I need to show you the validity of the source of knowledge on which I base my judgment; otherwise, you will scoff and refuse to do the tests that will prove what I am about to tell you. You scientists now have technological knowledge, with which to see beyond and into the secret places unseen before this generation. You have acquired that knowledge in my generation.

I was born in 1934. This technological knowledge, with which you can view and make tests that I will ask you to make, was not possible before 1934. That knowledge came due to a Prophecy in your bible that shows the generation in which knowledge would be increased for mankind.

The Prophecy

The Great Prophet of Yahweh, Daniyl, wrote things concerning the last generation of man's governments of and by worldly people. He gave the Prophecy concerning the increase in knowledge that actually started in 1934, which is shown to be the last generation of man's governments. Notice the Prophecy.

Daniyl 12:1-4

1 And at that time, one who is like Yahweh will stand up at Abel; Yisrayl, the Great Priest, who stands at Abel to teach Yahweh's Just, Perfect Laws to the children of Your People; and there will be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation to that same time. And at that time, Your People will be delivered, everyone who will be found written in The Book of Life.

2 And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth will awake; some to Everlasting Life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt.

3 And those who are wise will shine as the brightness of the heavens; and those who turn many to righteousness, as the stars forever and ever

4 But you, O Daniyl, shut up the words, and seal the book to the time of The End; many will run to and fro, and knowledge will be increased.

We see in verse 1 a time of the greatest trouble ever for mankind. In verse 4, we see it's the time of The End. To understand that this time of The End, which Daniyl prophesied of, is also the last generation, we need to compare the teachings of the Savior, Yahshua Messiah, on this subject.

Mattithyah 24:1-3

1 Yahshua went out and was leaving the temple, when His Disciples came to show Him the buildings of the temple.

2 But Yahshua said to them: Do you see all these things? Truly I say to you: There will not be one stone left sitting on top of another, which will not be thrown down.

3 Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives, the Disciples came to Him privately, saying; Tell us, when will these things be? What will be the sign of Your coming and The End of the Ages?

Verse 2 shows not one stone of this temple would be left on top of another. He spoke these words around 29 CE. Was the temple actually destroyed? Yes, it was. The excerpt below gives us the history.

Josephus says, War, book vii. c. 1: "Cæsar gave orders that they should now demolish the whole city and temple, τε πολιν απασαν και τον νεων κατασκεπτειν, except the three towers, Phaselus, Hippicus, and Mariamne, and a part of the western wall, and these were spared; but, for all the rest of the wall, it was laid so completely even with the ground, by those who dug it up to the foundation, that there was left nothing to make those that came thither believe it had ever been inhabited."

That Prophecy was fulfilled around 70 CE. That was about 41 years after Yahshua was murdered. Foretelling the future is far above man's intellect. You scientists are how far up on that scale? If you could, at this time, you would be telling the world when this high pressure would subside and allow the rains to fall on the parched farmlands.

Remember Daniyl's Prophecy concerning The End and notice Yahshua's Words.

Mattithyah 24:21-22

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

Comparing this Prophecy to Daniyl's, we see they are both prophesying of the same time period—the worst ever in history.

Daniyl 12:1

And at that time, one who is like Yahweh will stand up at Abel; Yisrayl, the Great Priest, who stands at Abel to teach Yahweh's Just, Perfect Laws to the children of Your People; and there will be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation to that same time. And at that time, Your People will be delivered, everyone who will be found written in The Book of Life.

Then Yahweh says in verse 4 that knowledge will be increased at that time, and then shows the Two Witnesses for that time period teaching. Understand this, it's very important, knowledge was not increased until this Last Generation, starting in 1934. Why? Intellectual religious people with a lot of technical knowledge can be extremely and instantly destructive. Now read what Prophecy shows that this generation will do, with its rebellious attitude and the knowledge increase.

Mattithyah 24:29

Immediately, but after the Great Tribulation of those days will the sun be darkened, and the moon will not give her light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

The nuclear bomb could not have been invented and used without the increase in knowledge provided by the computer. When was the nuclear bomb invented? The start of the project was 1934. Daniyl 12:4 says knowledge will be increased.

Computer History

The evolution of the first recognizably modern computers in the 1940's and early 1950's is an epic story of innovation, collaboration, secrecy, and a technological phoenix built from the ashes of World War II. The development of The von Neumann

Architecture, from concept, to ultimate practical realization lasted a few years, a decade, or a century depending on how you interpret the facts. The characters, places, and machines, in this story are legend; Babbage, Lovelace and the Analytical engine, Atanasoff's ABC, Aiken and the Harvard Mk1, Zuse's Z1 through Z4, Vannevar Bush, John Mauchly, J. Presper Eckert, John von Neumann, the ENIAC and EDVAC. Tommy Flowers the Heath Robinson and Collossus at Bletchley Park. TRE Malvern, Manchester University, the Baby and the Williams-Kilburn tube, Lyons tea shops and the EDSAC at Cambridge and the CSIRAC. My goal is not to catalog these efforts but rather to show the links between them and the web of collaboration that led to the evolution of the first modern computer.

Notice the date 1934, it's important.

The Evolution of the Modern Computer (1934 to 1950): An Open Source Graphical History

For the record. I believe that The Manchester Mk I Prototype was the first Computer in a modern sense. But the text file is not intended to prove this or any other machine was first. It is only intended to record the known dates and influences for computing machines designed between 1934 and 1950. I Believe that the graph is complex enough to support many interpretations.

It's a Scriptural fact that no one can deny. It's more than a phenomenon. It's more than a miracle. There are no words to describe the greatness of what you just read. Yahweh inspired the Prophet Daniyl to write future events of this generation that started with the birth of the Last Witness who teaches and brings a Last Days' Message to the world.

This is a time of great trouble with nuclear power that will darken the sun, which was invented with the increase of knowledge. This technological knowledge also provided equipment capable of reaching every home and family on earth with the Message of the Kingdom of Yahweh, a warning of what mankind is bringing upon themselves.

It is plain to see that Prophecies have come true, with the exception of one event—the great nuclear explosions that will darken the sun.

Mattithyah 24:29

Immediately, but after the Great Tribulation of those days will the sun be darkened, and the moon will not give her light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

Anyone who is honest will admit that no man has the wisdom to foretell the future. Yet, Yahweh tells us, in many details, what will occur in this last generation.

Invention and Discovery: Atomic Bombs and Fission

Last changed April 1997

Leo Szilard and the Invention of the Atomic Bomb

It would be logical to assume that the discovery of fission preceded the invention of the atomic bomb. It would be normal also to expect that no single individual could really claim to be “the inventor”, since the possibility sprang naturally from a physical process, and required the efforts of many thousands to bring it into existence. Many descriptions of the origin of atomic bombs can be found that logically and normally say exactly these things.

But they are not correct.

In the case of the atomic bomb there is clearly one man who is the originator of the idea. He was also the instigator of the project that led ultimately to the successful construction of the atomic bomb, and was a principal investigator in the early R&D both before and after the founding of the atomic bomb project – making a number of the key discoveries himself. By any normal standard this man is the inventor of the atomic bomb.

Notice the date 1934, it's important.

On July 4, 1934 Leo Szilard filed a patent application for the atomic bomb. In his application, Szilard described not only the basic concept of using neutron induced chain reactions to create explosions, but also the key concept of the critical mass. The patent was awarded to him – making Leo Szilard the legally recognized inventor of the atomic bomb.

Please remember the date on each of these mile-markers because 1934 is also the birth date of the last Witness of the Two Witnesses shown to Daniyl the Prophet of Yahweh. Daniyl was also shown the time period or generation of knowledge being increased. It was the Witnesses, born 1934, that was also prophesied to establish The House of Yahweh in this generation.

The House of Yahweh

The fact that knowledge would be increased in this generation alone should be enough to bring joy to everyone's heart. With a world filled with unbelieving religions, reading this one thing should bring joy to your heart, knowing that the Scriptures are true and dependable.

Yahweh, the Creator, has a Plan for mankind, just as the Inspired Writings of the Prophets and Apostles say.

Genesis 1:26

Then Yahweh said: I will make man in My Image, according to My Likeness; they will have Authority over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, over the cattle, and over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps upon the earth.

We can depend on the Scriptures and trust in the Way to Eternal Life, as the Savior, Yahshua Messiah, says in:

Mattithyah 19:17

But He said to him: Why do you question Me about Righteousness? There is only One Who is the Standard of Perfection, and He is Yahweh; so if you would enter into Life, keep the Laws of Yahweh.

We can trust in the Scriptures that this is the Way of Life, despite what the lying religions say. There will not be evil, violent, selfish, unrighteous men all in the future Kingdom of Yahweh, as the Apostles say.

I Corinthians 6:9-10

9 Do you not know that the unrighteous will not inherit the Kingdom of Yahweh? Do not deceive yourselves. Neither fornicators, nor Godworshippers (worshippers of elohim), nor adulterers, nor men who commit sexual perversions with boys, nor men who commit sexual perversions with other men,

10 Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, will inherit the Kingdom of Yahweh.

I Yahchanan 3:4, 7-8, 10

4 Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Laws; for sin is the transgression of the Laws.

7 Little children, let no man deceive you; he who practices Righteousness is Righteous, just as He is Righteous.

8 He who commits sin is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of Yahweh was manifested; that He might destroy the works of the devil.

10 In this the Children of Yahweh and the children of the devil are manifest. Whoever does not practice Righteousness is not of Yahweh, and he does not love his neighbor!

Revelation 22:12-14

12 And behold, I come quickly, and My Reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work will be.

13 I am the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End.

14 Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the City.

We can trust the fact that there will be no more wars brought forth by the popes after the last prophesied wars which we now know will come and will be the end in this present, prophesied generation.

Mattithyah 24:7, 21-22, 29

7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes; environmental disasters, in place after place:

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

29 Immediately, but after the Great Tribulation of those days will the sun be darkened, and the moon will not give her light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

The Darkening of the Sun by Nuclear Burning Shown in Many Prophecies is for this Generation

All of the things mentioned in Mattithyah 24 can now be seen. Even the darkening of the sun is known. The following article, an essay from Discovermagazine, February 1984, deals directly with the consequences of Nuclear War. This Prophecy is shown in Mattithyah 24:29.

Dr. Thomas was one of the four American scientists who, at the invitation of Senators Edward Kennedy and Mark Hatfield, met in Washington in December for a three-hour open discussion with four Soviet counterparts. The subject of their discussion: the nuclear winter (discover, January).

Two scientific reports have recently been published, dealing with the probable effects of nuclear war upon the earth's climate and the life of the planet. The first discovery is already widely known within the scientific community of climatologists, geophysicists, and biologists here and abroad, and has been confirmed in detail by scientists in the Soviet Union. Computer models demonstrate that a nuclear war involving the exchange of less than one third of the total American and Soviet arsenal will change the climate of the entire Northern Hemisphere, shifting it abruptly from its present seasonal state to a long, sunless, frozen night. This will be followed after some months by a settling of nuclear soot and dust, then by a new malignant kind of sunlight, with all of its ultraviolet band, capable of blinding most terrestrial animals, no longer shielded from the earth by the ozonosphere. In the same research, new calculations of the extent and intensity of radioactive fallout predict the exposure of large land areas to much more intense levels of radiation than expected. The report is referred to as TTAPS, an acronym derived from the investigators' names: Turco, Toon, Ackerman, Pollack, and Sagan.

The second piece of work, by Paul Ehrlich and 19 other distinguished biologists, demonstrates that the predictions of TTAPS mean nothing less than the extinction of much of the earth's biosphere, very possibly involving the Southern Hemisphere as well as the Northern.

Taken together, the two papers change everything in the world about the prospect of thermonuclear warfare. They have already received a careful and critical review by scientists representing the disciplines concerned, here and abroad, and there already appears to be an unprecedented degree of concurrence with the technical details as well as the conclusions drawn. In the view of some referees, the TTAPS report may even be understating the climatological damage implied by its data. The 20 biologists' paper, summarized by Professor Ehrlich, represents the consensus arrived at by 40 biological scientists at a meeting in Woods Hole, Massachusetts, last spring.

It is a new world, demanding a new kind of diplomacy and a new logic.

Up to now, the international community of statesmen, diplomats, and military analysts has tended to regard the prospect of nuclear war as a problem only for the adversaries in possession of the weapons. Arms control and the endless negotiations aimed at the reduction of nuclear explosives have been viewed as the responsibility, even the prerogative, of those few nations in actual confrontation. Now all that is changed. There is no nation on earth free of the jeopardy of destruction if any two countries, or groups of countries, embark upon a nuclear exchange. If the Soviet Union and the United States, and their respective allies in the Warsaw Pact and NATO, begin to launch their missiles beyond a still undetermined and ambiguous minimum, neutral states like Sweden and Switzerland are in for the same long-term effects, the same slow death, as the actual participants. Australia and New Zealand, Brazil and South Africa, could have as much to worry about as West Germany if a full-scale exchange were to take place far to the north.

Up to now, we have all tended to regard any conflict with nuclear arms as an effort by paired adversaries to settle such issues as territorial dominance or ideological dispute. Now, with the new findings before us, it is clear that any territory gained will be, at the end, a barren wasteland, and any ideology will vanish in the death of civilization and the permanent loss of mankind's memory of culture.

The risks of this kind of war have conventionally been calculated by the numbers of dead human beings on either side at the end of the battle, armies and noncombatants together. The terms "acceptable" and "unacceptable," signifying so-and-so many million human casualties, have been used for making cool judgments about the need for new and more accurate weapon systems. From now on, things are different. Leave aside the already taken for granted estimate that in an all-out exchange of, say, 5,000 megatons, something like a billion people would be killed outright by blast, heat, and radiation. Set aside as well the likely fact that more than another billion would die later on, from the delayed effects of the climate and radioactive fallout.

Notice Yahshua's Words in:

Mattithyah 24:33-34

33 In the same way, when you see all these things, know that His coming and The End of the Ages are near, at the very door.

34 Truly I say to you: That generation will not pass away, until all these things are fulfilled.

Famine and Disease Epidemics are creeping in on you!

Yahshua showed famine and disease epidemics running together in this generation. If you put these together and couple them with the increase in knowledge and the nuclear bombs that can darken the sun, a person would have to be mentally ill not to see that a Higher Power than mankind has warned us of what we are bringing upon ourselves, while there is yet time to repent.

Yahweh's Prophets did not lie, everything they said is here, and the cause is sin. Sin causes STDs, along with many other things. STDs have been in our waters, soil and even the firmament.

Genesis 1:6-8, KJV

6 And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

7 And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were above the firmament: and it was so.

8 And God called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

The firmament shown by Yahweh's Prophets is something that science is only now testing samples that have been taken by high-flying planes. What they are finding proves the Inspired Scriptures true. It seems that everything taking place in this generation is proving Yahweh's Prophets true.

Much more funding is needed for scientific projects because the truth, which is what they are proving, will help to set the people free from sin—the cause of sickness, disease, famine, and environmental disasters such as earthquakes, global warming and drought.

The Prophecy for this generation is just that: drought and famine, along with no love, hatred and war—all of these have the same root cause

Please allow me to explain in a way that everyone will understand. Every Law given by Yahweh was given to guide mankind away from actions that cause harmful reactions. Breaking the Laws concerning healthy sexual activities creates and mutates STDs. We know this and can prove it beyond any doubt. In fact, scientific tests of many different diseases are available that show the cause. When the cause is searched out in the Scriptures, they show one or more of the health Laws have been broken.

For years, the health departments looked for cures with antibiotics, because the mutations have become stronger than all of their medications, as Dr. Arjun Srinivasan, associate director at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, told PBS Frontline.

Your body is made up of thousands of kingdoms of microorganisms—microscopic animals or beings that work together in different kingdoms to bring to action each organ of your body. It takes an estimated several thousand of these kingdoms to operate each eye so that it functions properly.

STDs are made up of thousands of different kinds of microviruses that are harmful to the microorganisms that operate your eyes, or any other organ in your body.

Reference Summary

Causes of STDs

And infectious disease is a disease that can be passed from one person to another. Sexually transmitted diseases are a category of diseases that spread via sexual activities...

Sexually transmitted diseases are caused by 3 types of organisms.

Parasites: Parasites are very small animals that get nourishment from the person they infect. The infected person is called the host. Public lice, also called crabs, are an example of sexually transmitted parasites.

Bacteria: Bacteria are organisms made of one cell. They cling together to feed from the body of their host. Gonorrhoea, syphilis, chlamydia, and chancroid are examples of sexually transmitted bacteria.

Virus: Viruses are complex molecules that can multiply when they invade the cells of their host. HIV, herpes, and hepatitis are examples of sexually transmitted viruses. Usually infections that are caused by a virus cannot be cured...

STDs are some of the most common infectious diseases. Not only can they cause sores and foul smelling discharge, they can lead to serious complications, such as liver failure, cancers, neurological problems and death!

Multiple Sex Partners Make a Woman’s Immune System Crash

Following are excerpts from an interview with Dr. Jamal Al-Din Ibrahim, a self-proclaimed professor of toxicology at California University, which aired on Al-Rahman/Al-Rawdha, on December 2, 2010:

Interviewer: As you know, the West wants to shift the woman away from her purity, her chastity, and the holiness that Islam bestows upon her, to Western life, to lesbianism, to “How come women can’t have multiple husbands?”, to “Why can’t a woman enjoy sexual liberty before she get married?”, to “Why can’t there be a focus on women, like in the West – so that women can be with women, without needing men, and men can be with men, without needing women?” These are very dangerous issues. Does science have anything to say about them?

Jamal Al-Din Ibrahim:Regarding the question of the woman, even American society admits that women in America have lesser rights. Let me give you a clear example: When a woman gets married, she adopts her husband's surname, and gives up her maiden name. If she marries so-and-so, she becomes Mrs. So-And-So. She is attributed to him. Before the scientific revolution, and before there were machines, the woman would be a slave to her husband. She had no rights whatsoever. This was less than 250 years ago.

The situation developed when women were needed to help the men in modern life. Consequently, women progressed in many aspects, but not with regard to the need to give up their maiden names.

Secondly, women in America are exploited as merchandise. Women are viewed as merchandise. If a woman is pretty, she has a certain price and status in society. Even at university, the professor will give a beautiful girl better grades than a plain one. In ads, a girl with a nicer body will fetch a higher price.

When I was a student at university, in 1975-1977, they conducted a survey which showed that the female American student, who spends, an average, four years at university, has sexual intercourse with 200-300 guys during these four years.

When a woman has sex with more than one man, it causes her a medical problem, because it weakens her immune system.

Interviewer:How exactly?

Jamal Al-Din Ibrahim:When a woman has sex with more than one man... When she has sex with the first man, her body tries to determine the identity of the man's sperm.

Interviewer: Before the show, you explained the process of identification to me.

Jamal Al-Din Ibrahim: Yes, there is a process of identification, and the sperm is registered in her body. It is like when a person enters somebody's home, he is identified, and something like an identity card is prepared... This man now has a special place. This process is conducted by the immune system. It is like when a man works for a certain company, the company makes a great effort to get to know who the person is, and to place him in the right post. After a while, the woman's body easily identifies that man's sperm, which has become part of the woman. Along comes another man and has sex with her. Now the immune system must go over the entire process again.

Interviewer: The immune system undergoes much effort in the identification of the new guy.

Jamal Al-Din Ibrahim: It is even more difficult when there are two men at the same time. These girls do that. They have one, two, or three lovers, plus a boyfriend. He may not even be a close friend, but she still has sex with him. This wears out the immune system.

Interviewer: From having to conduct too many identification processes...

Jamal Al-Din Ibrahim: It is busy with identification all the time as a result of all these sexual encounters. When the woman reaches her thirties or forties, after 15 years of [sex], she begins to develop breast cancer and uterine cancer, which are very common in America.

Interviewer: What is the reason for this?

Jamal Al-Din Ibrahim: The sexual contacts cause the woman's immune system to crash or to weaken.

The Epidemic of Sexually Transmitted Diseases

Sexually Transmitted Diseases (or STDs) are at unprecedented and epidemic proportions. Thirty years of the sexual revolution is paying an ugly dividend.

It is estimated that 1 in 5 Americans between the ages of 15 and 55 are currently infected with one or more STDs, and 12 million Americans are newly infected each year.

Prior to 1960, there were only two significant sexually transmitted diseases: syphilis and gonorrhea. In the sixties and seventies this relatively stable situation began to change.

leaderu.com

Zoonotic diseases brought to the human race due to bestiality:

Most people don't realize that genital chlamydia, gonorrhea, even "trich" (trichomoniasis flagellate infection) originated from livestock. Gonorrhea and chlamydia are often seen with COWS.

With routine use of antibiotics as a growth stimulant and keeping farm animals alive in their own filth, it is more likely bacterial sexually transmitted diseases are also antibiotic resistant and can pass to humans through bestiality intercourse. Please note animals also have all kinds of unknown viruses harmless to them, but lethal to humans. For example, HIV originated from chimpanzees; herpes B which causes deadly brain meningitis, came from monkeys, which shows no symptoms in these animals-but deadly to humans. Humans can also get Brucellosis, Leptospirosis, Q Fever, etc. In fact, gonorrhea has become a superbug resistant to antibiotic treatment. Spread of multidrug-resistant Neisseria gonorrhoeae is a major public health concern. (Currently there is a superbug gonorrhea that no antibiotic can cure.)

change.org

STD viruses can rape, injure, and murder useful microorganisms in any kingdom of microorganisms, in any organ in your body. This makes it possible to shut down any organ in your body—your eyes, kidneys, lungs, brain, heart, etc.

Your body as a service in your family

As a person, you have responsibilities in your home, your family, your work area, etc. You use every organ in your body constantly to take care of your responsibilities. When an organ gets sick or shuts down, the home can usually make adjustments to manage the house with the help of other members, but it's less effective than if all members are at work. If a second member of the family is struck down, say by an STD, the family functions are even less effective. And if a third or fourth is struck down, the dirty dishes may not get washed at all.

The firmament as a family of bodies

We know some of the functions of the firmament that are vital to the earth, food, air, water, and life. The firmament is made up of trillions of kingdoms of micro-families. Each kingdom is set by law to perform their service to the family. The family is the world, the earth, that was made for mankind.

Some micro-kingdoms were made for rain. The needs of the firmament are many. Few people have ever bothered to study even what science already publishes. Certain micro-kingdoms work to filter the sun's rays, to adjust the proper amount of ultraviolet rays for food production, water, and air. All life on earth must have the right amount; otherwise, everything with life, as we know it, would die. The earth also needs rain. If too much rain falls too fast, crops are ruined. If too little rain falls to earth, the crops wither.

Prophesied for this generation

Notice the Prophecy again.

Mattithyah 24:7

For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes; environmental disasters, in place after place:

Notice the word famines in Mattithyah 24:7. Couple with:

Mattithyah 24:21-22

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

This means the greatest famines ever in man's history.

Mattithyah 24:34

Truly I say to you: That generation will not pass away, until all these things are fulfilled.

What you are about to read is a result of sin and STDs, caused by sin and multiplies in abundance in this generation because of sin. Compare:

Mattithyah 24:12

And because iniquity will abound, the love of the many will grow cold.

Isayah 24:1-6

1 Before Yahweh's very Eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

We are in that generation now. It started in 1934 with the increase in knowledge. All in this present, prophesied generation.

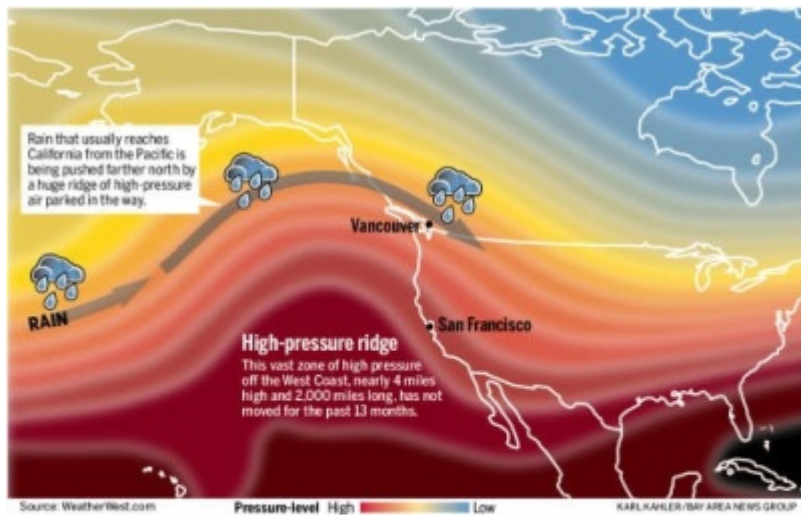

Drought Present

We now have what I have personally been looking for concerning drought and famine for this generation. We know that the ocean has ways of cleaning itself. This service is performed by the same micro-kingdoms that work in unity, by law, each doing its job.

The drought seems to be the result of a vast zone of high pressure in the firmament off the West Coast, nearly four miles high and 2,000 miles long. First read the article by Paul Rogers, then I will finish sharing what I see written by Yahweh's Prophets which shows exactly what mankind has started and what must be done to reverse this train of curses in the water, soil, and air, that will bring down the whole earth, if it's not reversed.

California drought: What's causing it?

By Paul Rogers

As California struggles through a run of historically dry weather, most residents are looking at falling reservoir levels, dusty air and thirsty lawns.

But meteorologists have fixed their attention on the scientific phenomenon they say is to blame for the emerging drought: a vast zone of high pressure in the atmosphere off the West Coast, nearly four miles high and 2,000 miles long, so stubborn that one researcher has dubbed it the “Ridiculously Resilient Ridge.”

Like a brick wall, the mass of high pressure air has been blocking Pacific winter storms from coming ashore in California, deflecting them up into Alaska and British Columbia, even delivering rain and cold weather to the East Coast. Similar high-pressure zones pop up all the time during most winters, but they usually break down, allowing rain to get through to California. This one, ominously, has anchored itself for 13 months, since December 2012, making it unprecedented in modern weather records and leaving researchers scratching their heads.

“It’s like the Sierra – a mountain range just sitting off the West Coast – only bigger,” said Bob Benjamin, a forecaster with the National Weather Service in Monterey. “This ridge is sort of a mountain in the atmosphere. In most years, it comes and goes. This year it came and didn’t go.”

The current high-pressure ridge is even stronger and more persistent than a similar ridge that parked over the Pacific Ocean during the 1976-77 drought, one of the driest in the 20th century.

Scientists know that changes in temperature cause high- and low-pressure zones around the world. In many ways, air works like water. The deeper you swim in the ocean, the stronger the water pressure, because the weight of the water above is pressing down on the water below. Air in the atmosphere also has weight, and as temperatures of the ocean and land fluctuate, the atmospheric pressure also changes, helping drive much of our weather.

What researchers don’t know, however, is why the current high-pressure ridge is so persistent, or when it is going away, allowing California to enjoy some much-needed rain. A few scientists say that it may be related to climate change, but nobody knows for sure.

“I wish I had a really good answer for this,” said Daniel Cayan, an oceanographer and atmospheric scientist with the Scripps Institution of Oceanography in La Jolla. “It’s unusual for the pattern to have not broken down to allow some relatively active, vigorous winter storm systems to track across California.”

With each passing week, California’s lack of rainfall becomes more serious.

Last year was the driest calendar year in recorded history in California in most cities, with records going back 160 years. The first snowpack reading in the Sierra Nevada earlier this month found a snowpack of just 20 percent of normal.

Meanwhile, major reservoirs in Shasta and Oroville are each 36 percent full, about half of normal for this time of year. San Luis Reservoir near Los Banos is 30 percent full, 42 percent of normal. Major Bay Area water agencies haven’t yet called for mandatory summer water restrictions but are expected to make the decision in the next month or two, depending largely on whether the high-pressure ridge breaks down and rain falls.

State Department of Water Resources Director Mark Cowin told members of the California State Board of Food and Agriculture in Sacramento a week ago that his agency is likely to recommend that Gov. Jerry Brown declare a drought by Feb. 1, which would make it easier for water transfers between agencies and for emergency loans and other assistance.

On Monday at a news conference in Fresno, Brown told reporters, “It’s coming. Just be patient.”

Still, he said last week: “Governors can’t make it rain.”

Since July 1, San Francisco has received 2.1 inches of rain – just 20 percent of normal; San Jose has received 1.57 inches, or 26 percent of normal; and Oakland has received 2.08 inches, or 22 percent of normal.

All is not lost. Experts note that California still has another two or three months left in its winter season.

“In California, most of our water in the reservoirs comes from just a handful of big storms each winter,” said Daniel Swain, a Ph.D. candidate at Stanford University in the Department of Environmental Earth System Science who coined the term “Ridiculously Resilient Ridge” on his blog, weatherwest.com.

“If we do manage to get a few decent storms, we could definitely get enough water to stave off the worst consequences of a really extreme water shortage,” he said. “But if we don’t, we’ve essentially lost the whole water year.”

For anyone concocting plans to set up giant fans or other schemes to get rid of the Ridiculously Resistant Ridge, meteorologists say that’s impossible. The energy in weather systems is greater than the energy in nuclear bombs, they remind us.

For at least the next week, the National Weather Service forecasts a few occasional sprinkles but no major storms and no breakdown in the ridge.

“We’ve had a few weather systems come through,” said Leslie Wanek, a meteorologist in Salt Lake City at the regional headquarters of the National Weather Service. “But it just keeps rebuilding there. It’s kind of a mystery about why. Why is the global atmospheric pattern stuck like this?”

What is the cause?

Let me give you the most definite cause and suggest a way to prove what I will show you. Remember, the proof I gave, by the Prophets, at the beginning of this article about the Prophecy of the increase in knowledge for this generation only. With that increase in knowledge in this generation also came the prophesied abounding of iniquity, the increase of sin, such as sodomy, fornication, adultery and even bestiality. All of these are now taught in homes and schools to both the young and old. From these sins, comes viruses that attack the micro-defense kingdoms of our bodies. This causes the break down in their ability of service in helping the body or family.

We know our oceans are sick. Death is increasing in all forms of life in the seas.

What's wiping out the starfish in California?

(CBS News) SANTA CRUZ, Calif. – Scientists on the West Coast are at a loss to explain what's killing sea stars, also known as starfish. In some places, 95 percent of the starfish population has died. In less than two months, they've vanished.

...finding sick sea stars underwater, their limbs falling off, their bodies disintegrating.

"Sea stars can go from perfectly healthy to completely decomposed overnight," Raimondi said.

A timelapse video shows a sea star infected with white lesions. One by one, it loses each of its arms. It happens in just seven hours.

This wasting disease is typically caused by bacteria. It often happens during El Nino years when ocean temperatures warm and bacteria grows more quickly. But there is no El Nino now. The disease is more widespread than ever, stretching from Alaska to Southern California.

Last year, a healthy sea star population near Vancouver, Canada, covered the sea floor. Now, they are nowhere to be found.

In some places, 95 percent of the sea star population has died, causing changes to coastal ecosystems.

“We’ve never seen it like this, never,” Raimondi said.

It’s changing the ecosystem on the coast, because sea stars eat black shelled mussels. Raimondi says the mussels will take over the coast, because nothing is eating them.

Starfish Dying Due To ‘Wasting Disease’

The deadly outbreak, which causes limb loss and ultimately “melts” the starfish, is stretching from Alaska to Southern California.

By Sky News US Team

Huge numbers of starfish are dying along the US West Coast due to a disease that turns them into white goo and disintegrates them.

The disease is affecting a vast area, stretching from Alaska and Canada to Southern California.

It has killed up to 95% of a particular species of sea star in some tide pools.

Starfish, or sea stars, are marine invertebrates that come in a variety of colours and sizes.

Many scientists believe those affected are dying from "sea star wasting disease", a syndrome that spreads quickly and causes tissue decay.

They have noticed white lesions on the starfish, causing their limbs to fall off one by one in the span of a few hours.

"They essentially melt in front of you," marine biologist Pete Raimondi told The Santa Rosa Press Democrat newspaper.

But the scientists are puzzled as to the extent of the disease, which has struck in the past but has been more localised.

Mr Raimondi says the outbreak has never been as widespread as researchers are finding now.

Even starfish at an aquarium in San Francisco died from wasting disease after water was pumped in from the ocean in September.

"None of us had ever seen anything like this before," said Steven Morgan, an environmental science professor at the Bodega Marine Laboratory at the University of California, Davis.

Mr. Morgan has found emaciated sea stars on the rocks near Bodega Bay, but he was unsure if wasting syndrome was to blame.

He said the starfish deaths were a "strange anomaly".

Scientists are also concerned about the impact of the outbreak on the ecosystem.

The starfish dine on mussels, and there is a risk the collapse of starfish population will allow mussels to multiply unchecked, crowding out other species.

Viral Disease – Particularly from Herpes – Gaining Interest as Possible Cause of Coral Decline

ScienceDaily

As corals continue to decline in abundance around the world, researchers are turning their attention to a possible cause that's almost totally unexplored – viral disease.

It appears the corals that form such important parts of marine ecosystems harbor many different viruses – particularly herpes. And although they don't get runny noses or stomach upset, corals also are home to the adenoviruses and other viral families that can cause human colds and gastrointestinal disease.

In a research review published in the Journal of Experimental Marine Biology and Ecology, scientists point out that coral declines are reaching crisis proportions but little has been done so far to explore viral disease as one of the mechanisms for this problem.

"Coral abundance in the Caribbean Sea has gone down about 80 percent in the past 30-40 years, and about one-third of the corals around the world are threatened with extinction," said Rebecca Vega-Thurber, an assistant professor of microbiology at Oregon State University.

"We've identified 22 kinds of emerging disease that affect corals, but still don't know the pathogens that cause most of them," Vega-Thurber said. "Most researchers have looked only at bacteria. But we suspect viruses may play a role in this as well, and it's important to learn more about what is causing this problem. Corals are the building blocks of the tropical seas."

A research program at OSU, one of only two of its type in the world, is studying viral "metagenomics" in corals, meaning the analysis of multiple genomes at the same time. It may help explain one of the underlying causes of coral decline, Vega-Thurber said, and is one of the most comprehensive analyses yet done on the types of viruses in a marine animal. It may also shed light on the broader range of viruses that affect not only corals but many other animals, including humans.

One of the surprises from recent research was the predominance in corals of herpes viruses – similar but not identical to the herpes virus that can infect humans. Herpes viruses appear to constitute a majority of the viruses found in corals, and one experiment showed that herpes-like viral sequences were produced in coral tissues after acute episodes of stress.

"We were shocked to find that so many coral viruses were in the herpes family," Vega-Thurber said.

A "mucus" sometimes found on corals can harbor human-borne viruses, and levels of these viruses have been correlated with terrestrial human population density.

Corals are often a major component of marine ecosystems and biodiversity, especially in the tropics. They host thousands of species of fish and other animals. And whether or not viruses are implicated in coral disease, it may also be that they are passing diseases along to fish.

Research is "likely to reveal that viruses have numerous and profound roles on coral reefs," the scientists wrote in their study. "As the diversity, distribution and function of reef-associated viruses becomes increasingly well defined, so will our ability to predict, prevent and/or mitigate disease epizootics on coral reefs."

Dolphin-killing virus reaches Florida, and is infecting whales, too

Nidhi SubbaramanNBC News

The bottlenose dolphin die-off that began in July has been traveling steadily south with migrating Atlantic herds, and now diseased and dead dolphins are turning up in Florida. The culprit, a measles-like virus, has claimed 753 victims and counting, making this the worst outbreak ever recorded. Recently, the bug has also been spotted in two species of whale.

Three humpback whales and two pygmy whales, stranded and decaying, tested positive for the dolphin morbillivirus, preliminary sequencing has confirmed. NOAA researchers are doing more tests to find out if it was the virus, usually rare in these animals, that killed them.

Resident Florida bottlenose herds could catch the virus, which spreads through close contact or shared air, Rowles said. Researchers are studying how much the local hosts interact with the visiting migrants, but they can't stop the virus from hopping.

The same thing is happening in our soil. We know that the AIDS virus latches onto and rapes microorganisms. Sin has been increasing for as long as television entered the home. There is now an overload of STDs in the air and the waters (oceans, seas, rivers, lakes, and streams).

Bacterial Viral and Fungal Diseases Transmissible Through Air

Human diseases caused by microorganisms can be classified as bacterial, viral and fungal disease based on the type of infectious microbe and classified as food borne, water borne, soil borne and air borne disease based on the nature of the medium (food, water, soil and air) through which these infectious agents enters the human system causing pathogenic diseases. Like drinking contaminated water, consuming spoiled food and contact with soil increases the chances of getting infected inhaling air with infectious microbe is also a major cause for concern for some of the harmful microbial diseases.

Breathing pure air is a challenging task in the present scenario as air is being polluted by various factors. Apart from these physical and chemical pollutants there is microbial flora present in the air.

Twelve new viruses fished from world's oceans

Posted on July 17, 2013 by Sarah CP Williams

Scoop a cup of water out of the Atlantic Ocean, the Pacific Ocean, or any sea in between, and you're sure to get more than just salty water. The sample will be teeming with algae, bacteria, and millions of viruses. Most of the viruses are phages; they infect bacteria and control how the bacteria grow and interact with their surroundings, making them a key player in the ocean's nutrient cycles. But phages have been studied far less than bacteria, and getting a handle on the ocean's viruses has been a slower-going process than characterizing the other life thriving in the waves. Now, scientists report in a PNAS Early Edition paper the discovery of twelve new genera of ocean-dwelling phages. The new phages were found in both deep and surface waters; both shoreline and open oceans.

“I was dumbfounded that there were twelve new genera,” says Matthew Sullivan of the University of Arizona, who led the new work. “And now that we have this initial data, we can start to look at different ecological patterns in different places where these phages are abundant.”

There’s no single gene that all viruses share, which makes it difficult to isolate all the viruses from a seawater sample. So Sullivan and his colleagues instead decided to isolate one particular aquatic bacteria, Cellulophaga baltica, from water collected out of the strait of Oresund between Sweden and Denmark. Cellulophaga had not been analyzed to see what phages it contained in the past, and is known to be common in not only the ocean, but soils, glacial ice, and even the human body.

Once the team had the bacteria, they cultured and grew it in the lab, then sequenced the genetic material it contained. Inside, they found 31 sequences that resembled viruses. Further analysis of the viral genomes revealed that the phages fell into 12 diverse groups, none of which had been identified before.

“When we normally talk about viral groups, they share at least half their genomes with each other,” says Sullivan. “But these viral genomes share less than three percent of their genomes with known viruses.”

The same Prophets that show the increase in knowledge for this generation also show that sin is the cause of the defilement we are suffering from in this present, prophesied generation, and will bring this world to an end.

Isayah 24:1-6

1 Before Yahweh's very Eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priest; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

Prove It!

Arrange to take test in this vast zone of high pressure in the firmament (atmosphere). Test the air at all levels for STDs and other damaged microorganisms. Also test the ocean waters at all depths for the same thing. You will see the following: this high pressure in the atmosphere off the west coast in the ocean and the atmosphere trying to cleanse itself. This occurs frequently and only lasts a short time. But death is increasing as the STDs multiply in all geographic areas of the earth and the firmament, and the cleansing is taking longer. It will eventually become impossible to cleanse, your tests will show better now while it's active. As sin continues to increase. death by STDs increases as well, building up in the soil, water and air.

Make these tests and you will find the real cause for the present droughts.

Our micro-kingdoms are becoming less and less capable of performing their duties. Their defense systems are becoming weaker and weaker as the STDs become more abundant and stronger.

So look for STDs such as HIV-AIDS that rape everything they come in contact with. The micro-kingdoms that produce rain are being raped and molested to the point it is preventing them from properly performing their assigned jobs. These micro-kingdoms play as important a part as the cattle kingdom. If cows are sick, they have a difficult time producing milk.

Sea-life depends on the micro-kingdoms to keep their habitat livable; otherwise, they get sick and helpless, and die.

When STDs attack and do harm to our micro-kingdoms, as we see them doing now, the micro-kingdoms suffer. As a result, we, who live off of their works suffer. Notice the final article.

Gonorrhea acquires a piece of human DNA

February 14, 2011

Microbiology

If a human cell and a bacterial cell met at a speed-dating event, they would never be expected to exchange phone numbers, much less genetic material. In more scientific terms, a direct transfer of DNA has never been recorded from humans to bacteria.

Until now. Northwestern Medicine researchers have discovered the first evidence of a human DNA fragment in a bacterial genome – in this case, Neisseria gonorrhoeae, the bacterium that causes gonorrhea. Further research showed the gene transfer appears to be a recent evolutionary event.

The discovery offers insight into evolution as well as gonorrhea's nimble ability to continually adapt and survive in its human hosts. Gonorrhea, which is transmitted through sexual contact, is one of the oldest recorded diseases and one of a few exclusive to humans.

"This has evolutionary significance because it shows you can take broad evolutionary steps when you're able to acquire these pieces of DNA," said study senior author Hank Seifert, professor of microbiology and immunology at Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine. "The bacterium is getting a genetic sequence from the very host it's infecting. That could have far reaching implications as far as how the bacteria can adapt to the host."

It's known that gene transfer occurs between different bacteria and even between bacteria and yeast cells. "But human DNA to a bacterium is a very large jump," said lead author Mark Anderson, a postdoctoral fellow in microbiology. "This bacterium had to overcome several obstacles in order to acquire this DNA sequence."

The paper will be published Feb. 14 in the online journal mBio.

The finding suggests gonorrhea's ability to acquire DNA from its human host may enable it to develop new and different strains of itself. "But whether this particular event has provided an advantage for the gonorrhoea bacterium, we don't know yet, " Seifert said.

Every year an estimated 700,000 people in the United States and 50 million worldwide acquire gonorrhoea.

We know for sure that what is defiling the earth, soil, water and firmament is caused by sin. Burning coal, oil or gas is not a sin. What we see in the previous article concerning gonorrhoea, is taking place in the micro-kingdoms. Gonorrhoea is caused by sinful acts, as are the many other STDs. That is what your bible says is causing the defilement of the earth and its inhabitants.

Isayah 24:1-6

1 Before Yahweh's very Eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

The religion that changed Yahweh's Laws is located on seven hills and is still filling the earth, soil, water and the heavens with STDs.

Revelation 17:1-7, 9, 18

1 And there came one of the seven Malakim who had the seven bowls, and talked with me, saying to me: Come, I will show you the sentence of the great whore that sits upon many waters,

2 With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication; practiced idolatry: godworship (the worship of elohim), and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 So he carried me away in the Spirit into the midst of godworshippers (worshippers of Elohim); and I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet colored beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet color, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication.

5 And upon her head was a name written: Mystery Babylon the great, the mother of the harlots and of the abominations of the earth.

6 And I saw the woman drunk with the blood of the Saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Yahshua. And when I saw her, I wondered with great astonishment.

7 And the Malak said to me: Why are you astonished? I will tell you the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carries her, which has the seven heads and ten horns.

9 And here is the mind which has wisdom: The seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman sits.

18 And the woman whom you saw, is that great city which reigns over the kings of the earth.

Revelation 18:1-5

1 And after these things I saw another Malak come down from heaven, having great authority; and the earth was enlightened with His glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying: Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of demons, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying: Come out of her, My people, so that you do not partake in her sins, and so that you do not receive of her plagues,

5 For her sins have reached unto heaven, and Yahweh has remembered her iniquities!

The evidence is in the vast zone of high pressure in the atmosphere off the West Coast that is nearly four miles high and 2,000 miles long.

I am praying to Yahweh that this time all of you scientists will find what you are looking for, the real cause of drought.

Drought Prompts Disaster Declarations in 11 States

LAS VEGAS January 16, 2014 (AP)

By MICHELLE RINDELS Associated Press

Federal officials have designated portions of 11 drought-ridden western and central states as primary natural disaster areas, highlighting the financial strain the lack of rain is likely to bring to farmers in those regions.

The announcement by the U.S. Department of Agriculture on Wednesday included counties in Colorado, New Mexico, Nevada, Kansas, Texas, Utah, Arkansas, Hawaii, Idaho, Oklahoma and California.

While storms have dumped rain and snow in the East, droughts are persisting or intensifying in the West, according to officials connected with the U.S. Drought Monitor, an index on which the USDA's declarations are based. A ridge of high pressure is to blame for keeping storms off the Pacific coast and guiding them to the East.

"What we're seeing meteorologically is a blocking pattern that is deflecting all the storms," said Brian Fuchs, a climatologist with the Lincoln, Neb.-based National Drought Mitigation Center. "There really hasn't been a lot of indication that this pattern is breaking down."

ABC News

I know the Prophecies of Yahweh are 100% accurate and they show so many details that have been fulfilled. The problem in this generation is that all religions have stopped studying the Scriptures and the majority of the people have turned to practicing sin. The practice of sin creates and mutates microorganisms that bring forth defilement to the body, soil, water and air. There is more defilement in this generation than at any time in man's history. That is why there are more curses that seem to be coming at us from the earth and all the surroundings that were made for mankind.

It seems as if the earth's elements are actually trying to drive out mankind (Leviticus 18:25). In actual fact, the earth is only trying to clean up the mess that mankind is causing.

Global Repentance Is Needed

The religions are all prospering at this time. Outside of their own sicknesses, which are growing, they think they will have a joyous life. Pain is increasing as the drugs fail to stand up to the challenge of the curses. Soon, you will be wishing that you had repented when I first set the Truth before you over fifty years ago. Many people are in such pain now, they are wanting to die. Many are saying, they are only kept alive by drugs.

All religions need to start calling now for national repentance for their sins. You need to start speaking out about the curses that are now upon the world because of sin—the transgressing of Yahweh's Laws.

I Yahchanan 3:4, 7-8, 10

4 Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Laws; for sin is the transgression of the Laws.

7 Little children, let no man deceive you; he who practices Righteousness is Righteous, just as He is Righteous.

8 He who commits sin is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of Yahweh was manifested; that He might destroy the works of the devil.

10 In this the Children of Yahweh and the children of the devil are manifest. Whoever does not practice Righteousness is not of Yahweh, and he does not love his neighbor!

Acts 3:19

Repent therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out; that times of refreshing may come from the Presence of Yahweh.

Revelation 22:12-14

12 And behold, I come quickly, and My Reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work will be.

13 I am the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End.

14 Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the City.

Mattithyah 24:29-30

29 Immediately, but after the Great Tribulation of those days will the sun be darkened, and the moon will not give her light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

30 And then will appear the sign of the Son of Man in heaven; and then will all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.

You could repent now and rejoice at the coming of Yahshua. He is coming in this generation. Did you see that?

Yes, Yahshua's coming is one of the things you will see in this generation.

Mattithyah 24:32-34

32 Now learn a parable from the fig tree: When its branch becomes tender and puts out leaves, you know that summer is near.

33 In the same way, when you see all these things, know that His coming and The End of the Ages are near, at the very door.

34 Truly I say to you: That generation will not pass away, until all these things are fulfilled.

Mattithyah 24:14

And this joyous Message of the Kingdom of Yahweh shall be preached in all the world from The House of Yahweh at Abel by the Witness Yisrayl; for Yahweh will be with him. He will preach this Message to all nations; and then The End will come.

This generation is about to end!

May Yahweh bless your understanding.
