

CHAPTER THREE

The Curses That The World Is Suffering From

It's only natural for mankind to trust in religions and believe that their teachings are coming from the Inspired Scriptures. But trusting in man's religions is exactly what we are told not to do by the Savior; by Yahweh, our Heavenly Father; and by all the Prophets and Apostles. They all warned of false religions that teach against the Laws of Yahweh.

Notice what the Apostle Yahchanan was inspired to write at least 35 years after the sacrifice of the Savior, Yahshua.

● I Yahchanan 2:4—

He who says: I know Him, but does not keep His Law, is a liar, and the Truth is not in him.

● I Yahchanan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

● I Yahchanan 3:7-8—

7 Little children, let no man deceive you; he who practices Righteousness is Righteous, just as He is Righteous.

8 He who commits sin is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of Yahweh was manifested; that He might destroy the works of the devil.

Everyone seems to know that sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws, and assumes the religions are teaching the world to keep these Laws written in the Inspired Scriptures. They could not be further from the truth. If you check what your religions teach, you will find that they are saying don't sin while they do away with Yahweh's Sabbaths, and support or condone sexual sins (fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality and bestiality) and murder, by what they prefer to call abortion.

The religions even teach that the Savior or the Apostles did away with Yahweh's Laws using the word fulfill as their proof, while passing up the Savior's plain Words concerning the keeping of Yahweh's Laws. Notice the Savior's Words in:

● Mattithyah 19:17—

But He said to him: Why do you question Me about Righteousness? There is only One Who is the Standard of Perfection, and He is Yahweh; so if you would enter into life, keep the Laws of Yahweh.

Notice what else He said:

● Mattithyah 5:17-19—

17 Do not even think that I have come to destroy the Laws or the Prophets; I have not come to destroy them, but to establish them.

18 For truly I say to you; Unless heaven and earth pass away, one yodh—the smallest of the letters—will in no way pass from the Law, until all things are perfected.

19 Whosoever, therefore, will break one of the least of these Laws, and will teach men so, he will be called before the Judges and cut off from the Kingdom of Yahweh; but whosoever will do and teach them, the same will be called before the Judges and proclaimed great in the Kingdom of Yahweh.

Notice verse 18. Have heaven and earth passed away? No! This verse alone proves today's religions false. Keep those Scriptures in mind and look at:

● Mattithyah 7:15—

Beware of false prophets who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

So, who is the Savior saying is a false prophet or priest?

● Mattithyah 7:21—

Not everyone who says to Me; Teacher! Teacher! will enter into the Kingdom of Yahweh, but only he who does the Will of My Father Who is in heaven.

So, who will enter Yahweh's Kingdom?

● Mattithyah 7:22-23—

22 Many will say to Me in that day; Teacher! Teacher! Have we not prophesied in Your Name, and cast out demons in Your Name, and in Your Name performed many wonderful works?

23 But then I will declare to them; I never knew you. Get away from Me, you who practice iniquity; you who break the Laws of Yahweh!

According to the Greek dictionary in Strong's Exhaustive Concordance, the word iniquity is word #458 from word #459, and means transgression of the law, not subject to the law.

458. ἀνομία anōmia, an-om-ee'-ah; from 459; illegality, i.e. violation of law or (gen.) wickedness:—iniquity. × transgress (-ion of) the law, unrighteousness.

459. ἀνομος anōmōs, an'-om-os; from α (as a neg. particle) and 3551; lawless, i.e. (neg.) not subject to (the Jewish) law; (by impl. a Gentile), or (pos.) wicked:—without law, lawless, transgressor, unlawful, wicked.

You should read verses 22-23 again. They are the Words of the Savior to you, or anyone seeking the Truth or Salvation. Ignoring the Savior's Words is a sure way of losing out on a position in Yahweh's Kingdom.

● Galatians 6:7-8—

7 Do not be deceived, Yahweh is not mocked; for whatever a man sows, that will he also reap.

8 For he who sows to his flesh, from the flesh will reap corruption; but he who sows to Yahweh, from Yahweh will reap everlasting life.

The Apostle Shaul, say many preachers, did away with the Laws, saying that the Savior did it all for you, so you do not need to keep Yahweh's Laws. Obviously, the Apostle's Inspired Words prove the preachers wrong.

● Romans 2:13—

For not the hearers of the Law are the Righteous in the sight of Yahweh, but the doers of the Law are the Righteous.

● Romans 6:16—

Do you not know that to whom you yield yourselves as servants to obey, his servants you are whom you obey—whether of sin, which leads to death, or of obedience, which leads to Righteousness?

● Hebrews 10:26—

For if we sin willfully after we have received the Knowledge of the Truth, there no longer remains a sacrifice for sins,

● Romans 3:31—

Are we then doing away with the Law through the Faith? By no means! Rather, we establish the Law!

● Romans 7:7,12—

7 What? Can anyone therefore say that the Law is sin? No! By no means! But to the contrary, I did not know sin; transgression of the Law, except through the Law, for I did not know lust, unless the Law had said: Do not covet.

12 Therefore the Law is Holy, and the Commandments are Holy, and Just, and Righteous.

The last revelation given to mankind after the Savior was sacrificed is the Book of Revelation. The Book of Revelation was given to show the Last Days' Work of Yahweh and the Great Tribulation that mankind is bringing upon himself by his conduct in these Last Days. It's also speaking of the coming of the Savior and the Great White Throne Judgment when everyone will be sentenced according to what their works have been. The sentence is plainly given in:

● Revelation 20:10-15—

10 And the devil, who deceived them; seduced and led them astray, was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet had been cast, and will be tormented a day and a night because of the ages.

11 And I saw a Great White Throne, and Him Who sat on it, from Whose Face the powers of the earth and the powers of the heavens, including the gods (elohim), were driven away; for the verdict was reached that there is no place for them.

12 And I saw the dead, small and great, standing before Yahweh. And the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is The Book of Life. And the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works.

13 And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and Death and Sheol; the grave, delivered up the dead which were in them. And they were judged, every man, according to his works.

14 And Death and Sheol were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.

15 And whoever was not found written in The Book of Life was cast into the lake of fire.

The Savior, Yahshua, reiterated this Prophecy and warning again in the last chapter of Revelation.

● Revelation 22:12-14—

12 And behold, I come quickly, and My Reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work will be.

13 I am the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End.

14 Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the City.

Turning From The 613 Laws Of Yahweh Has Brought Suffering Upon The World

There are 613 Laws in the Inspired Scriptures. Those Laws are proven to bring peace. Yahweh, the Creator, assures us that if we will teach and follow His Laws they will not only bring peace but will also turn the hearts of adults and children away from the violent behavior we see becoming the norm in today's world. The violent attitude we see in today's world is found in all walks of life. This attitude of hatred, bitterness, and aggressiveness leads to the separation of families, school shootings and the serenity with which we accept wars in this time period.

The Inspired Scriptures show that the 613 Laws of Yahweh will stop the defilement of the body which will also free the mind and heart, allowing them to work properly. In that way, men and women will be able to start making rational decisions.

Sin Brings Defilement; Defilement Brings Sickness; Sickness Brings Confusion; Confusion Brings Mistakes

The Inspired Scriptures show that the Laws of Yahweh are a guide to a healthy mind and body. Breaking them brings what we call sickness and disease and what the Inspired Scriptures call curses.

Yahweh said if these Laws are followed they will take sickness away from you.

● Exodus 23:25—

And you shall serve Yahweh your Father, and He will bless your bread and your water, and He will take sickness away from the midst of you.

● Deuteronomy 28:1-5—

1 And it will be, if you will listen diligently to the Voice of Yahweh your Father, by observing and doing all His Laws which I command you this day, that Yahweh your Father will set you high above all the nations on earth as His Kings and Priests.

2 And all these blessings will come upon you, and accompany you, because you obey Yahweh your Father:

3 Blessed will you be in the city, and blessed will you be in the country.

4 Blessed will be the fruit of your body, the produce of your ground, and the young of your livestock: the calves of your herds and the lambs of your flocks.

5 Blessed will be your basket and your storehouse.

● Deuteronomy 7:14-15—

14 You shall be blessed above all peoples. There shall not be a male or female barren among you, nor among your livestock.

15 Yahweh will take away from you all sickness. You will not be afflicted with any of the diseases you knew in Egypt, but they will afflict those who hate you.

There is another warning that goes with the above information given by the Savior and Apostles, warning us all against sin.

● Yahchanan 5:14—

Afterward, Yahshua found him in the sacred precincts of The House of Yahweh, and said to him: Behold, you are healed. Sin no more, or a worse thing will come upon you.

● Yahchanan 8:34-35—

34 Yahshua answered them: Truly, truly, I say to you: Whoever commits sin is the servant of sin.

35 He who serves; worships, obeys, the gods (elohim) will not remain in The House of Yahweh forever; a son of Yahweh—a Righteous Man or Saint—will remain in The House of Yahweh forever!

The Savior is showing that the more we sin, the more suffering it causes. So sin is the cause of sickness and disease. When we compare the Inspired Words of the Apostle Shaul with the Savior's Words, we see the cause of most of today's curses: STDs, sickness and disease.

● I Corinthians 6:18—

Flee sexual immorality! All other sins that a man commits are outside his body; but he who sins sexually, sins against his own body.

The Apostles, being taught by the Savior, knew 2,000 years ago that sexual immorality caused sickness and disease to the body. Now notice the following Scriptures.

● I Timothy 1:9—

Knowing this: That the Law is not only laid down for a Righteous man, but also for the lawless and disobedient, for the unrighteous and for sinners, for the unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers.

● I Timothy 1:10, KJV—

For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for menstealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrine.

The word defile actually means to bring down the strength of one's body and mind, to make one less than what he/she was or could be.

Compare the above with the following.

● Romans 1:18-32—

18 For the Justice of Yahweh is revealed from heaven concerning all unholiness and unrighteousness of men or women, who suppress the Truth in unrighteousness.

19 For that which is known about Yahweh is manifest to them, because Yahweh has shown it to them.

20 For since the creation of the world, the invisible things of Him are clearly seen—His Eternal Power and Holiness—being understood by the things that are written; so that they are without excuse.

21 Because that, when they knew Yahweh, they did not glorify Him as Father, nor were thankful, but became idolatrous; godworshippers (worshippers of elohim), in their reasoning, and their senseless minds were darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools; simpletons,

23 And exchanged the Glory of the Incorruptible Father for images, made to resemble corruptible man, and birds, four-footed beasts, and creeping things.

24 Therefore, Yahweh also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own minds, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves:

25 Who exchanged the Truth of Yahweh for the lie; lords (baalim), gods, goddesses (elohim) and demons, and worshiped and served the creation, rather than the Creator, Who is blessed forever. Praise Yahweh! HalleluYahweh!

26 For this reason it came to pass that they gave themselves up to degrading passions: for even their women exchanged the natural use into that which is against nature.

27 And the men did the same thing: leaving the natural use of the woman, they burned in their lusts for one another; men committing shameful acts with men, and suffering in their own bodies the penalty for their error, which is their fitting reward.

28 And so, since they did not like to retain Yahweh in their knowledge, it came to pass that they were given over to deadly diseases that damaged their brains, robbing them of Righteous Judgment, thus doing those things which are perverted;

29 Causing to arise all unrighteousness, sexual impurity, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; total envy, murder, strife, deceit, and malice. They even practice sorcery and witchcraft to protect themselves from these deadly plagues,

30 They are backbiters; slanderers, haters of Yahweh, despiteful, arrogant, and boastful, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 And without understanding. They are Covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable; truce breakers, and unmerciful:

32 Who, knowing the Righteous Judgment of Yahweh, that those who practice such things deserve death, not only continue to do these very things, but also approve of those who practice them.

● I Corinthians 6:9—

Do you not know that the unrighteous will not inherit the Kingdom of Yahweh? Do not deceive yourselves. Neither fornicators, nor godworshippers (worshippers of elohim), nor adulterers, nor men who commit sexual perversions with boys, nor men who commit sexual perversions with other men.

All of the above mentioned sins are shown and condemned in the Laws of Yahweh.

Until The House of Yahweh was established in this generation, no religion on earth taught or practiced keeping the Laws of Yahweh; not the Jews, Moslems, Christians, Buddhists, Hinduists, Taoists, Shintoists, or any others.

Since the invention and distribution of television in this last generation, all morals in all cultures, education and religion, have dropped to zero. Before the advent of television, certain women were protected from sins such as illegal lust, fornication and adultery. Much of sodomy and bestiality were hidden sins of evil men who hoped they would never be found out. Television started exposing more boldly the gods and goddesses of Hollywood in the late 1940s, and by the 1960s illegal lust was out of control. Women became sex objects. Dresses went from modest to flamboyant in only a few years. The Laws forbidding fornication and adultery were quickly forgotten by the religions. Sodomy became more prominent and acceptable, stemming from the same evil and death that bestiality is now coming from.

With television on the scene only a few years, the religions of the world completely gave up the last Laws that were holding back the devastating curses mankind is facing today. Following the same sex trade pattern of Hollywood, came the media that promotes illegal sexual activities (internet, songs, books, magazines). Each of these adds more curses to the world and wreck the family unit. One of those curses has claimed millions of lives in the past twenty-five years, as we see in the following articles.

World AIDS Day, 2006: 25 Years of AIDS, 25 Million Reasons to Take Action

This June marked the 25th anniversary of the discovery of HIV/AIDS, although for all intents and purposes, the brief mention of five cases of rare pneumonia in young homosexual men in the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report could hardly be called a discovery then, as the disease it documented had no name, no treatment, and provided no hint at the worldwide devastation the illness would cause in the next quarter century.

Since that fateful report on the 5th of June, 1981, HIV/AIDS has claimed the lives of over 25 million people worldwide.

www.huffingtonpost.com

Aids Pandemic Spreading To Every Corner Of Globe, Says UN

65 million people have been infected worldwide. Countries response is 'nowhere near adequate'

Horror Toll From AIDS

More people die from HIV/AIDS every month than in the Indian Ocean tsunami, an expert says.

Professor Robert Gallo, who helped identify the HIV virus nearly 25 years ago, points out 250,000 people die from it each month, while 230,000 people died in the tsunami.

mirror.co.uk

The Entire World Is Suffering From The Pain Of Sexual Sins

Breaking Yahweh's Laws against fornication, adultery, homosexuality and bestiality has caused confusion of the mind to the point that people from all walks of life have trouble making rational decisions. This alone causes hatred and even murder in many cases, even among families and loved ones.

The curses that come from the breaking of Yahweh's Laws may not be immediately apparent. But like an embryo planted in the mother's womb, viruses, parasites, and microorganisms, what Scripture refers to as creeping things, planted by fornication, adultery, homosexuality and bestiality in the same garden, start to grow and multiply. The curses that follow are extreme. Notice the following articles:

History Of An Epidemic

There is now an epidemic of syphilis in Eastern Europe and those at greatest risk are adolescent and young adult women and men. Between 1990 and 1996, syphilis rates increased 48-fold among Russians, and among teenagers it increased 68-fold. Syphilis cases have also skyrocketed in Belarus, Moldova and Ukraine since 1990. It is not surprising, therefore, that many mothers whose children are up for adoption may have a history of syphilis.

www.orphandoctor.com

Sexually Transmitted Diseases on the Rise

ATLANTA—...sexually transmitted diseases - syphilis and chlamydia - are on the rise, federal health officials said Tuesday.

In 2004, about 64 percent of reported early-stage syphilis infections occurred among men who had sex with men, up from 5 percent in 1999, according to the CDC.

Chlamydia is the most common... A total of 930,000 cases were reported last year. But health officials believe as many as 2.8 million new cases may actually be occurring each year.

www.newsmax.com

"In the United States, more than 65 million people are currently living with an incurable STD. An additional 15 million people become infected each year." —Center for Disease Control

History of STDs

Pre 1960's: Syphilis and Gonorrhea were the only major STDs

1976: Chlamydia first recognized

1981: AIDS identified

1982: Herpes became very prevalent

1992: PID or Pelvic Inflammatory Disease recognized

1996: HPV or Human Papilloma Virus recognized as the cause of 90% of all cervical cancer and is the reason for yearly PAP smears

1980-present: 8 NEW diseases identified including HIV

*It is important to note that this is not just a case of medical science diagnosing what has existed all along. These are NEW diseases, caused by sexual activity with multiple partners. Viruses continue to mutate and multiply all the while becoming more resistant to treatment.

Syphilis Increases Nationally

Syphilis continues to increase among men in the United States, driven primarily by gay men, according to the latest annual data on sexually transmitted diseases (STDs). The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) released the report during a telephone news conference.

The CDC estimates that 19 million STD infections occur every year, said, Ronald O. Valdiserri, MD MPH, acting director for HIV, STD and TB prevention at that agency.

The report focused on syphilis, gonorrhea, and chlamydia, each of which increases the risk of HIV transmission.

www.windycitymediagroup.com

Chlamydia widespread, easily overlooked

By Cassie Blombaum

Arizona Daily Wildcat

Hiding in parts of the cervix and penis, chlamydia is one of the most abundant sexually transmitted diseases in the nation, but it is often overlooked.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Web site, chlamydia is the most frequently reported sexually transmitted disease in the United States...

Chlamydia is a common STD caused by bacteria that affects the cervix in women and the urethra at the tip of the penis in men, but symptoms are often mild or nonexistent, said Faye Libbey, a nurse practitioner in the Women's Health Clinic at Campus Health Service.

According to CDC reports, approximately 75 percent of women and half of all men infected with the STD do not experience any symptoms.

"For men, they could get an infection in their prostate or testicles, which may have started when they were in college and they may not experience symptoms until they are much older," Libbey said.

Herpes Encephalitis (herpes in the brain)

Encephalitis is a condition where the brain becomes inflamed due to a virus or other types of infections. One kind of virus that can cause encephalitis is herpes simplex type I.

Although herpes simplex type I most often causes mild symptoms like cold sores and fever blisters, it can occasionally travel to the brain and cause encephalitis.

If left untreated, herpes encephalitis can result in death.
herpes-coldsores.com

A lethal link—herpes and HIV

Forrest Caskey

As your immune system thumbs through its little black book of past relationships with various viruses and ailments, one name stands boldly alone, crossed out and rewritten countless numbers of times genital herpes, otherwise known as HSV-2. Recent studies are showing that HSV-2 is forming an unhealthy romance with another antagonist partner: HIV. Individuals who test positive for genital herpes are now twice as likely to contract HIV.

"...The virus is spread by skin-to-skin contact, thus resulting in the high number of people contracting herpes each year," says George Froehle, community educator for the HIV Prevention Trials Unit in Seattle.

In the United States alone, that means 500,000 new cases of herpes transmission per year. Already, more than 50 million Americans, or 20 percent of the adult population, have contracted genital herpes; among the gay community, the number rises to 40 percent.

Froehle stresses the importance of getting checked for HSV-2 by saying, "80 percent of people with genital herpes do not know they have it. Many people do not have symptoms and don't think to get checked."

In those who don't develop symptoms, such as sores, HSV-2 quietly lives in the base of the spinal cord. Though silent, the virus is far from dormant and can easily be transmitted through contact.

Without a noticeable sore, the danger is still there—just not as apparent.

www.gay.com

A Common STD Increases HIV Risk

U.S. and African researchers say they found a significantly increased risk of HIV infection among women with a sexually transmitted disease. The common STD, trichomoniasis, is caused by the parasite Trichomonas vaginalis, which infects more than 170 million people worldwide each year.

Their results show a 1.5-fold increased risk of HIV infection among women with trichomoniasis.

yahoo.com

CDC Says Gonorrhea Is Drug-Resistant

The sexually transmitted disease gonorrhea is now among the "superbugs" resistant to common antibiotics leading U.S. health officials to recommend wider use of a different class of drugs to avert a public health crisis.

newyorktimes.com

What Has Caused The Rise In STDs In This Generation?

The fear of sickness and disease faded with the discovery of antibiotics, such as penicillin. The science world convinced mankind that it could find a cure for every curse. Therefore, mankind cast caution aside, and obedience to the Laws of prevention they forgot. Even the few words of the preachers were ignored. Preachers who were faithful in any way to the Word of Yahweh were fired and replaced by ones who would join in the fulfilling of unrighteous lusts.

Then fifty years ago, television came into the home. It became the number one educator of this generation throughout the world, teaching violence and unlawful sexual relations through enticing and increasingly graphic movies. Preachers, laymen, and even young children have turned to lust, breaking these Laws of protection given to mankind by Yahweh, the Creator. As a result of sin, they are suffering in their bodies.

Please notice in the following articles that improper use of sexual activity is what causes and spreads these diseases.

Multiple Sex Partners Indicates Trouble For Teens

Teenage girls who have sex with more than one partner in a short period of time are likely to engage in other risk behaviors such as fighting, binge drinking, smoking cigarettes, using cocaine or sniffing glue, according to results from a national survey of American high school youth.

Having sexual intercourse with multiple partners increases the risk of pregnancy, sexually transmitted diseases and resulting damage to reproductive health. Other studies have shown that girls are starting to have sex at younger ages, and an earlier start to sexual intercourse often leads to multiple sexual partner behavior.

From Health Behavior News Service

Chlamydia: Silent Disease

In the Philippines, chlamydia is the most common bacterial sexually transmitted infection (STI). In 2001, the Department of Health (DOH) reported some 2.2 to 3.1 million cases of chlamydia in the country. In comparison, only 482,000 cases of gonorrhea and 80,000 cases of syphilis occurred in the same year.

The disease occurs among sexually active men and women who have sex with multiple partners, especially in those who practice unsafe sex. "Higher prevalence of chlamydia is common among female adolescents between the ages of 24 and 27," says Dr. Fabre-Teste.

www.sunstar.com

Americans Fail To Protect Against STDs, Study Says

WASHINGTON—Americans may say they know a lot about sexually transmitted diseases but they do not practice what they preach when it comes to defending against them, according to a survey published Tuesday.

While one in four Americans will be infected with an STD—and up to half of younger adults will be—most of those surveyed believed they were not personally at risk.

This is precisely why STDs spread so easily and so pervasively in society, said the American Social Health Association, which published the survey.

STDs cause a range of long-term problems. Human wart virus or HPV is the main cause of cervical cancer, while bacterial infections such as gonorrhea or chlamydia can cause infertility in women.

They often have no symptoms and people are often unaware they are infected.

STDs including the AIDS virus, gonorrhea, syphilis, and chlamydia are transmitted orally, anally and vaginally.

In the United States, heterosexual contact is the primary means by which HIV is transmitted now.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says there were 18.9 million new cases of STDs in 2000, of which 9.1 million or 48 percent were among teens and adults aged 15 to 24. That means one-third of all sexually active young adults and teens contracted an STD in 2000 alone.

Reuters.com

Study: Divorced Women Have More Illness

Women may give up more than a husband by divorcing—they may also lose some of their good health, according to a study by Iowa State University. The study, spanning 10 years, focused on what happens to rural women's health after their marriage ends, compared with women who stay married, said Fred Lorenz, who coauthored the report.

A decade later, the divorced women reported 37 percent more physical illness, but no difference in psychological stress that could be directly linked to the divorce, said Lorenz, who coauthored the study with K.A.S. Wickrama, Rand Conger and Glen Elder. The research was conducted out of the Institute for Social and Behavioral Research based at Iowa State.

The women in the study marked off illnesses from a list of 46 choices—ranging from the common cold and sore throat to heart conditions and cancer.

NewsMax.com

The Last Taboo? Europeans Pay Big For Barnyard Sex

Denmark's animal bordellos—in which people pay for sex with horses and other beasts—are advertizing on the Net and drawing customers from as far away as Norway, Germany, Holland and Sweden.

wnd.com

Because Of The Increase Of Sin

The Laws that guide mankind away from sickness and disease that were once taught by thousands of preachers all over the world stopped being taught in the 1950s when television programs started teaching seduction, calling it elopement. Television programs made the world think it is a Righteous act to seduce a man's daughter or wife.

The following definitions come from Webster's Dictionary.

se-duce (sĭ-dōōs') vt. -duced, -duc-ing, 1 to tempt to wrongdoing 2 to entice into unlawful sexual intercourse, esp. for the first time — se-duc'er n. — se-duc'tion n. — se-duc'tive adj. — se-duc'tress n. fem.

e-lope (ĭ-lōp') intr.v. e-loped, e-lop-ing, e-loses. 1. To run away secretly, esp. in order to get married. — e-lope'ment n.

The preachers tried to take a stand against this evil in the 1950s but were quickly relocated by their churches or were fired. These preachers were usually employed by big church corporations. Preachers of independent churches were outnumbered and after a short fight and the loss of their congregations, they stopped teaching about the drop in morals and started teaching about holidays and fantasy. Therefore, sin has been allowed to increase over the past fifty years.

With the increase of sin—seduction, fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality and bestiality—comes the increase of STDs. Many of the STDs can enter the mind and create toxins that confuse the mind. This confusion is identified in Scripture as Babylon. Babylon is word #894 in the Hebrew dictionary of Strong's Exhaustive Concordance.

894. בָּבֶל Bābel, baw-bel'; from 1101; confusion; Babel (i.e. Babylon), including Babylonia and the Bab. empire:—Babel, Babylon.

As sin increases so do the STDs. As STDs increase so do confusion or Babylon and the number of the mentally disabled. Confusion, hatred, violence, and war all increase.

Birth Defects In The Children Because Of The Sins Of The Parents

Not only do people cause diseases to take place in their own bodies when they break Yahweh's Law, they also cause diseases in their offspring.

Could it reach you, your children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren? The answer is, yes; and it will in the next few months, according to Prophecy. Notice the excerpts from the following articles. Look closely at the pictures of these innocent victims. It's coming your way if it's not already there. It's growing like the pains of a woman with child.

The Tiny Victims of Desert Storm

Photography by Derek Hudson

Text by Kenneth Miller

Reporting by Jimmie Briggs

Kennedi

Kennedi was born without a thyroid. Her face is grotesquely swollen, sprinkled with red, knotted lumps. What disfigures her features, however, is another congenital condition: hemangiomas, benign tumors made of tangled blood vessels. [Her parents] suspect that Kennedi's troubles have their origins in the Gulf, where [her father] served as an Army paratrooper. ...he faced a mind-boggling array of environmental hazards. Like an estimated 45,000 of his comrades, he has developed symptoms linked to an elusive affliction known as Gulf War syndrome. Kennedi's dad, Darrell, tested positive for radiation exposure, but unless his testes are dissected no link to her condition can be proved.

Lea

Spina bifida cripples her legs. Her upper body is so weak that she can't push herself in a wheelchair on carpeting. To strengthen her bones, she spends hours in a contraption that holds her upright. Her father went to the Gulf as a civilian helicopter mechanic.

Jayce

Jayce was born with hands and feet attached to twisted stumps. He also had a hole in his heart, a hemophilia-like blood condition and underdeveloped ear canals. Doctors recently amputated his legs at the knees to make it easier to fit him with prosthetics.

Casey

Casey was born with

Goldenhar's syndrome, characterized by a lopsided head and spine. His left ear was missing, his digestive tract disconnected. Trying to repair his scrambled innards, surgeons at Walter Reed Army Medical Center damaged his vocal cords and colon...His parents feed him and remove his wastes through holes in his belly.

In a conference room at the Womack Army Medical Center in Fort Bragg, NC...Army Sgt. John Mabus has brought along his babies, Zachary and Andrew, who suffer from an incomplete fusion of the skull.

...Pentagon bureaucrats are quick to cite a statistic that drives these parents wild: At least 3 percent of American babies are born with abnormalities.

The Association of Birth Defect Children says it has found the first cluster of defects in the offspring of U.S. Gulf War veterans: 10 babies with severe Goldenhar's syndrome, a condition that usually strikes one in 26,000.

Of the 400 sick vets who had already answered committee inquiries, a startling 65 percent reported birth defects or immune-system problems in children conceived after the war.

According to a 1994 report by the General Accounting Office American soldiers were exposed to 21 potential "reproductive toxicants," any of which might have harmed them or their future children. Some physicians who have treated Gulf vets believe they may be suffering from a general overload of chemical pollutants—and their body fluids are actually toxic. (Indeed, many veterans' wives are sick; a few complain that their husbands' semen blisters their skin.) Some chemicals, such as mustard gas, have been shown to affect sperm production...

www.life.com

Neonatal Conjunctivitis And Pneumonia Due To C. Trachomatis

Neonatal conjunctivitis...is a conjunctivitis of the eyes of the new-born caused by bacterial infection. Usually the infection is derived from the mother's genital tract at birth... The observation of chlamydial neonatal conjunctivitis which developed three days after a child was born by Caesarian section with intact amniotic membranes suggests the possibility also of a rare transplacental or transmembrane route of infection. This article is concerned solely with sexually acquired neonatal chlamydial conjunctivitis.

In the developed world, Chlamydia trachomatis is a much commoner cause of sexually acquired neonatal conjunctivitis than the gonococcus, except in certain focal inner city areas. Approximately a third to a half of infants born through a chlamydial infected birth canal will develop neonatal conjunctivitis...

Typically, neonatal chlamydial conjunctivitis has an incubation period of 10 - 14 days compared with the much shorter 2-3 days incubation for gonococcal ophthalmia. The orbit of the eye is usually quite swollen, and there is a mucoid discharge which is less frankly purulent than that usually seen with overt gonococcal ophthalmia. It does NOT respond well to treatment with chloramphenicol eye ointment... As the causative organism is a sexually transmitted infection, it is vital to ensure that the mother and her sexual partner(s) are also treated.

If left untreated, approximately 10-20% of infants will develop neonatal pneumonia [Beem & Saxon, 1977], a condition sometimes termed the Beem & Saxon syndrome. C. trachomatis pneumonia acquired at birth is thought to account for some 20-30% of all hospitalized pneumonia in infants less than 6 months old.

Infants with untreated chlamydial pneumonia shed C. trachomatis and are symptomatic for many weeks. However soon after commencement of appropriate treatment, such infants cease to shed the organism and generally progress to complete clinical cure [Beem et al., 1979]. Erythromycin and the newer macrolides appear to be relatively effective for interrupting vertical transmission to the baby [Black-Payne et al., 1990] and for treating neonatal conjunctivitis [Hammerschlag et al., 1998]. However, silver nitrate or erythromycin as ocular prophylaxis agents to prevent chlamydial or gonococcal eye infection in the newborn have a significant failure rate [Ratelle et al., 1997].

www.chlamydiae.com 5/28/04

All children do not show the diseases at or near birth, but they are present when both parents, or even one parent, have broken Yahweh's Laws. These diseases will make their presence known sooner or later. They can appear from one to fifty years later in the child's life.

Acquiring Herpes Late In Pregnancy Brings Special Dangers To The Newborn

SEATTLE, WA—While there is never a good time to acquire a herpes infection, contracting the virus late in pregnancy can prove catastrophic for the newborn child, with a high risk of severe brain damage or death from neonatal herpes.

The increased risk to the baby when the virus is acquired late in pregnancy comes because there is insufficient time for the mother to form antibodies to the virus (which takes four to eight weeks) and pass them to the baby before starting labor. With earlier infection, antibodies are passed through the placenta, giving the baby some degree of protection. Without antibodies, the child is highly susceptible to acquiring the virus in the birth canal. With its "naive" immune system, explained Brown, the baby has few resources to fight the virus.

Once infected, babies don't show symptoms for five to 21 days. "Once the baby is symptomatic," said Brown, "it's too late to avert damage, and we're much less likely to contain the infection. Babies have no defenses."

Unlike gonorrhea or syphilis, herpes is not a reportable infection, noted Brown, so there are no national statistics. Estimated rates of neonatal herpes vary throughout the country; in the Northwest, it occurs about once in 2,000 live births; about half of those infants die or suffer brain-damage.

"It's treatable, but often undetected," Brown said. "Mother and baby have usually left the hospital, and the first symptoms are just listlessness and irritability. A couple of days later, there are seizures, but by that time, significant brain damage has occurred.

"In women, there may be no recognizable symptoms," added Brown. "Until now, it was thought that the primary infection brought numerous lesions, headache and flu-like symptoms. But such cases are the tip of the iceberg. About two-thirds of women don't have any idea that they've just gotten herpes; therefore, they're at risk to transmit it to their babies. We have to have some way of diagnosing the mother who's susceptible, and test her partner as well. Even if you can't prevent her from acquiring the infection, at least you know she is at risk."

www.pslgroup.com

What Is Congenital Syphilis?

Congenital syphilis occurs in children whose mothers have had syphilis while they were pregnant. When a pregnant woman has syphilis that has not been treated, she may transmit the infection to her baby.

Twenty percent of babies with congenital syphilis are stillborn or die in the first few weeks of life. About 60% of babies with congenital syphilis have no symptoms at birth. Most babies are diagnosed before 3 months of age, although symptoms can appear any time in the first 2 years.

www.orphandoctor.com

Bullae and a vesicular rash on the sole of the foot

Congenital Syphilis

by Richard B. Roberts, M.D.

This disease process begins at 18 to 20 weeks of gestation, when the immune system is capable of responding. The disease is systemic and does not go through the primary syphilis stage. A stillborn fetus may result, and for those babies that have onset at delivery, the prognosis is poor. Those who survive usually present with the disease 2 to 6 weeks after delivery. Eighty percent of these infants have the disease by 3 to 4 months of age and 20 to 60 percent have cutaneous lesions. Lesions are similar to those seen in the adult.

The cutaneous lesions predominate and are often prominent in the plantar region. Bullous and vesicular lesions may also occur. Early congenital syphilis may include bilateral symmetric mucous patches, snuffles (a profuse nasal discharge containing large amounts of Treponema); osteochondritis or periostitis in the long bones (seen in 75-100% of children and therefore a good diagnostic indicator seen on X-ray) evidenced as a moth eaten appearance at the distal ends of bones.

Hutchinson's teeth - peg-shaped upper incisors

Late Congenital Syphilis

Patients may have any one of the following findings: Hutchinson's teeth (only permanent teeth are affected)—notching of teeth, with widely spaced, peg-shaped teeth. The two front teeth can be shaped like screwdrivers. Interstitial Keratitis—inflammation of the cornea; may lead to scarring. Clutton's joints—hydrarthrosis of the knee, causing bilateral degeneration. Mulberry Molar—abnormality in cusp and enamel formation. Rhagades—abnormal fine pattern of scarring in the lower part of the face in people who had snuffles and were not treated. The invasion of Treponema undermines the development of soft tissue. Sabre shin (convex bowing of the tibia) and saddle nose from osteochondritis and perichondritis.

U.S. has second worst newborn death rate in modern world, report says—Research: 2 million babies die in first 24 hours each year worldwide

Congenital Syphilis

An infection caused by the spirochete Treponema pallidum (syphilis) passed from mother to children during fetal development or birth.

Causes, incidence, and risk factors

Expectant mothers who are infected with syphilis can transmit the disease through the placenta to their unborn infants. Congenital syphilis is a severe, disabling, and often life-threatening condition for the infant. Nearly half of all children infected with syphilis during gestation die shortly before or after birth.

Infants who survive develop early-stage and late-stage symptoms of syphilis if not treated. Early-stage symptoms include irritability, failure to thrive and nonspecific fever. Some infants develop a rash and lesions (sores) on the borders of the mouth, anus and genitalia (called condyloma lata).

Some of these lesions may resemble the wart-like lesion of adult syphilis. A small percentage of infants have a watery nasal discharge (snuffles) and a saddle nose deformity resulting from infection in the cartilage of the nose. Bone lesions are common, especially in the upper arm (humerus).

Runny nose (rhinitis) known as snuffles, a macular rash and mucus patches

Later signs appear as tooth abnormalities (Hutchinson's teeth), bone changes (saber shins), neurological involvement, blindness and deafness. ...rising rates of syphilis amongst pregnant women in the United States have recently increased the number of infants born with congenital syphilis.

NEWBORN symptoms

- Irritability
- Failure to gain weight or failure to thrive
- Watery discharge from nose
- Early rash
 - Small blisters (vesicles) on the palms and soles
- Later rash
 - Copper-colored, flat or bumpy (maculopapular) rash on the face, palms, soles
- Rash at the junction of the skin and mucus membranes of the mouth, genitalia, and anus
- No bridge to nose

OLDER INFANT AND YOUNG CHILD

- Bone pain
- Refusal to move a painful extremity
- Saber shins (bone abnormality of the lower leg)
- Joint swelling (joint effusion)
- Abnormal teeth (called Hutchinson's teeth)
- Scarring of the skin around earlier lesions on the mouth, genitalia, and anus (called rhagades)
- Visual loss
- Clouding of the cornea
- Decreased hearing or deafness
- Gray mucous like patches on the anus and outer vagina www.nlm.nih.gov

Schizophrenia Linked To Sexually Transmitted Disease

Babies born to mothers who have active genital herpes are at increased risk of developing psychotic illnesses such as schizophrenia when they grow up.

Although they have not explained the link, Stephen Buka at the Harvard School of Public Health and his team say there is a significant association between the two. They believe infants catch herpes during pregnancy, or delivery, and that the infection may trigger psychosis in genetically susceptible people later in life.

newscientist.com

The Apostle Shaul was inspired to write that fornication harms one's body.

● I Corinthians 6:18—

Flee sexual immorality (fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality, bestiality)! All other sins that a man commits are outside his body; but he who sins sexually, sins against his own body.

In the Book of Revelation, it describes the religions in the Last Days that Yahweh warns us to come out from among them so that we will not suffer from the plagues caused by their sins.

● Revelation 18:3-4—

3 For all nations have drunk of the cup of her destruction because of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying: Come out of her, My People, so that you do not partake in her sins, and so that you do not receive of her plagues,

Notice what the word plagues implies. These plagues are all caused by sin (fornication, adultery, sodomy, etc.). This information is evidence that the whole world is plagued by the curses of sin at this time. Look closely at this list of plagues and you will find what your doctor told you was causing your pain, then remember that it all started with sin.

plague, n.—Syn. Epidemic, Black Death, influenza; see disease. —Syn. Sickness, malady, ailment, illness, indisposition, unhealthiness, disorder, condition, complaint, spell, distemper, unsoundness, infirmity, affection, visitation, morbidity, pathological case, psychosomatic illness, epidemic, plague, pestilence, infection, virus, contagion, affliction, complication, syndrome, fever, nervous disorder, functional disorder, pathological condition, attack, seizure, collapse, breakdown, pathology, symptomatology, but*, temperature*; see also illness 1. Ant. health, strength, vigor.

Specific diseases include — diseases affecting various organs or the body generally: cancer, ulcer, shock, paresis, paralysis, focal infection, atrophy, psittacosis, chicken pox, cholera, diphtheria, malaria, measles, German measles, mumps, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, Lyme disease, Legionnaires disease, rabies, scarlet fever, scarlatina, smallpox, toxic-shock syndrome, tularemia, typhoid fever, typhus, leprosy, hepatitis, yellow fever; venereal or social diseases: gonorrhea, clap* dose*; herpes, AIDS, chlamydia, genital warts, syphilis, French disease*, maladie anglaise (French), English disease, pox*; diseases affecting the brain and nervous system: encephalitis, sleeping sickness, meningitis, aphasia, stroke, Alzheimer's disease, hemiplegia, Reyes syndrome, brain tumor, poliomyelitis, polio, infantile paralysis, sclerosis, amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, Lou Gehrigs disease, multiple sclerosis, MS, delirium tremens, D.T.s; diseases affecting the respiratory tract: bronchitis, rhinitis, common cold, sniffles, cough, influenza, flu, Asian flu, Hong Kong flu, laryngitis, pleurisy, viral pneumonia, pulmonary pneumonia, phthisis, tonsillitis, emphysema, strep throat*, sinusitis, croup, tuberculosis (TB), whooping cough; diseases affecting the digestive system: acidosis, ulcer, appendicitis, Bright's disease, colitis, diabetes, diarrhea, constipation, diverticulitis, dysentery, anasarca, dropsy, gravel, jaundice; diseases affecting the circulatory system: angina pectoris, high blood pressure, hypertension, cystic fibrosis, hemorrhage, hardening of the arteries, hypertension, heart murmur, palpitations, arteriosclerosis, atherosclerosis, coronary thrombosis; skin diseases: athlete's foot, boils, warts, eczema, psoriasis, erysipelas, dermatitis, scabies, ringworm, trench foot, acne; diseases of the joints and muscles: arthritis, osteoporosis, ends, cramp, charley horse*, crick*; rheumatism, lumbago; diseases of the eye:

cataracts, glaucoma, conjunctivitis, pink eye, trachoma; allergies: hay fever, rose fever asthma, hives; disease of the endocrine glands: hyperthyroidism, hypothyroidism; diseases common to animals and birds: anthrax, black leg, blind staggers, bloat, cholera, colic, distemper, encephalitis, hydrophobia, rabies, heaves, hoof and mouth disease, glanders, milk sickness, pneumonitis, croup, spavin, trichomoniasis; diseases common to plants: blight, rot, rust, scale, smut, wilt;

Mental disorder, derangement, psychopathy, madness, dementia, amnesia, lunacy, psychosis, alienation, neurosis, psychoneurosis, phobia, mania, craziness, aberration; see also complex 1, disease.

Mental illnesses and disorders include: schizophrenia, dementia praecox, catatonia, paranoia, hysteria, catalepsy, manic-depressive disorder, bipolar disorder, depression, melancholia, cyclothymia, delusion, hallucination, delirium, amnesia, split personality, multiple personality, autism, mental retardation, senile dementia, obsession, fixation, compulsion, obsessive-compulsive disorder, mania, phobia; nervous breakdown*.

Disorders usually accompanied by impaired mental functioning include: Down syndrome, Mongolism*, cretinism, microcephaly, hydrocephaly, Alzheimer's disease.

Mental derangement in one who formerly had mental health; lunacy specifically suggests periodic spells of insanity, but is now most commonly used in its extended sense of extreme folly; dementia is the general term of an acquired mental disorder, now generally one of organic origin, as distinguished from amentia (congenital mental deficiency); psychosis is the psychiatric term for any of various specialized mental disorders, functional or organic, in which the personality is seriously disorganized.

Due to the sins of rebellious men and women, some STDs have been around for thousands of years but not in such great numbers, nor as severe as they have become in the past fifty years, this last generation.

Disease Epidemics

All religions have strayed from the Great Wisdom of Yahweh. As a result, they have caused all the earth to become defiled; our land, waters, air, food supply and our bodies. It is great that the U.N. is warning the world to brace for disease epidemics. It would be far better if they warned the world to repent.

The U.N., only recently, warned us to brace ourselves for what is coming on us in this time period. The Savior warned us over 2,000 years ago of these disease epidemics and showed that nuclear wars will also become a part of the lifestyles of this generation.

● Mattithyah 24:5,7,22,34,37—

5 For many will come against My Name, saying: I am anointed to preach salvation!—and will deceive many.

7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes in place after place:

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

34 Truly I say to you: That generation will not pass away, until all these things are fulfilled.

37 But just as the days of Noah were, so will also be the coming of the Son of Man;

U.N.: World Must Brace For Diseases

GENEVA—The world must brace for future outbreaks of diseases like bird flu that leap the species barrier from animals to humans, the United Nations health agency said Wednesday.

Lessons learned from SARS, mad cow disease and other illnesses have taught experts to be on the lookout for such outbreaks, but predicting the next epidemic will still be tough, said Dr. Francois Meslin, World Health Organization coordinator for control of “zoonoses”—diseases that can cross species.

The transmission of disease from animals to people depends on many factors, including the interactions between animals and humans, the microbial agent involved and the environment.

Bird flu originated in chickens and there is some scientific evidence that consuming meat from cattle infected with bovine spongiform encephalopathy, or mad cow disease, can lead to a fatal brain disease in humans.

Scientists also say the AIDS epidemic that emerged in the 1980s was the result of cross-species transmissions of another monkey virus—the simian immunodeficiency viruses, onto people several decades earlier. They based their theory on genetic analyses of the virus and similar viruses found in chimps.

aolsvc.news.aol.com

Science Can't Fulfill Their Promise Of Finding A Cure

Because Yahweh's Laws have been forgotten and pushed aside for the past fifty years, there are now over 125 sexually transmitted diseases, not to mention the other diseases mankind is suffering from and the defilement of the cattle, earth, sea, fish and fowl, that keeping these simple Laws would have prevented. Science is now changing its story. They cannot find a cure because the viruses are mutating and multiplying too rapidly. By the time a vaccine is found for one strain of viruses, a number of others have been bred, due to the same Law breaking.

Through the breaking of all the other Laws of Yahweh, viruses are being bred and mutated in the bodies much faster than science can ever hope to find a cure.

It is interesting to note that Yahshua was inspired to actually foretell these facts about this generation, saying that these diseases would be incurable. That is exactly what the science world is now saying. And now it is too late!

Killer Rash Breaks Out

A vicious skin infection resistant to all but the most powerful antibiotics has jumped out of New York City hospitals and onto the streets.

The “superbug,” as health officials refer to it, can cause anything from reddening of the skin, to abscesses, tissue loss, amputation or even death in severe cases, doctors said.

For decades confined to hospitals, where it preyed on patients and built up immunity to antibiotics, the bug—known officially as Methicillin Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus or MRSA—has also grown in strength.

“Usually with infections you need a break in the skin to pass it,” said Dr. Howard Grossman, who has a private practice in Chelsea.

“Not with this. It gets through unbroken skin with casual contact.”

The city Department of Health first detected the infections outside hospitals early last year, according to health officials.

Doctors at some clinics, such as the Callen-Lorde Community Health Center in Chelsea, are seeing one new case a week, compared with one every two months when the infection first cropped up last year.

Dr. Brian Saltzman of Beth Israel, who has just completed a study of the spread of MRSA outside hospitals, said, “We are seeing very impressive, very large, very difficult-to-treat skin abscesses.”

Last month, Steven, who asked that his last name not be published, developed what he thought was a pimple on his leg, but it soon grew painful and larger.

Doctors lanced the boil that formed and began antibiotics, but the infection failed to respond and started growing towards Steven’s groin.

www.nypost.com

53 Million May Carry Deadly 'Superbug'

LONDON – Up to 53 million people worldwide could be carrying the deadly superbug MRSA, scientists said on Wednesday.

Scientists estimate that around 2 billion people, some 25-30 percent of the world's population, have a form of the bacteria Staphylococcus Aureus.

These strains could “potentially become explosive” in hospitals, the report’s authors said.

New Strain Of MRSA Can Kill In Just 24 Hours

Scientists have unraveled the workings of a deadly superbug that attacks healthy young people and can kill within 24 hours.

PVL-producing MRSA, a highly-virulent strain of the drug-resistant superbug, Methicillin-Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus, has spread around the world and caused deaths in the UK, Europe, the US and Australia.

Thousands of infections have been recorded across the US, but scientists believe the number is likely to rise in Britain.

The Guardian-UK

Hospital Losing Anti-Infection War

Nobuaki Suzuki/Yomiuri Shimbun Staff Writer

New varieties of drug-resistant germs and new routes of infections have claimed the lives of hospitalized patients in a series of recent cases of in-hospital infections.

The in-hospital infections occurred in many university hospitals and other large facilities, making the problem increasingly serious as new germs appeared following Methicillin-Resistant Staphylococcus aureas (MRSA) via unpredicted sources of infections.

11/25/06

Type 2 Diabetes Epidemic In Asia

The proportion of people with type 2 diabetes and obesity has increased throughout Asia, and the rate of increase shows no sign of slowing. Type 2 diabetes has now reached epidemic levels...

SAN FRANCISCO—CDC concerned about drug-resistant TB, San Francisco has highest rate of disease in country

Study Says Malaria Helps Spread HIV

Malaria is fueling the spread of AIDS in Africa by boosting the HIV in people's bodies for weeks at a time, says a study that pins down the deadly interplay between the dual scourges.

Malaria sickens up to half a billion people annually and kills more than 1 million, mostly young children... Scientists long have suspected the two diseases fuel each other.

Associated Press

SARS May Be More Contagious Than Thought

Virus could spread via coughs, sweat and urine, studies find.

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands—The deadly SARS virus might be more contagious than previously thought and possibly be transmitted by contaminated food or water, droplets of mucus, urine, feces and sweat, scientists reported Friday.

Researchers at the Groningen University Hospital in the Netherlands and the First Military Medical University in Guangzhou, China, said their findings emphasized the need for more stringent infection-control measures.

The Dutch scientists found receptors that enable the virus that causes severe acute respiratory syndrome to bind to cells in the lungs, kidneys and the lining of the small intestine and on sweat glands, arteries and veins.

msnbc.msn.com

Study Reveals Increase In Heart Disease Among Women

A study by the Health Ministry from 1990 to 2005 has revealed a 135% increase in heart disease among women, said Datin Seri Rosmah Mansor.

“Heart disease is the number one killer of Malaysian women, not breast cancer,” she said.

The Star News

E.Coli Outbreaks Produce New Fears

This year's onion and spinach scares reflect a rise in produce-borne illnesses, bringing calls for more rules on food producers. Fears over E. coli bacteria, for years, were focused on beef, but now outbreaks involving onions and spinach are prompting worries about the nation's produce markets.

"Produce outbreaks have been consistently high since 1999," said Caroline Smith DeWaal, director of food safety for the Center of Science in the Public Health.

"More people are getting sick," she said. "The size of the produce outbreaks are larger, sometimes twice as big as beef, poultry and seafood."

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates 76 million Americans get sick and 5,000 die every year from food-borne illnesses.

DenverPost.com

Drug-resistant TB 'More Severe'

The problem of multidrug-resistant tuberculosis may be even more severe than previously thought, experts warn.

A survey of 79 countries by the World Health Organization published in the Lancet found TB drug resistance in virtually every one.

Particularly high levels of resistance were seen in regions of the former Soviet Union and parts of China.

About a third of the world's population is infected with the TB bug, with 8.9 million developing TB each year.

bbcnews.com

Prophecy—It's Yahweh's Warning That We Need To Follow The Rules (Laws) Or We Will Bring Harm Upon Ourselves

Yahweh knew that mankind would not believe Him. He knew they would not subject themselves to Him by following His Beneficial Laws of Health, Joy, Love and Peace—the path in which Yahweh's Laws would guide mankind. Because Yahweh knew that mankind would not subject himself to these Protective Laws, Yahweh prophesied, for man's training program, every harm that would befall mankind.

Prophecies are like warning labels on medicine bottles, letting you know that you will experience certain reactions from the medication. The Savior taught this in the following Scripture.

● Yahchanan 14:29—

So now I have told you before it comes to pass, in order that, when it does come to pass, you might believe.

These people do not keep their sicknesses to themselves. They breed them in each other's bodies and those of animals and birds. These sicknesses become mutated and passed to others.

Many of the diseases mentioned previously can be passed on to others through non-sexual as well as sexual contact. They can even be passed to others through food and other items, such as doorknobs, shopping carts, public facilities, eating utensils, etc. These diseases can also be passed from parent to child as a result of sins that were committed as far back as the fourth generation. Today, anything passed from parent to offspring is called heredity.

The Scriptures show that diseases are little bugs (that science calls microorganisms) that are taken into the body by sin. Simply put, sin is disobedience to the Laws of Yahweh that would guide one away from acquiring a bug that brings sickness or disease into one's body. These little bugs, acquired from sin, can cause infection to begin in any organ of the body, from the time the sin was first committed, until much later in life. Different sins bring different bugs into the body. The more sins committed, the more deadly the organisms that are acquired, mutated, and multiplied.

Science has recently found that these organisms, when mixed together in the human body, can breed and mutate new organisms, sometimes more deadly than the original organism. That's what we are facing now with AIDS. AIDS is being mixed and mutated so rapidly that scientists are telling us there is no way to find a vaccine for the many different types of AIDS viruses.

Mad Cow Disease Was Created By Mankind

I learned back in the fifties that they were starting to feed dead animals back to cows, as a cheap source of protein. These were so-called agriculture teachers who were doing this. They came up with the "perfect" example of cheap feed and a way to make big bucks out of the cows.

Cow feed was expensive. By putting in this cheap protein, it put the farmers in less of a bind because they didn't have to buy grain. They merely went out and picked up the dead animals, almost free of charge. They mixed these animals with a little cheap feed and they thought they had the "perfect" cow feed.

I want to talk about the word gender. I looked back in an old Cruden's Concordance of mine, to see if I had made any notes on the word gender. and sure enough, I had. Gender means breed. I had written in the Cruden's Concordance under this word gender that this Law in Leviticus 19:19 was being broken by feeding dead animals back to livestock or cattle. That was on January 15, 1953.

I said to Dr. Hunter who worked with me at the State Board of Health Laboratories, that this was going to cause a world of trouble. It was going to bring our livestock to nothing if something was not done to stop this.

We've got to understand that what we're seeing now in the world, is the result of a system that came against Yahweh's Laws. Daniyl prophesied that this system would get stronger. There were people breaking Yahweh's Laws before Daniyl's time. That had already taken place and Yahweh knew and warned us not to do what the world is doing today because we would bring curses upon ourselves.

What we're seeing is the end result of 6,000 years of being rebellious towards perfect Laws that would guide us away from sickness, disease and war. The Laws that Yahweh gave us are very simple.

This gendering of animals causes what they call prions. If you don't know what a prion is, it's almost like a protein. It's so close to being a protein that it fools your body. It was bred by putting dead animal protein into cows' stomachs, which weren't made to handle it. They weren't made like dogs, that were made to digest this stuff. They weren't made like pigs or buzzards; a cow cannot digest that sort of thing.

When this meat got in the cow's stomach, it actually mutated with proteins, parasites, and the viruses that the dead animals carried. This bred this thing called a prion.

Yahweh made everything after its kind; the cows after their kind, the pigs after their kind and the birds after their kind. There was a species barrier here. What they did was mix these species inside the cow's stomach and forced her to somehow try to digest it.

● Genesis 7:14—

...and every beast after its kind came into the ark, all cattle after their kind...

Cows do not mix with sheep because they are of a different species or another kind. Cows do not mix with goats and they don't mix with dogs; they don't gender with them. You can put them all together and they'll never bother each other. They don't get all mixed up with each other.

In order to make these species mix, to make them gender with each other, you have to take a dog, grind it up into feed and feed it back to the cow. They're actually crossing these two species in the stomach of that cow. That's what mankind did. This is how they broke this Law. As a result, mad cow disease was created.

Human Mad Cow Disease Could Be Wider-UK Scientists

LONDON—Just as concerns were abating, research published Friday suggests that the human form of Mad Cow Disease in Britain could be more widespread than thought.

Scientists have estimated that 3,800 people in Britain could be unwittingly carrying the prion protein responsible for variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob Disease (vCJD) a fatal brain wasting condition.

Since vCJD was first detected and linked to eating meat contaminated with mad cow disease, or bovine spongiform encephalopathy, in the mid-1990s, 141 people have died of the illness, which is caused by prion brain proteins that transform themselves into infectious agents.

It is difficult for scientists to predict how many people may get the illness or when it will peak because of the long incubation period, which experts say can be from 10 to 20 years or longer, and genetic factors that could influence susceptibility to the illness.

Reuters

How Mad Cow Prions Spread Disease

WASHINGTON (Reuters) Prions, the distorted proteins blamed for causing Mad Cow Disease and related fatal brain illnesses, can cause disease all by themselves, researchers said on Thursday.

A team at the University of California San Francisco said they had shown that it was indeed prions, and not some other unknown molecule, that caused the brain-destroying infections. Prions have mystified scientists since they were discovered.

Normally present in the brain and other tissue, they can take on an abnormally folded form that causes the brain to become spongy and, eventually, to wither. They can replicate, clump up and cause disease without the use of any kind of genetic material at all, unlike viruses, bacteria, and parasites. Prions survive cooking at high heat for long times and only a few chemicals are known to destroy them. They are blamed for a range of diseases known as transmissible spongiform encephalopathies (TSEs), including mad cow disease, scrapie in sheep, Creutzfeldt Jakob disease (CJD) in humans, and a new kind of CJD that is caused by eating mad-cow-infected beef. They may also be associated with Alzheimer's disease, another degenerative and incurable brain disease, and perhaps Parkinson's and Huntington's diseases.

dailynews.yahoo.com

Human 'Mad Cow' Could Cause Eventual Epidemic

Variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, or vCJD, the human form of "Mad Cow Disease," has a long incubation period and could cause an eventual epidemic, researchers report.

Mad Cow Disease, or bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE), is caused by misfolded brain proteins called prions, which cows contract through contaminated feed. Humans can catch the human form of the disease, vCJD, by eating contaminated beef. So far, the fatal degenerative illness has infected about 160 people in the United Kingdom. More cases have been confirmed in six other countries, including the United States.

Now, researchers at University College London have determined, through the study of a similar disease, that BSE has an incubation period of more than 50 years before it actively becomes vCJD.

(HealthDay News)—forbes.com

Human Mad Cow May Be More Widespread Than Thought

LONDON (AP)—Scientists have found evidence suggesting that the human form of mad cow disease might be infecting a wider group of people than seen so far and that some may develop a milder form of the illness. Since variant Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease was first identified in 1996, little has been learned about it.

Until now, the fatal brain-wasting disease was found only in people who have a certain genetic profile. But research published this week in The Lancet medical journal reported the infection in a person with a more common genetic makeup and with no symptoms of the illness. That means more people than previously believed could be incubating the disease, thought to come from eating processed beef products from cattle infected with mad cow disease, or bovine spongiform encephalopathy.

rense.com

These are only a few of the hundreds of news articles that show the spreading of mad cow disease, along with mad sheep disease, mad deer disease, mad fish disease and most of all Mad Man. These are all due to the Laws of Peace and Health being rebelled against by this religious world.

Notice the Savior's Words.

● Mattithyah 24:37—

But just as the days of Noah were, so will also be the coming of the Son of Man.

● Genesis 6:5, 11-12—

5 Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually

11 The earth also was corrupt before Yahweh, and the earth was lawless, filled with violence.

12 So Yahweh looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

For many years, The House of Yahweh has been rebuking the world for rendering dead animals into feed for livestock, which has caused mad cow disease in cattle and scrapie disease in sheep and goats.

To Eat Meat Or Not To Eat Meat; That Is The Question

When a cow is slaughtered, about half its weight is not eaten by humans; the intestines and their contents, the head, hooves and horns, as well as bones and blood. These are dumped into giant grinders at rendering plants, as are the entire bodies of cows and other farm animals known to be diseased. Rendering is a $2.4 billion a year industry, processing forty billion pounds of dead animals a year. There is simply no such thing in America as an animal too ravaged by disease, too cancerous, or too putrid to be welcomed by the all embracing arms of the renderer. Another staple of the renderer's diet, in addition to farm animals, is euthanized pets—six or seven million dogs, and cats, that are killed in animal shelters, animal control agencies and road-kill every year. When this gruesome mix is ground and steam cooked, the lighter, fatty material floating to the top gets refined for use in such products as cosmetics, lubricants, soaps, candles and waxes. The heavier protein material is dried and pulverized into a brown powder, about a quarter of which is fecal material.

Animal excrement itself is also used to enrich these feed concentrates. In Arkansas, for example, the average cattle farmer feeds fifty tons of chicken litter droppings to cattle every year. "One Arkansas cattle farmer was quoted in U.S. News and World Report as having recently purchased 745 tons of litter collected from the floors of local chicken-raising operations. After mixing it with a small amount of soy bran, he then feeds it to his eight hundred head of cattle, making them, in his words, 'fat as butterballs.'"

Now if you are wondering whether this practice, other than sounding completely nauseating and revolting, can possibly be harmful to your health as a meat eater, the answer appears to be yes. Have you heard about the Mad Cow Disease which is now afflicting Great Britain? Some investigators believe that it originated with the feeding of ground-up, disease infected sheep to cows. The sheep disease is called Scrapie, because intense itching makes sheep scrape off virtually all of their wool. Scrapie apparently manifests itself in cows as bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE) commonly referred to as mad cow disease.

The disturbing question is whether people who eat meat from such infected cows can suffer any health problems. While the British government has been busy assuring its citizens that mad cow disease is nontransmutable to human beings, not everyone is convinced. Several researchers theorize that it is now appearing in humans as a slowly progressing brain disorder called Creutzfeldt-Jakob Disease (CJD). At present, there is no treatment for CJD and no test for its presence other than a biopsy of brain material at an autopsy.

<http://drherb/nottoeatmeat>

The religions of the people and by the people, void of Righteousness, will not repent. They will continue in their fornication and adultery, which create and spread diseases that are filling all people with deadly viruses. They will continue in their hatred, creating wars, and lusting for what does not belong to them. They have brought to pass the very worst of morals, confusion, sick bodies, sick minds, and sin sickness that produces hatred, violence and war.

Bird Flu: Another Curse From Man's Sins

Eventually the world's researchers will find out bird flu came from mankind. It's a cross that was put into birds by uncontrolled, lustful men. The sickness is coming back at mankind. I've handled birds all my life and never even heard of this bird flu until this point in time. All of a sudden, there's a bird flu that will kill man. It came forth from the same evil practice that has taken place with the sheep. Some countries have even made those practices with animals legal. Notice the following article again.

The Last Taboo? Europeans Pay Big For Barnyard Sex

Denmark's animal bordellos—in which people pay for sex with horses and other beasts—are advertizing on the Net and drawing customers from as far away as Norway, Germany, Holland and Sweden.

wnd.com

Bird flu has crossed to mankind. We know it's picking up, too, just as Yahshua said it would. Very soon you're going to see this in full force.

Top Bird Flu Scientist Says H5N1 Is Worst Virus Ever

H5N1 Bird Flu Virus Is Changing

According to a report...a new H5N1 virus sublineage in poultry,...called Fujian virus, appears to have become the dominant strain of the H5N1 avian influenza circulating...

WHO Says Bird Flu Virus Mutated

A World Health Organization investigation showed that the H5N1 virus mutated slightly in an Indonesian family cluster on Sumatra Island, but bird flu experts insisted Friday it did not increase the possibility of a human pandemic.

It is the first evidence indicating that a person caught the virus from a human and then passed it on to another person...

Bird Flu Could Have The Ferocity Of A Global War

GENEVA - An outbreak of avian flu could attack societies with the ferocity of a global war, bringing widespread deaths and illness, and severe disruptions of the economy and social networks.

Why the fear?

The current outbreak of the H5N1 virus in birds...is unprecedented.

The existence of the virus in migrating birds indicates it will persist for the foreseeable future...

But of course it is the occasional human case that is causing the great concern. Among the approximately 120 people infected so far, the death rate has been 50 percent.

No one knows what the death rate would be if the virus mutates so it can pass easily from person to person. But it is worth noting that the death rate in the 1918 pandemic that killed 20-50 million people in the world was three percent.

And H5N1 is so different from any influenza virus that has previously infected humans that no one would have natural immunity if the virus were able to easily infect people.

www.msnbc.com

Bird Flu Mutating, Vietnamese Study Finds

Scientists say virus is becoming more resistant to some anti-flu agents

Reuters

HANOI - Scientists in Vietnam, where bird flu has killed 42 people, said the deadly H5N1 influenza virus had mutated into a more dangerous form that could breed more effectively in mammals, state media reported on Sunday.

Van said the study had also found a mutation of the PB2 gene in a virus sample from a patient in Dong Thap, southern Vietnam, who died earlier this year. The mutation allows more effective breeding of the virus in mammals.

The function of the PB2 gene is not completely understood, but scientists believe it codes for an enzyme that helps force the host cell's molecular machinery to make more viruses.

www.msnbc.com

Prophecy Shows The Outcome

The Prophets foretold of our time period that would be filled with disease epidemics, pandemics, fear, hatred, war, and even nuclear war, which would grow worse each month, as the pains upon a woman with child. Yahweh's Prophets showed what would take place in all nations if mankind failed to live by the guidelines that Yahweh inspired to be written for us.

● Deuteronomy 28:15-24, 58-61—

15 However, if you do not obey Yahweh your Father, and do not carefully follow all His Laws and His Statutes, which I command you this day, then you will cause all these curses to come upon you, and accompany you:

16 Cursed will you be in the city, and cursed will you be in the country.

17 Cursed will be your basket and your storehouse.

18 Cursed will be the fruit of your body, the produce of your land, the calves of your herds, and the lambs of your flocks.

19 Cursed will you be when you come in, and cursed will you be when you go out.

20 It will come to pass that you will have given yourselves over to curses, confusion, and rebuke, in everything you put your hand to do, until you are destroyed and come to sudden ruin, because of the wickedness you have done in forsaking Me.

21 It will come to pass that you will cause plagues to cling to you, until you have been destroyed from the land you are entering to possess.

22 It will come to pass that you will cause yourselves to be struck with consumption, with a fever, with an inflammation, with scorching heat, with the sword, with blasting, and with mildew; they will stay with you, until you perish.

23 And the heaven that is over your heads shall be brass, and the earth under you shall be iron.

24 It will come to pass that you will cause the rain of your land to be powder and dust: from heaven it shall come down upon you, until you are destroyed.

58 If you do not carefully observe and do all the Words of the Law, that are written in this Book, in order that you may reverence this Glorious and Reverent Name: YAHWEH YOUR FATHER, 59 Then it will come to pass that you will cause fearful plagues, harsh and prolonged disasters, and severe and lingering illnesses to be brought upon you and your descendants.

60 It will also come to pass that you will cause all the diseases of Egypt which you were afraid of, to be brought back upon you and they will cling to you;

61 It will come to pass that you will cause every other sickness and every other disaster, which are not written in this Book of the Law, to also be brought upon you, until you are destroyed.

Both sickness and wars are prophesied to increase as pains on a woman with child in the next few months.

If you will notice today's news, all of these diseases and many more are rampant in the world. Remember, the Creator said that He would take sickness away from us. So why is there still sickness and disease throughout the religious world today?

● Deuteronomy 7:15—

Yahweh will take away from you all sickness. You will not be afflicted with any of the diseases you knew in Egypt, they will be laid on all those who hate you.

So, why in today's religious world are the people being plagued with all manner of sicknesses and diseases, and why are they increasing in this religious, scientific time period? Doctors are losing the fight against STDs and other related diseases. Why is the Creator and the One called the Savior in Book Two not answering the prayers of these religious people? The answer is because, all the promises in the Inspired Scriptures are conditional. However, man's religions have not done their part in teaching the Laws nor have their followers practiced obedience to the Laws that would have guided them away from the curses they now face. Notice Yahweh's Words:

● Deuteronomy 28:1—

And it will be, if you will listen diligently to the Voice of Yahweh your Father, by observing and doing all His Laws which I command you this day, then Yahweh your Father will set you high above all the nations on earth as His Kings and Priests.

This Type Of Lifestyle Brings Many Curses

Yahweh inspired His Prophets to show us that breaking His Laws of Peace will bring hatred, violence, and war. In the past 100 years, we have brought all of this upon ourselves and the worst is yet to come. But come it will, for the religions of mankind will not repent. This, too, is prophesied.

● Revelation 9:18,20-21—

18 By these three were the third part of man killed: by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

20 And the rest of the men who were not killed by these plagues, still did not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship demons, and gods (elohim, teraphim) of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which can neither see, nor hear, nor walk;

21 Neither did they repent of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

Notice, the religions will not repent of fornication. Illegal sex is rampant because all families of the earth are being trained by Hollywood with its stars of sickness and disease. Yet, don't they make it look desirable? Yes, indeed they do, and they and you will continue to suffer bitterly.

Millions and millions of cases of HIV, syphilis, and over 125 other STDs are tearing down the hearts, minds, and over-all health of mankind.

The death rate will soon completely overshadow the birthrate. According to Prophecy, four-fifths of the earth's population will be destroyed before the end of the last 3½ year time period.

Even The Unborn Are Suffering

In Genesis we are given a perfect description of the condition of today's world and the mind-set of the people.

● Genesis 6:5—

Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually.

● Genesis 6:9-13—

9 These are the begettings of Noah. Noah was a just man, perfect in his begettings. Noah walked in the Reverence of Yahweh.

10 And Noah begot three sons: Shem, Ham, and Yapheth.

11 The earth also was corrupt before Yahweh, and the earth was lawless, filled with violence.

12 So Yahweh looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

13 And Yahweh said to Noah: The end of all flesh has come before Me, for the earth is filled with violence through them; and they have corrupted themselves with the earth.

The Prophecies of Yahweh are true and 100% reliable. The religions of this world cannot tell you what is going to take place because they are not of Yahweh. Only His House is sent to warn you. You will see, as you study this book, and as these events come to pass, that you can put your trust in Yahweh.

The world is not only filled with violence but also hatred, unlawful lust, fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality, lesbianism, and bestiality. All of these sins cause confusion in the mind to the point where one cannot make a correct decision. These abominations are not only practiced throughout the world, they are also promoted by the entertainment industry.

As a result of sin, millions of babies are murdered each year, under the guise of "abortion." Notice the following articles.

The Deadly Dead-Baby Industry

Aborted fetuses are being dissected alive, harvested and sold in pieces to fuel a vast research enterprise. The results of "failed abortions" don't stymie the ghouls who profit from and run this industry. If the "aborted" babies are still alive when they see the light of the operating theater, they will be drowned, stabbed, beaten to death with tongs, or perhaps simply left to die before they are rendered.

The cadaver of a single aborted fetus isn't worth very much if sold whole ($600 if more than eight weeks old) but worth thousands if rendered into various components, of which the brain commands the highest price, $999 (30% discount if significantly fragmented), and with the skin of an aborted baby of more than 12 weeks gestation bringing in a mere $100, and a single eye no more than $50.

Opening Lines is one of two such organizations that were discovered by Mark Crutcher of Life Dynamics Inc. The other is the Anatomic Gift Foundation, founded in 1994 by Jim and Brenda Bardsley, who have since opened branch offices in Phoenix, Arizona and Aurora, Colorado.

The Opening Lines brochure states that "Our daily average case volume exceeds 1,500 and we serve clinics across the United States." Dr. Jones is said to be an aggressive salesman who is "eager to offer reduced rates for bulk orders. He also said in a recent taped interview that he is actively pursuing fetal tissue sources in Mexico and Canada."

It shouldn't be too hard to expand the fetal tissue trade into one of the most profitable enterprises on earth, should it? I would guess that the market potential in the trade of fetuses alone must be in the order of about $40 billion per year.

www.fathersforlife.com

Abortions Worldwide

Number of abortions per year: Approximately 46 Million

Number of abortions per day: Approximately 126,000

Abortion averages: Worldwide, the lifetime average is about 1 abortion per woman.

www.abortiontv.com

This translates to over 46 million new women each year having an abortion.

The religions today are leading the people deeper and deeper into sin, sickness, disease, confusion, violence, hatred and in just a few months... nuclear war that will kill one-third of man over one-fourth part of the earth. Your Holy Scriptures show why there is so much evil in the world in this last generation. Notice what the Savior says.

● Luke 6:39—

Then He spoke a parable to them: Can the blind lead the blind? Will they not both fall into the ditch?

The world today, by blindly following preachers who rebel against Yahweh's Laws, is being led into defilement, and soon nuclear war.

When you read about the murders of millions of babies by abortion notice the dates and how these sins have increased, or abounded, as the Savior said concerning this generation. Yes, this god that has newly come up is promising life by murder in this generation.

● Mattithyah 24:11-12,7,34—

11 And many false prophets will rise, and will deceive the many.

12 And because iniquity; the breaking of Yahweh's Law, will abound, the love of the many will grow cold.

7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes in place after place:

34 Truly I say to you: That generation will not pass away, until all these things are fulfilled.

Not only do sins bring thousands of virus infective agents, causing various diseases, but sin also brings unwanted pregnancies. The way these pregnancies are handled in this generation, shows the extreme decline in morals and the abounding sin in this evil and adulterous generation. This began in the 1950s, after television had about 10 years to teach the world how to sin and show how desirable they could make sin appear. Notice again what the Savior says concerning this generation.

● Mattithyah 24:7,11-12,34—

7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes in place after place:

11 And many false prophets will rise, and will deceive the many.

12 And because iniquity; the breaking of Yahweh's Law, will abound, the love of the many will grow cold.

34 Truly I say to you: That generation will not pass away, until all these things are fulfilled.

● Genesis 6:5, 11-12—

5 Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually.

11 The earth also was corrupt before Yahweh, and the earth was lawless, filled with violence.

12 So Yahweh looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

● II Timothy 3:1-5—

1 Know this also: that in the Last Days perilous times will come.

2 For men will be lovers of themselves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy,

3 Without natural affection, truce-breakers; without a truce, unforgiving, false accusers, without self-control, brutal, despisers of those who are Righteous,

4 Traitors; betrayers, headstrong, arrogant, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of Yahweh,

5 Having a form of holiness, but denying the authority of it—from such turn away!

When you read the excerpt below, keep in mind the previous Scriptures that describe this time period and the moral decay that has covered the earth in the past fifty years.

Secrets of the Dead-Baby Industry

Aborted fetuses are being dissected alive, harvested in pieces to fuel a vast research enterprise

By Celeste McGovern

The doctor walked into the lab and set a steel pan on the table. "Got you some good specimens," he said. "Twins." The technician looked down at a pair of perfectly formed 24-week-old fetuses moving and gasping for air. Except for a few nicks from the surgical tongs that had pulled them out, they seemed uninjured. "There's something wrong here," the technician stammered. "They are moving. I don't do this. That's not in my contract." She watched the doctor take a bottle of sterile water and fill the pan until the water ran up over the babies' mouths and noses. Then she left the room. "I would not watch those fetuses moving," she recalls. "That's when I decided it was wrong."

The technician uses the pseudonym "Kelly." She has her back to the camera, she wears a wig, and her voice is electronically modified because she says she fears for her life. Until a few months ago Kelly worked for a Maryland company called the Anatomic Gift Foundation. Her job was to procure fetal tissue for research. She worked at a Planned Parenthood clinic that was also a member of the National Abortion Federation. Her interview appears on the May issue of "Life Talk" video magazine the first of a monthly series of videos released by Life Dynamics Inc., a renegade pro-life group based in Denton, Texas, that admits to having spies work in abortion clinics to uncover their most closely guarded secrets.

This week the group is releasing the documentary evidence it has gathered since Kelly approached them nearly two years ago. Life Dynamics has dozens of order forms from researchers requesting fetal parts, price lists for fetal organs and tissue, and donation consent forms for women undergoing abortion. It offers a gruesome glimpse at a vast trade in human tissue from babies that are aborted, and sometimes vivisected, to satiate the exploding multibillion-dollar biotechnology industry.

The traffic in tissue flows worldwide into respected tax-funded laboratories, including Canadian ones. The research itself is usually for laudable goals, from helping prenatal infants survive to curing Parkinson's disease. But the trade, worth billions, raises myriad ethical questions: Are some humans being killed to benefit others? Are women being exploited to support tissue collection? Who is profiting from the trade? And what are the social implications of its existence?

Once the stuff of cheap science-fiction, human clones, artificial wombs and human-animal cross-species are all now serious possibilities. Sexless procreation is already a reality with in vitro fertilization. Selective breeding of human beings is commonplace thanks to embryo screening and "genetic terminations." And human-to-human brain cell transplants are government-funded. All of these endeavours rely on aborted fetuses.

"These researchers don't want to see the whole baby. That would freak them out. They think they're about higher medicine that is serving a cause — not about dead babies."

Scientists have used fetal tissue in research since at least the 1950s, (notice the date) says Pittsburgh researcher Suzanne Rini, author of the 1995 book Beyond Abortion: A Chronicle of Fetal Experimentation. Thirty years ago, as abortion laws were relaxing and some second- and third-trimester abortions were performed by hysterotomy (essentially a Caesarean section), experiments on live fetuses were cutting-edge technology. Geoffrey Chamberlain received a professional award for research (outlined in the March 1968 (notice the date) issue of The American Journal of Obstetrics and Gynecology) in which he took live aborted fetuses, attached them to an artificial placenta, perfused them to see if he could make them live, and then pulled the plug on them. No one objected.

It was shortly after that article, Mrs. Rini notes, that the Cambridge Evening Post featured a story on Lawrence Lawn, a physician who did manage to provoke controversy when it was learned that he was procuring live fetuses from a private abortion clinic. "We are simply allowing something which is destined for the incinerator to benefit mankind," he said, obliging a photographer with a picture of himself standing next to a dying fetus suspended in a perfusion tank. Yet even Dr. Lawn believed there were limits. "Of course we would not dream of experimenting with a viable child. We would not consider that to be right."

"All the limbs, the arms, the head, the chest cavity were never invaded. They were all completely intact. Sometimes the fetuses appeared to be dead, but when you would open the chest cavity you'd see the heart beating."

With the decriminalization of abortion in the 1970s, (in this generation) fetal research became, in the words of one ethicist, a "golden opportunity for researchers." The public almost never heard about fetal experimentation. But by the 1980s, (in this generation) some of the most macabre (gruesome) research was being publicly funded. Mrs. Rini catalogues experiments ranging from the perfusion of impaled beating fetal hearts with adrenaline and caffeine to eye-tissue transplants and skin grafting. Dr. Bernard Gondos of the University of Connecticut at Farmington, whose research on fetal gonads described most of his specimens as "previable dead," lamented having to import fetuses from outside the United States. Dr. Karen Holbrook of the University of Washington received a $259,740 grant in 1984-85 for her work on "Fetal Skin Biology" using first-, second- and third trimester human fetuses. She told Mrs. Rini: "Hopefully they are not born alive. It's better to avoid that. The skin is taken after fetal demise." Asked if the skin diseases she was trying to diagnose prenatally were fatal, Dr. Holbrook replied, "No, but they ruin your life."

By the 1980s (in this generation) transplants had become entrenched, and fetal tissue, which grows quickly and is less likely to trigger an immune reaction in a host, became even more coveted. Fetal tissue transplants became part of efforts to treat diabetes, Huntington's disease, blindness, spinal cord injury, Parkinson's disease, leukemia and more. In 1988, U.S. president George Bush banned federal funding of fetal human-to-human transplants. This move was widely mistaken for a ban on all fetal tissue research; in fact, most such research carried on unimpeded.

www.fathersforlife.com

Abortion is one of the most debated topics in this generation. Read the following information and witness the pictures and understand the wickedness in this practice.

The History Of Legal Abortion

Around the twelfth century BCE, if an Assyrian woman had an abortion, she was executed and the Assyrians didn't allow her body to be buried. However, the ancient Greeks allowed babies to be left outside alone to die and allowed most abortions. The Romans and most Greeks allowed the woman who wanted an abortion to take poison, which most of the time not only killed the baby but also the mother.

Islamic Countries

Egypt allowed abortions for health reasons and if there were found to be serious deformities before the baby was born. Egyptian Courts ruled that the fetus was a human being and was created at birth.

Around 1990 in Bangladesh, Indonesia, Iran, and Saudi Arabia an abortion could only be performed if it was to save the mother's life; any other type was illegal. In Tunisia abortion was legal for the first three months no matter the reason.

Israel

Most all believe that abortion is permissible to save the mother's life.

In 1997, (the Jerusalem Post, March 22, 97) the head of the obstetrics and gynecology department Professor Shlomo Mashiah explained that 16,000 abortions are performed a year in Israel and there are over 4,000-6,000 illegal abortions performed a year.

America

After the American Revolution when America became the United States, most of the laws that had been traditions or laws before stayed the same.

The first abortion law was passed in 1821 by the state of Connecticut, which punished anyone who performed an abortion after quickening (movement of the fetus) had occurred. In 1847 the American Medical Association was founded. This organization of doctors opposed abortion after science had proven that the fetus was alive even before the quickening stage.

In 1959 the American Institute presented a model law, which allowed doctors to perform an abortion if the mother's mental or physical health was in danger or if her life was in danger. Two doctors had to agree that an abortion was indeed needed.

Two things occurred that made it easier for doctors to perform an abortion. One, in 1960 a rubella measles epidemic occurred across most of the United States. This disease caused serious health problems for pregnant women and even greater dangers for the unborn baby. Many women asked for and received abortions. The second in 1962 was a drug called Thalidomide that was widely used in Europe and later in the US for the calming of the nerves. It was not tested before it was given to pregnant women and caused many birth defects and serious health problems for the babies and the mothers if they continued the pregnancy.

Both of these situations brought about great interest in abortion. The women's movement began at the end of the 60's when many women were beginning to believe that among other things, abortion was a right and part of their freedom.

Slowly but surely over the next decade laws were passed that made it easier to get an abortion. Colorado, North Carolina, and California were the first states to pass laws. By 1973, 13 states had passed the same or similar laws. Throughout the 70's many states including Washington and New York had legalized all abortions. New York allowed abortions to be performed up to twenty-four weeks into the pregnancy.

In 1973, the Supreme Court ruling concerning the Roe v. Wade case made abortion legal without restrictions in the first trimester and legalized abortion with restrictions after the first trimester.

China

In China the government controls how many children a family can have. In 1979, the government enforced the one child per family policy. Then in 1983, China conducted a nationwide operation where sterilization for couples was enforced if they had two or more children. Any unplanned pregnancies were aborted. Most women could only have one child before they were to be sterilized, in which the woman's ovaries were removed. Abortion is considered a form of birth control.

In 1993 China put forward a new law that supported abortions that would prevent the births of children that might have birth defects. Many times because of the laws passed by the government stating that a family could only have so many children, parents find out the sex of the child. If the unborn baby is a girl, they often abort the pregnancy because most families want boys to carry on the family name.

India

Abortion was legalized in 1969 to keep down the population. Many times the abortions were done by midwives or those without medical experience. The methods used to abort the babies vary from the inserting of objects such as sticks and rocks to massaging the stomach.

From 1973-74, it's estimated that 900,000 sterilizations were done; '74-'75, 1.35 million; and '75-'76, 2.5 million. Just as in China, boys are preferred. It has been reported that twenty percent of maternal deaths are from unsafe abortions.

Russia

It has been estimated by the Russian government that over 20,000 women a day are having abortions. The average woman there will, in her lifetime, have two to seven abortions. In one year the rate was 216 abortions per 100 births. Many obstetricians, doctors, and gynecologists perform abortions full-time everyday.

Legal Methods Of Abortion

The definition of abortion is the ending of a pregnancy before the time of birth. The National Abortion Federation defines abortion as the removal of a fetus from the uterus before it is mature enough to live on its own.

90% of abortions are done in the first trimester (the first three months of life).

Medical Abortion

In the first seven weeks of pregnancy a medical abortion is most commonly done. One of two drugs is given by a doctor to the mother to induce the abortion. Methotrexate or Mifepristone were originally approved by the Food and Drug Administration for cancer but were found to also end a pregnancy.

After an injection of Methotrexate, the fetal cells stop dividing and growing. Mifepristone also known as RU486 blocks the hormone progesterone. Without this hormone the pregnancy cannot continue. Progesterone keeps the uterus walls intact. When there is no progesterone the healthy blood vessels that are fed breakdown and the fetus detaches from the wall. The cervix then softens and the uterine muscles contract.

Commonly after a few days have passed, and after having taken either one of these drugs, a second drug named Misoprostol is administered. It is a pill that can be taken orally or inserted into the vagina area, which starts the uterus to contract and then expels what is left of the fetus. This method can cause pain, nausea, vomiting, headaches, very heavy bleeding, and diarrhea.

Chemical Abortion

The "morning after pill" is a high dosage of the well known birth control pill. It is used after sexual intercourse, over a 72 hour period, to either prevent or terminate an early pregnancy. No thorough testing has been done to confirm the safety of this practice, or the safety of repeatedly using this practice.

The “morning after pill” works in one of three ways: 1. The egg is not released (stops ovulation) 2. The menstrual cycle is altered (delayed ovulation) 3. The fetus is unable to attach itself to the uterus; therefore, this emergency contraception is called a chemical abortion.

10% of abortions are done in the second and third trimesters (between thirteen to forty weeks).

Surgical Abortion

The most common kind of abortion in the first trimester is a surgical abortion. There are three different types. These are done within thirteen to fifteen weeks since the woman’s last menstrual period.

The most widely used of the three during the first trimester is the vacuum abortion. A local anesthetic is used to numb the cervix and then the opening to the cervix is dilated. A sharp-edged plastic tube from a suction machine is inserted into the uterus. The suction machine sucks out pieces of the fetus and the placenta. A sharp spoon-shaped instrument, known as a curette, is used by the doctor to remove remaining parts of placenta or fetus. It takes five to ten minutes to perform and the woman can have infections as well as uterus damage.

The second type of surgical abortion is called a dilation and evacuation (D&E). Most of the time, this procedure is done in an outpatient clinic but also is done in a hospital. It is performed in the early stage of the second trimester under general anesthesia. The cervix is enlarged in order to remove the body because the fetus is larger now. Many times the head must be crushed to remove the body.

Suction alone does not remove all parts and placenta so surgical forceps are used. This process twists and tears the fetus’ skin and bones. The curette is used to remove anything that remains. The woman now is at greater risk of infection and complications. In most, all of these procedures drugs and/or anesthesia are given to the mother but nothing is given to the fetus.

In the later part of the second trimester, a third surgical method is used. This is called the instillation or induction method. For this procedure, the woman goes to a hospital and general anesthesia is used.

The doctor injects prostaglandin or urea medication and saline (salt water) solution, which are very strong chemicals, into the uterus through the abdomen. The fetus breathes and swallows the saline solution, burning and poisoning the fetus. Many times it causes the fetus to convulse. It takes over an hour to complete the procedure. The mother must still deliver the dead fetus which can take up to 48 hours of labor. Babies aborted in this manner are called “candy apple” babies because the burning of the skin causes the whole body to turn red.

There are even higher risks to the mother. Pain and infections are greater and the stay in the hospital is longer. There can be many complications including blood clots. Surgical punctures or tears, and in some cases legs, arms and other body parts are left inside the uterus. This is called an incomplete abortion, which requires a second abortion. The ultimate risk can be death for the mother.

Partial Birth Abortion

During this procedure, the doctor turns the fetus so that the feet will come out first and the fetus will be pointed down. The doctor pulls out the fetus’ feet first until all but the fetus’ head and neck are delivered. With the fetus usually kicking, moving, and sometimes crying, the doctor places his index and ring fingers over the baby's shoulders.

Finding the base of the fetus' skull the doctor uses a blunt-tipped scissors to jam into the skull. He opens the scissors so that it makes a large opening. The doctor removes the scissors, inserts a suction catheter to the wound, and sucks out the brain. When this is done the skull collapses and it is now small enough to remove from the mother's body. Next, the placenta is removed with forceps and the uterine walls are scraped.

D&X Abortions or Late Term Abortions

In the third trimester, abortions are called D & X or late-term abortions. They are performed after twenty-three weeks. This kind of abortion can be done all the way up to the due date. Usually an ultrasound is done to find the feet of the unborn baby then the doctor inserts a forceps through the cervix into the uterus and grabs a leg or foot. The fetus is pulled and scraped until it is removed from the uterus. If the baby comes out alive, it is left to die. Usually, the baby comes out in pieces.

Fetal Pain

Dr. Ranalli is a neurologist at the University of Toronto, in Toronto, Canada. He is acting president of the de Veber Institute for Bioethics and Social Research. He gave a presentation called "Pain, Fetal Development, and Partial-birth Abortion" on June 27, 1997 to the House Judiciary Committee of the State of Ohio.

He has concluded that the spino-thalamic system is fully developed at about 12 to 14 weeks of gestation. This is the system that conveys pain signals from pain receptors throughout the body to the thalamus. He believes that the thalamus can feel pain, even though a connection between it and the cortex is missing.

To support his belief that a fetus in the second trimester can feel pain, he cites these signs:

- A fetus will "withdraw from painful stimulation"
- Two types of stress hormones which are detected in adults who are feeling pain are also found in a fetus when a blood sample is withdrawn.

Dr. Robert White gave testimony before the House Constitution Subcommittee.

He stated that the fetus at 20 weeks gestation, "is fully capable of experiencing pain. Without question, all of this is a dreadfully painful experience for any infant subjected to such a surgical procedure."

The suffering and trauma of women who have abortions continue past the procedure. They suffer guilt and even physical pain for years following the abortion.

Post Abortion Syndrome What Is Post Abortion Syndrome? (P.A.S.)

Researchers describe P.A.S. as a woman's inability to:

- Process the fear, anger, sadness, and guilt surrounding her abortion
- Grieve the loss of the baby
- Come to peace with herself and others involved in the abortion decision

What Are The Symptoms Of P.A.S.?

Listed below are the symptoms of P.A.S. These symptoms will not necessarily appear at the same time, nor is any woman likely to experience all of them. Some symptoms may appear immediately after an abortion, or some may appear years later.

Guilt

Guilt is what the woman feels because she has violated her moral code. For the woman who has come to believe at some point after the abortion that she has consented to the killing of her preborn child, the burden of guilt is relentless.

Anxiety

Anxiety is defined as an unpleasant emotion and physical state of apprehension. Post-abortion women may experience any of the following:

- Tension (inability to relax, irritability, and so forth)
- Physical responses (dizziness, pounding heart, upset stomach, headache)
- Worry about the future
- Difficulty concentrating
- Disturbed sleep

Repression And Denial

When a person experiences anxiety because of an intense inner conflict, and there is no end in sight, the mind will take whatever course of action necessary to regain emotional equilibrium.

One such defense mechanism is repression, a sort of motivated forgetting, which simply pushes the unbearable emotions away from the conscious level of thinking.

Denial is a more thorough mechanism in which one not only pushes down unacceptable emotions surrounding a painful event, but also part or all of the event itself.

Psychological “Numbing”

A person who has experienced a highly painful loss will develop an instinct to guard against future situations which might bring that much pain again. Many post-abortion women may work hard to keep their emotions on a flat level, experiencing neither highs nor lows. This greatly hampers their ability to form and maintain close interpersonal relationships.

Depression And Thoughts Of Suicide

While few postabortal women reach the point of an overt clinical depression, many will experience some of the following:

- Sad mood
- Sudden and uncontrollable crying episodes
- Deterioration of self-concept
- Sleep, appetite, and sexual disturbances
- Reduced motivation
- Disruption in interpersonal relationships
- Thoughts of suicide

Re-experiencing The Abortion

The most common experience that a postabortal woman reports is that she suddenly begins to have distressing, recurring ‘flashbacks’ of the abortion procedure, with no apparent explanation for what is causing them. Recurring nightmares about babies are common.

Interruption Of Bonding With Children

After having an abortion, a woman might not allow herself to properly bond with future children because of a fear of loss. Likewise, a woman who already has children at the time of her abortion may discover that she is beginning to look at her existing children in a different light. She may have unconsciously devalued them.

Survival Guilt

Some women who have abortions feel guilty for being the survivor of the abortion decision. It was either her life or the baby’s life and she chose to not interrupt her life. These women may enter a heightened and unrealistic compensation mode, attempting to atone for her selfish choice.

Development Of Eating Disorders

Making herself unattractive serves as a form of self-punishment and helps the postabortal woman perpetuate the belief that she is unworthy of anyone’s attention. A substantial weight gain or severe weight loss is associated with unattractiveness, which reduces the odds of becoming pregnant again.

Anorexia may become a form of control for the woman who feels like her life is totally out of control. Also, an underweight condition can lead to the stopping of a woman’s periods, which would also effectively prevent any future pregnancies.

Alcohol And/Or Substance Abuse

Alcoholism and substance abuse often begin as a form of self-medication—a way of coping with the mental pain of abortion memories.

Brief Reactive Psychosis

Rarely, a postabortal woman will experience a brief psychotic episode for two weeks or less after her abortion. The break with reality and recovery are both rapid and in most cases the person is completely back to normal when it is over. It is possible for a person to have a brief psychotic reaction to a stressful event without being labeled a psychotic individual.

Anniversary Syndrome

There tends to be an increase in many of the symptoms listed above around the time of the anniversary of the abortion and/or the due date of the aborted child.

Abortion has grown epidemic in these Last Days. How is the system taking care of this problem? They passed a law to make it easier.

FDA Ok's nonprescription morning-after pill

Decision allows over-the-counter sale of Plan B for those 18 or older

WASHINGTON Women may buy the morning-after pill without a prescription, but only with proof they're 18 or older, federal health officials decided Thursday. The Food and Drug Administration ruling culminated a contentious three-year effort to ease access to the emergency contraceptive.

Girls 17 and younger still will need a doctor's note to buy the pills, called Plan B, the FDA told manufacturer Barr Pharmaceuticals Inc.

The compromise decision is a partial victory for women's advocacy and medical groups which say eliminating sales restrictions could cut in half the nations 3 million annual unplanned pregnancies. Opponents have argued that wider access could increase promiscuity.

www.msnbc.com

How is the religious world handling this problem? They come up with loopholes and excuses to try to pardon away the sin. Notice the stance of the Catholic Church concerning abortion and fetal tissue research.

National Catholic Register

Volume 81 No. 33
Vatican News
Aug. 21-27, 2005

Vatican Issues Guidelines on Use of Abortion-Derived Vaccines

By REGISTER STAFF

VATICAN CITY - The question of the morality of using vaccines derived from tissues obtained through abortions is a delicate one. It took more than two years for the Vatican to frame a reply to a request for guidance from Debi Vinnedge, head of the Florida-based Children of God for Life organization that campaigns against the use of such vaccines.

Now, the Pontifical Academy for Life has finally delivered its opinion: Catholics are permitted and sometimes may even be obliged to use such vaccines when no alternative exists.

What's Right?

The morality of using abortion-derived vaccines has sharply divided American Catholics. A range of authorities including the Pro-Life Secretariat of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops and the National Catholic Bioethics Center have said they can be used under some circumstances.

"Catholic moralists have concluded that individuals, when they have no practical alternative, may use vaccines to protect their health and the health of their loved ones without serious sin, even if the vaccines were cultured in fetal cells that ultimately came from an elective abortion," the Pro-Life Secretariat said in an August 2001 statement.

Degrees of Evil

The Pontifical Academy for Life document distinguishes between different degrees of cooperation with evil that result from the manufacture and use of abortion-derived vaccines. All involvement in "the preparation, distribution and marketing" of the vaccines is "morally illicit, because it could contribute in encouraging the performance of other voluntary abortions, with the purpose of the production of such vaccines," it states.

Moreover, pharmaceutical companies and researchers who fail to denounce as evil the abortions that gave rise to the fetal cell lines that they are using to produce vaccines, and who "do not dedicate themselves together to research and promote alternative ways exempt from moral evil for the production of vaccines," are guilty of illicit "passive material cooperation" with the evil of the original abortions, the document says.

In contrast, doctors and parents who consent to the use of such vaccines, when no alternative is available, are involved merely in "a form of very remote mediate material cooperation, and therefore very mild" cooperation with the original act of abortion, the Pontifical Academy for Life stated.

Such remote cooperation is morally permissible, the document said. And in the case of a disease like rubella, where a failure to vaccinate children can result in a sharply increased likelihood of a future outbreak of an ailment that can have crippling effects on unborn children, the Pontifical Academy for Life's experts said "we find, in such a case, a proportional reason" favoring the use of such vaccines.

www.ncregister.com

Why sacrifice children to pay for your sins? Why not teach as the Savior taught?

● Yahchanan 5:14—

Afterward, Yahshua found him in the sacred precincts of The House of Yahweh, and said to him: Behold, you are healed. Sin no more, or a worse thing will come upon you.

● Luke 13:3-5—

3 I tell you, No! But unless you repent you will all likewise perish!

4 Or those eighteen on whom the tower in Siloam fell and killed them, do you think that they were sinners above every man who lived in Yerusalem?

5 I tell you, No! But unless you repent, you will all likewise perish!

● Revelation 18:1-5—

1 And after these things I saw another Malak come down from heaven, having great authority; and the earth was enlightened with His Glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying: Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of demons, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the cup of her destruction because of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying: Come out of her, My People, so that you do not partake in her sins, and so that you do not receive of her plagues,

5 For her sins have reached unto heaven, and Yahweh has remembered her transgressions against His Laws!

Notice, her sins are causing plagues that can also affect you. Sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws, which all nations are rejecting at this time.

● I Yahchanan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

Preachers all over the world are following this religion in rebellion against Yahweh's 613 Laws of which they will not repent. In fact, this rebellion is going to bring destruction on all nations.

They will not repent of their fornication which breeds unwanted babies whose body parts are bringing in billions of dollars for the pharmaceutical industry.

Cannibalism

Eyewitness accounts from inside the booming trade in fetal body parts

Apart from abortionists and the wholesalers who traffic in aborted baby parts, who stands to profit from this fetal research? Of the pharmaceutical companies sponsoring it, Mr. Crutcher says: "I don't think there's one that's not involved." He surmises they are investing in the future. Baby boomers are aging, and about to start falling apart. A practical treatment for Parkinson's would be lucrative. "Just look at Viagra," says Mr. Crutcher. (In Canada alone, the little blue impotence pill sold 20,600 prescriptions worth $1.55 million in its first week on the market). "That's just a hint of the fortunes awaiting drug manufacturers pandering to boomers' quest for youth. They're the wealthiest generation in the history of the world, and also the most narcissistic. They want to live forever." And fetuses are the new human scrap heap. Says Mr. Crutcher: "We're going to kill the very young to treat the very old."

Steven Bamforth is a geneticist who operates a fetal tissue repository at the University of Alberta Hospital in Edmonton. He and his researchers have the difficult task of sorting through 10- to 12-week fetal remains from abortion clinics in Edmonton and Winnipeg, dissecting recognizable body parts for hearts and eyes, extracting messenger ribonucleic acid and shipping it to other geneticists at the Universities of Toronto and British Columbia. "The humanity is always before us," Dr. Bamforth told this magazine last year. "If society said this research is not acceptable, of course, we would immediately desist. It's not something that I do happily."

Cut-throat competitiveness

Side-bar story to "Cannibalism—Eyewitness accounts from inside the booming trade in fetal body parts"

Alberta Report, August 23, 1999, p. 34

A full-colour, glossy brochure invites abortionists to "find out how you can turn your patient's decision into something wonderful." It is printed by Opening Lines, A Division of Consultative and Diagnostic Pathology, Inc., a wholesale trafficker in fetal parts from American clinics. Working out of an office in West Frankfort, Illinois, the company's director, Dr. Miles Jones, profits from a tremendously lucrative trade. His current "Fee for Services Schedule" offers eyes and ears for $75 and brains for a mere $999.

Fee for Services Schedule
A Division of Consultative & Diagnostic Pathology, Inc.
P.O. Box 508 West Frankfort, IL 62896 Phone: 800-650-0885 Fax: 618-937-1929
Fee for Services Schedule
Unprocessed Specimen (>8 weeks)	$70
Unprocessed Specimen (≤8 weeks)	$50
Livers (≤ 8 weeks)	$150
Livers (> 8 weeks)	30% discount if significantly fragmented $125
Spleens (≤ 8 weeks)	$75
Spleens (> 8 weeks)	30% discount if significantly fragmented $50
Pancreas (≤ 8 weeks)	$100
Pancreas (> 8 weeks)	$75
Thymus (≤ 8 weeks)	$100
Thymus (> 8 weeks)	$75
Intestine & Mesentary	$50
Mesentary (≤ 8 weeks)	$125
Mesentary (> 8 weeks)	$100
Kidney-with/without adrenal (≤ 8 weeks)	$125
Kidney-with/without adrenal (> 8 weeks)	$100
Limbs (at least two)	$150
Brain (≤ 8 weeks)	30% discount if significantly fragmented $999
Brain (> 8 weeks)	30% discount if significantly fragmented $150
Pituitary Gland (> 8 weeks)	$300
Bone Marrow (≤ 8 weeks)	$350
Bone Marrow (> 8 weeks)	$250
Ears (≤ 8 weeks)	$75
Ears (> 8 weeks)	$50
Eyes (≤ 8 weeks)	40% discount for single eye $75
Eyes (> 8 weeks)	40% discount for single eye $50
Skin (> 12 weeks)	$100
Lungs and Heart Block	$150
Intact Embryonic Cadaver (≤ 8 weeks)	$400
Intact Embryonic Cadaver (> 8 weeks)	$600
Intact Calvarium	$125
Intact Trunk (with/without limbs)	$500
Gonads	$550
Core Blood (Snap Frozen LN ₂)	$125
Spinal Column	$150
Spinal Cord	$325

Prices in effect through December 31, 1999

Verbatim copies of charts in Opening Lines' brochure:
"Turn your patient's decision into something wonderful."

Fee-for-Services
Schedule A Embryonic/Fetal
Effective 6/98
ELECTIVE TERMINATIONS
PROCEDURE	Gestational Age	Fresh	Frozen
2nd Trimester D & E	13-24 weeks	$90.00	$130.00	Per Specimen
1st Trimester Aspiration	6-12 weeks	$220.00	$260.00	Per Specimen
SPONTANEOUS (MISCARRIAGE)	6-40 weeks	$240.00	$280.00	Per Specimen

Fees are based on gross dissections unless otherwise indicated. Additional fees may apply for fine or special resections and fixation.

www.fathersforlife.com

No, the religions will not repent of the evil we see in this evil generation. According to the Savior's Words and the Prophet's Writings, all sin and mankind's destructive forces will continue to grow worse.

Mankind Has Almost Completely Destroyed This Earth

In just this last generation, we have seen the multitude of sicknesses and diseases increase and spread. The earth is becoming more and more polluted. Mankind is responsible for the multitude of famines, disease epidemics and earthquakes, along with the defilement and devastation that the planet is now facing. Notice the following words of the Prophet Isayah.

●Isayah 24:19-20—

19 The earth is utterly broken down, the earth is dissolved clean, the earth is shaken exceedingly.

20 The earth will reel to and fro like a drunkard, and will sway like a hut. The transgression in it will be heavy upon it; it will fall, and not rise again.

Overworking the land has brought many acres to the point where they will not support crops. In the hurry to mass-produce products, chemical fertilizers were introduced. Farmers were enticed with promises of bountiful crops. It was said that these chemical fertilizers would replace natural fertilizers such as compost and would yield better results with less work. In addition to inorganic fertilizers, farmers used pesticides to kill the insects that invaded their crops.

There were drawbacks to pesticides, which pesticide inventors and farmers did not foresee.

- Pesticides not only kill the so-called harmful pests, but they also kill beneficial insects, pest predators and a wide range of other animals.

- Those so-called harmful pests that survive continue to breed producing generations, which have a greater tolerance to the pesticide actually developing what is known as a resistance. Pesticides, therefore, have to be used in ever increasing quantities or replaced with new chemicals to adequately control pest populations.

- Pesticides also leach into the ground water adversely affecting small animals as well as people.

- Pesticides affect the bacteria and micro-life, that the Scriptures call creeping things, causing them to mutate and attack things they were never meant to attack.

Farmers were told they no longer needed to rotate crops because the chemical fertilizers would continually replace what had been taken out. Crops were not rotated, and the nutrients were drained from the land. Trace elements were eliminated, and the thick layer of topsoil eroded. That thick layer of topsoil, that had once been teeming with life such as earthworms and bugs, was now a mere two inches thick and lifeless. Since the land was not allowed to rest nor fed properly, life could not be sustained. Deserts replaced what once used to be rich and fertile soil.

Using chemical fertilizers has also developed a new breeding ground for deadly bugs. This allows them to have a direct way to enter mankind's food supply.

Bacteria Thrives In Pesticide Environment

Pesticides kill insects, but new research suggests they may be a breeding ground for different types of bugs—bacteria.

Four out of 15 pesticides tested proved to be a very friendly environment for germs that cause human diseases, says Rick Holley, professor of food microbiology at the University of Manitoba in Canada.

The meaning of the research is unclear—it's not known whether the bacteria will survive the long trip from a pesticide sprayer to your dinner table.

If a link is established, the findings could help explain why the incidents of illness carried by plants have doubled or tripled in the last decade, Holley says.

"Normally one used to find food-borne illness associated with animal-based products," he says. "There's been a shift toward fruits and vegetables."

Both Holley and Porterfield recommend consumers wash fruits and vegetables before eating them.

Even so, there's no guarantee of germ-free produce.

"I'd like to be able to say you could successfully wash away any problem bacteria, but the fact is that isn't 100 percent certain," Holley says.

annieappleseedproject.org

E. Coli Outbreaks Produce New Fears

This year's onion and spinach scares reflect a rise in produce-borne illnesses, bringing calls for more rules on food producers. Fears over E. coli bacteria, for years, were focused on beef, but now outbreaks involving onions and spinach are prompting worries about the nation's produce markets.

"Produce outbreaks have been consistently high since 1999," said Caroline Smith DeWaal, director of food safety for the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates 76 million Americans get sick and 5,000 die every year from food-borne illnesses.

The number of food-borne illnesses from outbreaks associated with fruits and vegetables has doubled over the past decade in the United States, according to the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

DenverPost.com

This year, 2007, you will be made well aware that many of these disease-causing bacteria could totally wipe out mankind. They are spreading rapidly at this time and Prophecy shows they will be the worst ever in man's history before the final end.

● Mattithyah 24:21-22—

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

Billions at risk from wheat super-blight

An infection is coming, and almost no one has heard about it. This infection isn't going to give you flu, or TB. In fact, it isn't interested in you at all. It is after the wheat plants that feed more people than any other single food source on the planet. And because of cutbacks in international research, we aren't prepared. The famines that were banished by the advent of disease-resistant crops in the Green Revolution of the 1960s could return, Borlaug told New Scientist.

The disease is Ug99, a virulent strain of black stem rust fungus (Puccinia graminis), discovered in Uganda in 1999. Since the Green Revolution, farmers everywhere have grown wheat varieties that resist stem rust, but Ug99 has evolved to take advantage of those varieties, and almost no wheat crops anywhere are resistant to it.

The strain has spread slowly across east Africa, but in January this year spores blew across to Yemen, and north into Sudan. Scientists who have tracked similar airborne spores in this part of the world say it will now blow into Egypt, Turkey and the Middle East, and on to India, lands where a billion people depend on wheat.

The threat couldn't have come at a worse time. Consumption has outstripped production in six of the last seven years, and stocks are at their lowest since 1972. Wheat prices jumped 14 per cent last year.

Destruction Of Our Food Supply

Agriculture is the work of producing crops and grains to put food on the table. Now, true agriculture, Yahweh's Way, is farming that guards the food supply. This will put healthy food on your table. The way that they're teaching it in the schools is to produce an abundance of food, but it's not so healthy. If it's not so healthy, your body goes downhill and suffers from it.

Some of the many reasons that mankind was created were to be given authority over the food supply of man and beast, to have a Kingdom that would guard the food supply and keep would-be scientists from changing the growth and depleting the life giving forces that Yahweh designed in each plant that comes from the earth.

If one watches, hears or reads the world news reports today, one cannot help but understand that our food supply and the land on which it is grown, the water we drink, the rainfall that waters the earth and the air we breathe are contaminated due to the lust for control and money.

The assaults against the food supply seem to be almost planned in an attempt to diminish the population. This may well be, judging from all the negative remarks in the media regarding the population numbers.

It seems the only thoughts are to bring about man's destruction and diminish the population because, as science so narrowly thinks, the earth can only support so many.

Now these are religious people who talk the talk of going to heaven in a dreamed-up rapture to keep them from suffering their own devices, the works of their own hands. Would it not be a wiser God to just take them somewhere else before they murder all of mankind, if indeed their dreamed-up God is rapturing them up, out of his love or concern?

Whatever the case, what mankind has done to defile the earth, confuse the mind, bring sickness, diseases and wars to earth and the heavens cannot be solved by wars nor rapture.

What could solve all world problems is worldwide repentance of breaking Yahweh's Laws. Yahweh is Mighty enough to enlarge the earth or provide hundreds of other planets to pioneer had mankind been worthy. But they are not. They are now reaping what they have sown and the seeds are getting more defiled each day.

Notice the following practices that are actually destroying our food supply.

Genetically Engineered Food

Genetic engineering (GE) is the process of transferring specific traits, or genes, from one organism into a different plant or animal. The resulting organism is called transgenic or a GMO (genetically modified organism). 70% of processed foods in American supermarkets now contain genetically modified ingredients.

With genetic engineering, genes from completely different species can be inserted into each other. For example, in the 1990's scientists attempted to insert a fish gene into a tomato to make the tomato resistant to frost.

The majority of genetically modified crops grown today are engineered to be resistant to pesticides and/or herbicides. These modified crops can withstand being sprayed with weed killer while all the other plants in the field die. This concerns many people because the weeds can grow resistant to pesticides, leading farmers to spray even more on their crops.

GE proponents claim genetically modified crops use less pesticides than non-GE crops, when in reality they can use even more chemicals. This causes more environmental pollution, exposes the food to even more toxins, and causes more safety issues for the farmer.

Some GE crops are actually classified as a pesticide. The New Leaf potato, which has since been taken off grocery store shelves, was genetically engineered to produce the Bt (Bacillus thuringiensis) toxin in order to kill any pests that attempt to eat it. The actual potato has been deemed a pesticide and is regulated by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), not the Food & Drug Administration (FDA) which regulates food. Because of this, safety testing for this product was not as strict as with food, even though consumers ate these potatoes.

Scientists are currently working on ways to genetically engineer farm animals. In an effort to speed up slaughter lines and increase profits, research is underway to genetically engineer hogs that are all the same size and shape. Work is also being done to try to create animals that have odorless manure or hogs that don't have any waste at all!

Adequate research has not been done on any effects from eating animals that were fed genetically-engineered grain, nor have adequate studies been done on the effects of directly consuming genetically-engineered crops like corn and soy. There is concern that we, and our families, are being experimented on by the companies who created GMO's.

Specific concerns over genetic engineering include:

- Allergic reactions. There are two concerns regarding allergic reactions. The first is with known allergens. A gene from a Brazil nut was inserted into soybeans, which led to severe reactions in some people with nut allergies. So, there is concern that people with known allergies might not be aware that the food they are eating contain substances they are allergic to. The second concern is over the possibility of new allergies. The new combinations of genes and traits have the potential to create new allergic reactions.

- Gene mutation. Scientists do not know if the forced insertion of one gene into another gene can destabilize the entire organism, which would encourage mutations and abnormalities. No one knows if or how eating mutated food could affect us.

- Antibiotic resistance. GE food could make disease-causing bacteria resistant to antibiotics, which could increase the spread of disease and illness throughout the world. Almost all GE food contains antibiotic resistance marker genes that help producers know whether the new genetic material was transferred to the host plant or animal.

- Loss of nutrition. Genetic engineering can change the nutritional value of food.

- Damage to the environment. Insects, birds and wind can carry genetically altered pollen to other fields and forests, pollinating plants and creating new species that will carry on the genetic modification.

- Superweeds. GE crops can cross-pollinate with weeds, potentially creating superweeds that could become difficult to control.

- Terminator seeds. GE seeds have been created that will only grow once. In many parts of the world, saving seeds from season to season is how farmers are able to survive and continue growing food. With this technology, seeds are sterile, forcing farmers to buy seed each year from a major corporation.

—Information from sustainabletable.org

Consider the following: the genetically modified products are having an effect on the rest of the environment. They are affecting beneficial bugs and insects and even the micro-life.

Genetically Engineered Crops May Threaten Beneficial Insects

Three recent studies point to troubling and unexpected effects of genetically engineered insect-resistant crops on beneficial insects. These studies highlight the need for testing of impacts on non-target species before genetically engineered crops are approved for widescale use.

Scientists from the Swiss Federal Research Station for Agroecology and Agriculture conducted two studies that looked at the effects of Bt toxin on green lacewing insects. In nature, these insects feed on the pest targeted by Bt corn, the European corn borer. Lacewings, which are known for their appetite for aphids and other soft bodied insects, play an important role in maintaining the equilibrium of insect populations. They are also important for organic farming pest control strategies.

In one study, recently published in the Journal of Environmental Entomology, researchers found that the mortality rate of lacewing larvae increased significantly after eating Bt-toxin similar to that found in genetically engineered corn produced by Novartis.

Green lacewing larvae fed with Bt-toxin from transgenic organisms showed a significantly higher rate of mortality (57%) than a control group of insects (30%). The larvae were fed purified Bt-toxin produced by genetically engineered E. coli bacteria. The bacteria produce toxin similar to that found in Novartis corn.

An earlier study produced even more disturbing results—demonstrating the potential indirect impacts of Bt crops on beneficial insects.

In a third study, Scottish Crop Research Institute scientists found that ladybird beetles fed aphids reared on transgenic potatoes experienced reproductive problems and failed to live as long as ladybirds fed aphids from ordinary potatoes (the control group). The potatoes were engineered to produce insecticidal lectins—proteins from the snow-drop plant that bind to the surface of insect cells causing them to clump and stop functioning.

The researchers found that egg production of female ladybirds fed transgenic-potato-reared aphids was reduced by more than one-third, compared with the control group. Nearly three times as many fertilized eggs from fed engineered-potato-reared aphids died before hatching compared with fertilized eggs from the control group. In addition, female ladybirds fed aphids from transgenic plants lived only half as long as females from the control group.

psrast.org

Another result that has recently become known is the disappearance of the honeybee. While producers claim they don't understand why the honeybees are disappearing, we can see the direct link to the increase of GE products, which causes genetically changed pollen to be produced, and the disappearance and death of the bees.

A Bee Concern

What some are saying may be a huge threat to the food supply and it has to do with bees. Each year, honeybees are responsible for pollinating billions of dollars worth of crops in this country, but beekeepers are now raising a red flag saying that a lot of the bees are mysteriously dying. A bee concern now from Rick Leventhol.

Despite their name, honeybees do more than just make honey. They pollinate more than 15 billion dollars' worth of U.S. crops every year, contributing to one in every three bites of food you eat: including apples and almonds, melons and strawberries, carrots, cucumbers, broccoli and soybeans. Commercial migratory beekeepers deliver tens of thousands of the insects to groves and farms across the country every spring. The bees do their work, and the crops grow strong.

But now the honeybees are dying at an alarming rate, a dramatic and unprecedented loss, and scientists are struggling to figure out why. "It's a mystery in that these colonies appear quite strong, quite healthy one week, and literally a week to two or three weeks later, the bees disappear from their colonies."

"The bees are all gone." Janet Katz lost about twenty percent of her honeybees. Others have seen eighty percent of their bees die or disappear.

"These are the sections that we did where we extracted or took out the bee digestive track." Diana Cox-Foster is one of many entomologists trying to solve this CSI-style mystery. Surprised to discover the dead bees had traces of almost every disease known to affect the species for the past hundred years. They've lost their defenses like a honeybee version of HIV-AIDS. "So we think the bees are quite immunocompromised or immunostressed, that there's something knocking down their immune system, their ability to fight off diseases."

Experts have a name for the die-offs, colony collapse disorder, but they don't have a cure; and if the bees keep dying, our food supply could suffer in a big way.

Scientists say they'll know more when the hives are opened in late March. The fear is most of the honeybees will be dead.

Reporting from State College, Pennsylvania
Rick Leventhal, Fox News.

The GE crops have effects on the environment in many negative ways. We are seeing not only the destruction of the beneficial bugs and bees, but also the release of new microbes into the atmosphere as a result of production or unanticipated mutation from the genetically modified foods.

GM Microbes Invade North America

While the attention of the world is focused on genetically modified (GM) crops, GM microbes have been released for at least six years with little or no public awareness or debate. Prof. Joe Cummins reports.

A number of GM microbes are being widely deployed since their first release six years ago.

Sinorhizobium meliloti is a bacterium added to soil or inoculated into seeds to enhance nodule formation and nitrogen fixation in the roots of legumes. It was released for commercial production in 1997.

The other commercial GM microbes are designated as bio-pesticides. These include GM Agrobacterium radiobacter k1026, used to prevent crown gall disease in fruit and vegetable plants, and Pseudomonas fluorescens modified with a number of different Cry delta-endotoxin genes from different subspecies of Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt). The modified P. fluorescens cultures are killed by heat pasteurization and provides a persistent biopesticide preparation that degrades much slower in sunlight than Bt.

Neither the people selling nor those using the preparations are necessarily aware that the microbes are genetically modified, however. Even organic farmers may be using them inadvertently.

Evidence supporting the initial concerns has accumulated but that has not dampened the use of the GM microbe. For example, a recent review reports that GM S. meliloti strains persisted in the soil for six years, even in the absence of the legume hosts. Horizontal gene transfer to other soil bacteria and microevolution of plasmids was observed. Other studies showed that a soil micro arthropod ingested GM S. meliloti, and a GM E. coli in the arthropod gut facilitated gene transfer to a range of bacteria.

There is little doubt that the antibiotic resistance markers for streptomycin and spectinomycin will be transferred to soil bacteria and to a range of animal pathogens. For example, the resistance genes for streptomycin could be observed to transfer from their insertion as transgenes in plant chloroplast to infecting bacterium Actinobacter sp. when homologous gene sequences were present.

The antibiotics spectinomycin and streptomycin are used extensively in human and animal medicine. Spectinomycin is used to treat human gonorrhea and bovine pneumonia [8]. Streptomycin is used to treat human tuberculosis and Meniere's disease and as a pesticide on fruits and vegetables. Thus, the commercial release of GM Sinorhizobium meliloti has resulted in the establishment of the GM microbe in the soil in millions of acres of cropland, where it can spread antibiotic resistance genes for antibiotics that are extensively in use in medicine and agriculture.

In conclusion, GM microbes have begun to be ubiquitous invaders of the North America ecosystem. This massive invasion took place with little or no public awareness and input, and with very little monitoring of the impact of the invasion. The environmental risk assessments of the commercial microbes were rudimentary and frequently erroneous. We may have a bio-weapons equivalent of a time bomb on our hands.

www.i-sis.org.uk

Where Will It End?

Please understand that the use of animals in work and food has been done for as long as mankind has been on earth. Farming has been used to supply food for man and animal alike. No animal, when undefiled, can cause diseases to mankind. No crop, grown in the proper way according to Yahweh's Law, would ever pose a danger to mankind or to the environment surrounding it. It is only when these animals became defiled, as our beef and chicken have, that they pass the diseases back to humans. It is only when mankind thinks he has a better way than Yahweh's Way and begins experimenting with gene splicing and chemical pesticides that the crops become a danger to us.

Mankind has indeed broken Yahweh's Laws concerning our food supply, that is the care and maintaining of all plants and animals. Keeping these Laws would have protected both our crops and wildlife from defilement, such as mad cow disease and E.coli. There is a way to stop these diseases and to prevent them from ever occurring again. You can learn these ways by getting involved in Yahweh's Work. It is not the animals or plants that are at fault, it is the managers and owners of the animals and lands who are causing the sickness and defilement of our earth.

●Isayah 24:1-6—

1 Before Yahweh's very eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste. Its face is perverted, and its inhabitants are scattered abroad.

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priests; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

The way of rebellious man is to break the Laws, then ask the doctors for a pill to stop the curse they caused. In many cases, the pills become curses themselves.

The Power Of The Drug Companies

The drug companies and the medical care system in the United States are one and the same. Because of the love of money, little regard is given to the healing or helping of the people, but instead to the distribution of drugs and the profit that comes as a result.

Drug giants accused of ignoring fake medicines that kill millions

The world's major drug companies have been accused of turning a blind eye to the multibillion-dollar trade in fake medicine that has resulted in an explosion of child malaria deaths in developing countries.

Governments have not tackled the problem and pharmaceutical companies are burying the issue, afraid that any publicity given to their medicines being faked will lead to a fall in the sale of the genuine product, according to a documentary.

The problem has been particularly acute with the treatment of malaria in Africa, with anti-malaria drugs faked on an industrial scale. Professor Nick White, of Oxford University, one of the world's leading experts on malaria, said: "We estimate that there are more than one million deaths each year which is the equivalent of seven jumbo jets going down every day. And 90 percent of those deaths are in children."

Professor White said that counterfeit medicine was a major reason why malaria had become, over the past 30 years, Africa's biggest child killer, from an illness that used to be easily treated with medicines.

Some of the fake drugs contain no medicine at all, but others have tiny traces of the real ingredients - which leads to another, potentially bigger problem: it allows the malaria parasite to build up resistance to the drug.

Nigeria's campaigning drugs regulator, Dora Akunyili, described counterfeiting as "mass murder." She told the documentary, which will be aired today on The Business Channel, a satellite station: "The fake drug racket and the silence associated with it have led to the resurgence of malaria... The companies kept quiet. The regulators were paid off and everybody was helpless. Drug counterfeiters operated in this country and in most developing countries for almost three decades, unchallenged."

news.independant.co.uk

Under The Influence

(CBS) If you have ever wondered why the cost of prescription drugs in the United States are the highest in the world or why it's illegal to import cheaper drugs from Canada or Mexico, you need look no further than the pharmaceutical lobby and its influence in Washington, D.C.

According to a new report by the Center for Public Integrity, congressmen are outnumbered two to one by lobbyists for an industry that spends roughly a $100 million a year in campaign contributions and lobbying expenses to protect its profits.

One reason those profits have exceeded Wall Street expectations is the Medicare prescription drug bill. It was passed three-and-a-half years ago, but as 60 Minutes correspondent Steve Kroft reports, its effects are still reverberating through the halls of Congress, providing a window into how the lobby works.

The unorthodox roll call on one of the most expensive bills ever placed before the House of Representatives began in the middle of the night, long after most people in Washington had switched off C-SPAN and gone to sleep.

The only witnesses were congressional staffers, hundreds of lobbyists, and U.S. Representatives like Dan Burton, R-Ind., and Walter Jones, R-N.C.

"The pharmaceutical lobbyists wrote the bill," says Jones. "The bill was over 1,000 pages. And it got to the members of the House that morning, and we voted for it at about 3 a.m. in the morning."

But when it came time to cast ballots, the Republican leadership discovered that a number of key Republican congressmen had defected and joined the Democrats, arguing that the bill was too expensive and a sellout to the drug companies. Burton and Jones were among them.

"They're suppose to have 15 minutes to leave the voting machines open and it was open for almost three hours," Burton explains. "The votes were there to defeat the bill for two hours and 45 minutes and we had leaders going around and gathering around individuals, trying to twist their arms to get them to change their votes."

When the prescription drug bill finally passed shortly before dawn, in the longest roll call in the history of the House of Representatives, much of the credit went to former Congressman Billy Tauzin, R-La., who steered it through the House.

Tauzin says that the voting machines were open for three hours "because the vote wasn't finished."

As for arms being twisted? "People were being talked to," he says.

...the drug lobby which invested more than $10 million in campaign contributions during the last election and has been a source of lucrative employment opportunities for congressmen when they leave office.

Former senators Dennis Deconcini, D-Ariz., and Steve Symms, R-Idaho, and former congressmen like Tom Downey, D-N.Y.; Vic Fazio, D-Calif.; Bill Paxon, R-N.Y., and former House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., all registered as lobbyists for the drug industry and worked on the prescription drug bill.

"I can tell you that when the bill passed, there were better than 1,000 pharmaceutical lobbyists working on this," says Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich.

Dingell has been in Congress for 52 years and is the new chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee which shares jurisdiction over Medicare. He says the bill would not have passed without the efforts of the drug lobby.

"There is probably a lotta truth in it that the bill was stacked in their benefit. And it's probably also true that it was written by their lobbyists," he says.

Why was the drug lobby was so interested in this bill and what did it have to gain? Ron Pollack the executive director of Families USA, a nonpartisan health care watchdog group, says it all boiled down to a key provision in the legislation.

It prohibited Medicare and the federal government from using its vast purchasing power to negotiate lower prices directly from the drug companies.

"The key goal was to make sure there'd be no interference in the drug companies' abilities to charge high prices and to continue to increase those prices," says Pollack.

Pollack says there's no question that this was prompted by the pharmaceutical lobby.

"They were the ones who wanted to make sure Medicare could charge high prices and to continue to increase those prices," he said.

The drug industry says that competition among private insurance plans that service the Medicare program help keep prices low. But Families USA reported in a January study that Medicare patients are being charged nearly 60 percent more for the top 20 drugs than veterans pay under a program run by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs.

"Medicare could do the same thing," he says, "but Medicare is prohibited from doing that as a result of this new Medicare legislation."

"What was the logic? Or what was the idea, the rationale behind not giving the government the ability to negotiate drug prices?" asks Kroft.

Burton says it was simply that the drug companies didn't want it.

"They wanted to make as much as money as possible. And if there's negotiation, like there is in other countries around the world, then they're gonna have their profit margin reduced," he says.

Before the vote, Congress was told the program would cost a whopping $395 billion over the first 10 years. In fact, Medicare officials already knew it was going to cost a lot more.

Burton said he and others were misled.

"Within two weeks after the bill was passed, everybody knew it was gonna cost well over $500 billion," he says. "And many members of the Congress [who] had voted for it said, 'I would never have voted for it had I known that.' "

Medicare Chief Actuary Richard Foster later told Congress that he revised the cost estimate to $534 before the vote, but was told to withhold the new numbers if he wanted to keep his job.

During a Congressional hearing, Foster stated: "It struck me there was a political basis for making that decision. I considered that inappropriate and, in fact, unethical."

Foster said the person who told him to withhold Congress from getting the revised estimates was Medicare boss Tom Scully.

Scully was the administration's lead negotiator on the prescription drug bill, and at the time was also negotiating a job for himself with a high-powered Washington law firm, where he became a lobbyist with the pharmaceutical industry.

"He was negotiating for his job at the same time that the Medicare legislation was being considered. He wound up taking this job 10 days after the president signed this legislation," says Pollack.

It is but one example of the incestuous relationship between Congress and the industry, and just one of the reasons the pharmaceutical lobby almost never loses a political battle that affects its bottom line.

Former Congressman Billy Tauzin, who helped push the prescription drug bill through the House, didn't disagree.

Has the bill been good for the drug industry?

"It's been good for the patients whom the drug industry represents ..." Tauzin says. "In terms of profits—[for the drug companies] and volumes, yes."

Says Kroft: "Your old friend, John Dingell, says that of the 1,500 bills over the last 8 years dealing with pharmaceutical issues, the drug companies almost, without exception, have gotten what they wanted."

"Yeah ... I would think he's correct. They've done fairly well," replies Tauzin.

Why has this lobby been so successful? The former congressman says he believes it's because they stood for the right things.

If Tauzin sounds a lot like a lobbyist for the drug industry, that's because now he is.

Jones and Burton agree that the perception of Tauzin's move is not good.

"I mean, when you're pushing so hard for a bill that's controversial and you have to keep the machine open for three hours to get the one vote necessary to pass it, and then, within a matter of months you go to work for the industry that's gonna benefit from it, it does cause you some concern," says Burton.

They are not the only ones cynical about the decision.

"You push this bill through that produces a windfall for the drug companies. And then a short time later, you go to work for the drug lobby at a salary of $2 million. That doesn't look good," says Kroft.

In fairness to Tauzin and former Medicare chief Tom Scully, they weren't the only public officials involved with the prescription drug bill who later went to work for the pharmaceutical industry.

In all, at least 15 congressional staffers, congressmen and federal officials left to go to work for the pharmaceutical industry, whose profits were increased by several billion dollars.

"I mean, they—they have unlimited resources. Unlimited," Burton says. "And when they push real hard to get something accomplished in the Congress of the United States, they can get it done."

In January, one of the first things the new Democratic House of Representatives did was to make it mandatory for Medicare to negotiate lower prices with the drug companies.

A similar measure faces stiff opposition in the Senate, where the drug lobby is spending millions of dollars to defeat it. The president has already announced that if the bill passes, he will veto it.

CBS News

Bringing Down The Strength Of Man

Not only are the pharmaceutical companies dominating Congress, but little attention is being paid to the workings of these drugs and how they are actually harming man and bringing down his strength.

Antibiotics Linked To Huge Rise In Allergies

The increasing use of antibiotics to treat disease may be responsible for the rising rates of asthma and allergies. By upsetting the body's normal balance of gut microbes, antibiotics may prevent our immune system from distinguishing between harmless chemicals and real attacks.

"The microbial gut flora is an arm of the immune system," says Gary Huffnagle... but pinning down the causes of the rise has proved difficult.

Antibiotics have been implicated by some epidemiological studies. For example, the rise of allergies and asthma has tracked widespread antibiotic use. Furthermore, research in Berlin, Germany, has found that both antibiotic treatment and asthma were low in the east compared to the west when the wall came down.

As antibiotic use has increased in the east though, so has asthma.

Now Huffnagle has presented experimental evidence to back up the case. His team gave mice a course of antibiotics before feeding some of them a yeast which is commonly found on human skin.

With the natural gut bacteria suppressed by the drugs, the yeast became established in the mouse, with no side effects. Over the course of the following two weeks, the researchers treated all the mice with spores from a common fungus. Again, this does not cause disease, but fungal spores can trigger allergies in people.

The mice whose gut flora had been manipulated, experienced a much higher immune response to the spores, suggesting that changes to the collection of microbes in people's guts following antibiotic treatment might also make us more susceptible to allergies.

The team has repeated the experiments with a second strain of mice to show that the effect is not dependent on a particular set of mouse genes. They have also used a different molecule to produce the allergic response, an egg protein from chickens called ovalbumin that is commonly used in allergy research.

In this case, when the team looked at the animals' lung linings under a microscope the effect of the overactive immune response was striking. "Their lungs are shredded, absolutely shredded. I'm sure they can't breath," says Huffnagle.

He speculates that our gut bacteria are somehow involved in training the immune system to ignore harmless molecules that wind up in our stomach.

newscientist.com

Drugs In Our Water?

Pharmaceuticals showing up in wastewaters across the nation; state doesn't test for them

By Matt Christensen

TWIN FALLS - If you take an antibiotic and use the bathroom, you may be contributing to a looming environmental crisis.

Across the nation, antibiotics and pharmaceuticals are showing up in wastewater, and some scientists say that may be increasing the rate at which bacteria become resistant to antibiotic medicines that fight human diseases like staph infections. Antibiotic-resistant bacteria could lead to a devastating epidemic.

Perhaps more alarming, federal, state and local governments are doing little testing for drugs in waterways. In Idaho, no agency examines water for antibiotics or pharmaceuticals.

"No, we're not testing at this time," said Richard Huddleston, the Idaho Department of Environmental Quality's wastewater manager. "Currently, there are no standards (for testing water for antibiotics)."

Huddleston said he's not aware of any state that tests wastewater for medicines, but it's a hot topic now among scientists across the country.

Surprisingly, it was a West Virginia high school student that pioneered the research. A teenager named Ashley Mulroy began testing water for antibiotics several years ago after she read a report about them showing up in European waters. For 10 weeks, she gathered samples from the Ohio River. Her results found penicillin, among other antibiotics, and she won a national award for her efforts.

Since Mulroy found the drugs, several research projects have confirmed the presence of antibiotics and other drugs in the nation's waterways.

Between January 2001 and June 2002, the U.S. Geological Survey found an alarming amount of drugs in water they linked to fish hatcheries, including one in Oregon.

Like the Idaho DEQ, the federal Environmental Protection Agency has no standards for testing wastewater for antibiotics. However, its Web site warns that "they may pose risks if they enter the environment." The Web site also cites several studies, including one published in 1993, that implicated estrogen hormones in the decrease of sperm counts among Western men and reproductive disorders in wildlife. [Meaning that the drugs in the water are causing men to become sterile and are even causing mating problems among the animals.]

magicvalley.com

Yahweh has given us many health Laws that, if followed, would stop much of the sicknesses and diseases prevalent today. Your healthcare costs would also be cut. Yahweh also gives us Laws of conduct and shows us that when these Laws are broken we bring diseases upon ourselves. These diseases are all over the world at this time. They are epidemic in many places in the United States and other countries. These epidemics have not yet become major news stories, but that will soon change as the diseases grow in number and severity.

The great lesson that sin leads to destruction is going to be learned this year. It's not years down the road. Mankind is bringing himself to destruction this year, 2007. You do not have years to repent. All of the events prophesied for this time period are increasing to the point of destruction from many different directions because of the many different sins increasing.

Nuclear Testing

Shortly after exploding the now infamous Fat Man and Little Boy nuclear bombs over Nagasaki and Hiroshima, the United States decided to perform nuclear tests in the Pacific area. These tests were performed without providing adequate protection, not only for the U.S. servicemen, but also for the native islanders whose homes bordered the test sites.

It has now been over 50 years since those tests were first conducted. The people of these islands have been suffering the effects associated with excessive radiation exposure. The islands environment has been so badly damaged that it cannot be repaired. The plant life and animal life has also been altered.

In the haste to produce the ultimate weapon of mass destruction, mankind has destroyed generation after generation of innocent children. The women from these islands cannot produce a normal child. Even the animals cannot successfully reproduce. America is solely responsible for bringing these natives to the brink of extinction. The decision to test was backed and approved by all levels of government within the United States. Lijon Eknalang gives her description below of a few horrors her people have suffered.

Horror in the Marshal Islands

by Lijon Eknalang

The Hague—I hope that the court will understand that I cannot be unemotional about the facts of my experience with nuclear weapons. My name is Lijon Eknalang. I was born on Rongelap Atoll in the Marshall Islands, and I lived there at the time of the nuclear weapons testing program conducted by the Administrating Authority for the United Nations during the period of the Pacific Island Territories Trusteeship [post-WW II to 1986].

On the morning of March 1, 1951, the day of the "Bravo" shot, there was a huge, brilliant light that consumed the sky. We all ran outside our homes to see it. The elders said another world war had begun. I remember crying.

Not long after the light from Bravo, it began to snow in Rongelap. We had heard about snow from the missionaries and other Westerners who had come to our islands, but this was the first time we saw white particles fall from the sky and cover our village.

Of course, in 1951, Marshallese children and their parents did not know that the snow was radioactive fallout. My own health has suffered very much as a result of radiation poisoning. I cannot have children. I have had miscarriages on seven occasions. On one of those occasions, the child I miscarried was severely deformed—it had only one eye. I have also had thyroid surgery to remove nodules. I have lumps in my breasts.

Marshallese women suffer silently and differently from the men who were exposed to radiation. Our culture and religion teaches us that reproductive abnormalities are a sign that women have been unfaithful. For this reason, many of my friends keep quiet about the strange births they have had. In privacy, they give birth, not to children as we like to think of them, but to things we could only describe as "octopuses," "apples," "turtles" and other things in our experience. We do not have Marshallese words for these kinds of babies, because they were never born before the radiation came.

Women on Rongelap, Likiep, Ailuk and other atolls in the Marshall Islands have given birth to these "monster babies." Many of these women are from atolls that foreign officials have told us were not affected by radiation. We know otherwise, because the health problems are similar to ours. One woman on Likiep gave birth to a child with two heads. Her cat also gave birth to a kitten with two heads. There is a young girl on Ailuk today with no knees, three toes on each foot and a missing arm.

The most common birth defects on Rongelap and nearby islands have been "jellyfish" babies. These babies are born with no bones in their bodies and with transparent skin. We can see their brains and hearts beating. The babies usually live for a day or two before they stop breathing. Many women die from abnormal pregnancies, and those who survive give birth to what looks like purple grapes that we quickly bury.

The story of the Marshallese people since the nuclear weapons tests has been sad and painful. Allow our experience, now, to save others from such sadness and pain. I ask the court to consider the experience of the Marshallese and to give the people of our world what security you can for their health and for the safety of the environment upon which their survival depends.

www.earthisland.org/journal/s96-27.html

These are just a few of the reports that are a direct result of exposure to a nuclear explosion. We also have the history before us of the effects of radiation from the failure of nuclear plants.

Chernobyl

On April 26, 1986, a routine power test of the Chernobyl Unit Four power plant resulted in a devastating nuclear explosion. It was one of the worst nuclear accidents in the history of the world. Eight tons of fuel, which contained plutonium, and a part of the graphite modulator (also radioactive), were spewed from the reactor, scattering around the site. In addition, caesium and iodine vapors were released from both the explosion and the fires that followed.

The radioactive fallout was spread throughout Europe. The areas that received the heaviest amounts of fallout were Scandinavia and Eastern Europe. Within two days, radiation levels in Kiev, the capital of Ukraine were measured at 100 times over the safe level, however, civilians were not told of this.

375,000 people living near Chernobyl were evacuated from their homes when the decision was made on May 2, 1986. The evacuation was completed on June 7, 1986. Many government officials were distressed at the fact that they left so late. It is estimated that 270,000 people are still living in areas of contamination. They live with restrictions on the consumption of locally grown food.

Scientists have estimated that over 9 million people were directly affected by the Chernobyl accident. Many of them became Chernobyl statistics from the foods they ate.

The water cycle was greatly affected by the Chernobyl disaster. It became contaminated when radioactive fallout diffused into the ground and into bodies of water like lakes and rivers. The radionuclides were spread throughout much of Ukraine and Belarus in that manner. Humans, animals, and plants that drank the water directly or consumed it indirectly ingested radionuclides.

Through the food chain, the contaminants were biologically magnified as they passed from one organism to the next. Eventually, humans consumed the pollutants.

<http://www.geocities.com/pollutionstudies/chernobyl1.html>

Because of the testing of nuclear weapons and the misuse of nuclear energy, the entire world is being affected. Consider the great increase in the amount of earthquakes and tsunamis in this last generation, the nuclear generation. Surely, we cannot be so blind to see that the increase of these events coincided with the increased underground testing of nuclear weapons.

The Real Cause For Global Warming And Deterioration Of The Ozone, So-Called

Pay close attention to what the news media is now reporting about the ozone. The ozone is actually shown in the Holy Scriptures but under a different name. The ozone is the protective shield or atmosphere, what the Scriptures refer to as the firmament or the expanse of the sky. Prophecy also shows the real cause of its deterioration. You need to study the complete Message to understand why Yahweh gave us Laws that would have prevented what we are now seeing in today's world news.

The Kingdom of Yahweh was set up under Abel, the first Righteous Priest. Yahweh allowed the Righteous Teacher of Peace to be taken away to prove what sin will do when there is not a Teacher of Righteousness. The world quickly deteriorated as is shown in:

● Genesis 6:5—

Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually.

● Genesis 6:3, 5-13

3 And Yahweh said: The men of this world will never subject themselves to My Word; The Law and the Prophets, for they are indeed carnally minded. Thus, their days shall be one hundred and twenty years.

5 Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually.

6 For they were acting defiantly against Yahweh because of the evil man had done on the earth, and they acted defiantly against Yahweh in their hearts.

7 So Yahweh said: Authority has been given (by My Heavenly Court) that all life which I have created must be destroyed from the face of the earth; both man and beast, creeping thing and birds of the air, for they have acted defiantly against Me because of the evil they have done.

8 But Noah found regard and honor in the eyes of Yahweh.

9 These are the begettings of Noah. Noah was a just man, perfect in his begettings. Noah walked in the Reverence of Yahweh.

10 And Noah begot three sons: Shem, Ham, and Yapheth.

11 The earth also was corrupt before Yahweh, and the earth was lawless, filled with violence.

12 So Yahweh looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

13 And Yahweh said to Noah: The end of all flesh has come before Me, for the earth is filled with violence through them; and they have corrupted themselves with the earth.

The Kingdom of Yahweh was set up under Mosheh and a Righteous Priesthood, who, as Abel did, taught Righteousness by the 613 Perfect Laws of Yahweh. This Priesthood was called the Levitical Priesthood. It remained Righteous as long as Righteous Priests of Yahweh such as Melchizedek and Samuyl were available to guide the Twelve Tribes. But as these Priests grew old, unrighteousness grew among the Twelve Tribes and soon the unrighteous leaders demanded a king as all other nations around them. Samuyl was instructed by Yahweh to allow this, and a king was chosen.

Not all kings have their minds on teaching the 613 Laws of Yahweh as the Priests of Yahweh do. Plus, people follow examples even more than they follow teachings. So as the kings neglected Yahweh's Laws, they also appointed men less Righteous than Samuyl and Melchizedek to be Priests over the Kingdom that Yahweh placed under Mosheh.

These Priests finally took complete control of the Priesthood in Yahdah and Israyl. They had control of the Temple that Solomon built where all the tithes were brought by Yahdah and Israyl. They also had power from the king and his deputies. This gave them power over the Prophets of Yahweh who were still active in and around Abelin, Israyl.

The Prophets of Yahweh were sent to Yerusalem to warn the kings of the dangers they were placing the nations of Yahdah and Israyl in, by turning to sin, cutting Israyl and Yahdah off from Yahweh's protection. They placed the Twelve Tribes in great danger because Israyl and Yahdah had many neighboring enemies.

● Isayah 59:1-2—

1 Behold, Yahweh's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; nor His ear heavy, that it cannot hear.

2 But your own iniquities have separated you from your Father; and your own sins have caused Him to hide His face from you, so He will not listen.

● Deuteronomy 28:1-14—

1 And it will be, if you will listen diligently to the Voice of Yahweh your Father, by observing and doing all His Laws which I command you this day, that Yahweh your Father will set you high above all the nations on earth as His Kings and Priests.

2 And all these blessings will come upon you, and accompany you, because you obey Yahweh your Father:

3 Blessed will you be in the city, and blessed will you be in the country.

4 Blessed will be the fruit of your body, the produce of your ground, and the young of your livestock: the calves of your herds and the lambs of your flocks.

5 Blessed will be your basket and your storehouse.

6 Blessed will you be when you come in, and blessed will you be when you go out.

7 It will come to pass that your enemies, who rise up against you, will be caused to be defeated in front of you; they will come out against you from one direction, but flee from you in seven directions.

8 Yahweh will send a blessing on your barns and storehouses, and in everything you set your hand to do. Yahweh will bless you in the land which Yahweh your Father is giving you.

9 Yahweh will establish you as His Holy People unto Himself, as He promised you on oath, if you will keep the Laws of Yahweh your Father, and walk in all His Ways.

10 Then all the people on the earth will see that you are called by the Name of Yahweh, and they will honor you.

11 Yahweh will grant you plenteous possessions—in the fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your ground—in the land Yahweh vowed on oath to your forefathers to give you.

12 Yahweh will open the heavens, the storehouse of His Bountiful Treasure, to send rain upon your land in its season, and to bless all the work of your hands. You will lend to many nations, but you will borrow from none.

13 Yahweh will make you the head, and not the tail. You will be at the top only, and never be at the bottom, if you will pay attention to the Laws of Yahweh your Father, which I command you this day, and are then careful to observe and do them.

14 For if you diligently observe and do all of Yahweh's Law, then you will not turn aside from any of the Laws which I command you this day, to the right hand nor to the left; by going after any god (el) to serve it.

All of these blessings were achieved under the leadership of the Righteous Priests and many of them were retained through the time period of Solomon. Even after King Solomon turned to sin and the nations of Israyl and Yahdah forgot Yahweh's Name and His Laws they were still benefiting in many ways from the blessings given to Israyl when they followed the Laws given to them under Mosheh.

One of the most noticeable signs that Yahweh's Laws were still working in the bodies of the Hebrew people is still talked about in history as a strange coincidence; that they were not touched by the black plague that swept across Europe. The black plague took the lives of many people, except the Hebrew people. Even today, scientists are still guessing at the reason why the Hebrew people were not affected. Only The House of Yahweh knows the real reason the Hebrew people survived the black plague.

Plagues Are Prophesied To Again Take Place

Very few people know it, but the Holy Prophets, the Apostles and the Messiah spoke of a time period identified as The End; the time period in which we are now living. In this time period, we will witness the worst plagues (epidemics) ever. A time along with the worst famines ever and when the people will be scorched with great heat.

● Revelation 16:9—

And men were scorched with great heat, and they blasphemed the Name of Yahweh, Whose Law protects the Righteous from these plagues; and they did not repent and give Him glory.

The House of Yahweh has been bringing this information to the world's attention for over 40 years but few ever heeded the warning. Now, we are in the last 3½ years of this Prophecy in which you will see what sin really brings. Sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws, including the Ten Commandments, plus any one of the other 603 Laws that go with the Ten.

● I Yahchanan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

These are the Laws that Yahweh, the Heavenly Father and Creator of heaven and earth, gave to Adam and Eve, Abel, Noah, Abraham, and the Twelve Tribes of Israyl through Mosheh. These Laws were taught and kept by Abel, Noah, and Abraham before Mosheh.

● Genesis 26:5—

Because Abraham obeyed My Voice, and kept My Charge, My Commandments, My Statutes, and My Laws.

These 613 Laws are not the added-to, deleted-from, or watered-down versions followed by the Catholic Church, the Jews, the Moslems, and Christians that cause burdens, confusion, hatred and war.

The 613 Laws are all found in the Inspired Book of Yahweh. They are easy to read and understand. Yahweh's Laws are your friends that keep you from getting drunk, from fornication and adultery and all other things that will wreck your body. But they will not keep you from persecution, from the religions that break these Laws and stand ready to persecute anyone who they find keeping the Laws of Yahweh.

● Acts 7:52-53—

52 Which of the Prophets have not your fathers persecuted? And they have slain those who foretold the coming of the Just One; of Whom you now have become the betrayers and murderers—

53 You, who have received the Law as it was ordained and delivered by Malakim, have not kept it!

● II Timothy 3:12-13—

12 Yes, and all who will live righteously, as Yahshua Messiah, will suffer persecution.

13 But evil men and imposters will grow worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived.

For the last fifty years sin has abounded, and so have the results of sin. What man does shows, but not instantly, but sooner or later the result of sin shows in everything around him, including the atmosphere.

Sexual sins such as fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality and bestiality create bugs in the body. These bugs are unnatural to a person's internal environment and in many ways are harmful to the person's organs and even his brain. These bugs come in all forms because they are mutations and are called by many different names, which science tries to classify into kingdoms each time a new one is discovered.

Each new bug (germ or virus) brings with it new diseases to mankind, the environment and to animals, both domestic and wildlife.

Science, Sometimes, Makes It Much Worse!

It's almost ironic but the very departments and institutions that have been created to find solutions for what sin has brought into the bodies and surroundings of mankind have made matters much worse. Yes, science, in trying to find quick fixes that can be sold to the people, has created and mutated even more and stronger bugs than there are cures.

Strange as the world might believe, such was also prophesied for our time period by the Creator's Prophets in warning us of what man would bring upon himself, his environment and upon the earth.

● Yeremyah 30:12-15—

12 For this is what Yahweh says: Your affliction is incurable, your wound is severe.

13 There is no one to plead your cause, that you might be bound up; treated; you have no healing medicines.

14 All your lovers have forgotten you; they do not see you; for you are wounded with the wound of an enemy, with the fierceness of chastisement: for the multitude of your iniquities, because your sins have increased.

15 Why do you cry about your affliction? Your disease is incurable because of the multitude of your iniquities; because your sins have increased, these things have been done to you.

● Isayah 24:1-6—

1 Before Yahweh's very eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priests; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

Notice What The Bugs Are Causing

Keep in mind as you read the following news article excerpts that man, through fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality and bestiality, has caused all of these diseases. When each act is committed it adds to the snowball that has developed into what we see at this time. No single act of sodomy could cause the dangers we see in today's world but each act of any sexual sin adds to the bugs that we see and those we have not yet seen, or don't know exist.

Experts warn of gathering health crises

...international experts are focusing on the formidable and mounting threats to the world's collective health security.

These include emerging and rapidly spreading diseases, environmental change, the danger of bioterrorism, sudden and intense humanitarian emergencies caused by natural disasters, chemical spills or radioactive accidents, and the effects of HIV/AIDS, a disease that threatens the stability of communities...

...uncertainty and destructive potential of disease outbreaks...

... "We live in a world where threats to health arise from the speed and volume of air travel, the way we produce and trade food, the way we use and misuse antibiotics and the way we manage the environment." [Margaret Chan, the World Health Organization (WHO) director general] Globalisation has...also allowed the rapid spread of diseases that otherwise may have been contained by geographical boundaries...

No single institution or country has the capacity needed to respond to international public health emergencies caused by epidemics, natural disasters or environmental emergencies, or by new and emerging infectious diseases, according to WHO.

The first concerns new, highly contagious diseases, such as severe acute respiratory syndrome (Sars) and avian influenza, which know no borders, according to the report. Their potential to cause international harm means that outbreaks cannot be treated as purely national issues.

In the past few decades, new diseases have begun emerging at an unprecedented rate of one or more per year. "Although the burden can be greater for the developing world, epidemic-prone disease are a growing threat to all nations," Chan said.

In 1997, avian influenza or bird flu caused the destruction of Hong Kong's entire poultry population. In just three days, 1.5 million birds were killed by the authorities in order to prevent the spread of the disease.

The fifth issue is environmental change, which has a growing effect on health. "People are dying upwards of 60,000 in recent years in climate-related natural disasters, mainly in developing countries," according to WHO statistics.

The sixth issue is HIV/AIDS, with an estimated 36.5 million people living with the disease in 2006. The epidemic is a global phenomenon that adversely affects not only the health but also the economy and stability of many countries.

The seventh issue is building health security. A framework of collaboration laid out by the International Health Regulations (IHRs) and various existing surveillance networks can provide an effective early warning and response system.

www.mg.co.za

Gonorrhea Drug-Resistant Microbe Outsmarts Antibiotics

Warning of a looming public health crisis, the Infectious Disease Society of America (IDSA) called for new antibiotics to treat gonorrhea, a common drug-resistant "superbug" that has become increasingly difficult to treat.

Atlanta, GA. infoZine - IDSA's plea came in response to an announcement today by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) that gonorrhea resistance to powerful antibiotics known as fluoroquinolones has become widespread throughout the country.

"Gonorrhea has now joined the list of other superbugs for which treatment options have become dangerously few," said Henry Masur, MD, president of IDSA. "To make a bad problem even worse, we're also seeing a decline in the development of new antibiotics to treat these infections."

In recent years, drug-resistant strains of gonorrhea have become more common. This problem isn't unique to gonorrhea. All types of bacteria quickly mutate and may produce as many as 500,000 generations during one human generation. In order to survive, these bacteria develop resistance to antibiotics.

Other infections that are becoming difficult to treat because of drug resistance include methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA), a life-threatening infection that has become increasingly common among young children; Acinetobacter baumannii, a growing cause of hospital-acquired pneumonia and drug-resistant infections among soldiers returning from Iraq and Afghanistan; and vancomycin-resistant Enterococcus faecium (VRE), a major cause of bloodstream infections, infections of the heart, meningitis, and intra-abdominal infections.

"I have lost patients because the drugs that worked against these superbugs 10 years ago do not work today," said Dr. Masur. "Sadly, virtually every infectious disease doctor I know has experienced similar tragedies."

www.infozine.com

CDC Says Gonorrhea is Drug-Resistant

To avoid a health crisis, officials advise that a different class of drugs be used to treat gonorrhea, now on the list of superbugs resistant to common antibiotics.

ATLANTA (April 13) The sexually transmitted disease gonorrhea is joining the list of "superbugs" resistant to common antibiotics, leading U.S. health officials to recommend wider use of a different class of antibiotics to avert a public health crisis.

"Gonorrhea has now joined the list of other superbugs for which treatment options have become dangerously few," said Dr. Henry Masur, president of the Infectious Disease Society of America, on Thursday. "To make a bad problem even worse, we're also seeing a decline in the development of new antibiotics to treat these infections."

Since the early 1990s, gonorrhea patients have had a relatively easy fix for one of the most common sexually transmitted diseases, which can leave men infertile and put people at higher risk of getting the virus that causes AIDS.

But the bacterial infection increasingly has become resistant to fluoroquinolones, a class of antibiotics that includes Cipro, prompting the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention on Thursday to recommend a different class of antibiotics.

Cephalosporins, which include the generic ceftriaxone or brand name Rocephin must be given as a shot and are not as readily stocked as Cipro on most doctors shelves.

The CDC made the new recommendation after discovering that nearly 7 percent of gonorrhea cases among heterosexual men in a survey of 26 U.S. cities last year were drug-resistant strains of the disease. In 2001, only about 0.6 percent of gonorrhea cases among heterosexual men were drug-resistant.

"That leaves us with a single class of highly effective antibiotics," said Dr. John Douglas Jr., director of the CDCs division of STD prevention. Other experts called the situation perilous.

It is very fitting that the word perilous would be used in describing this situation, because that is the exact word used by the Inspired Apostle Shaul in:

● II Timothy 3:1—

Know this also: that in the Last Days perilous times will come.

Notice the word perilous in the previous verse; now notice what he was referring to.

● II Timothy 3:1-7—

1 Know this also: that in the Last Days perilous times will come.

2 For men will be lovers of themselves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy,

3 Without natural affection, trucebreakers; without a truce, unforgiving, false accusers, without self-control, brutal, despisers of those who are Righteous,

4 Traitors; betrayers, headstrong, arrogant, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of Yahweh,

5 Having a form of holiness, but denying the authority of it—from such turn away!

6 For they are the sort who creep into the houses, and lead away silly women who are loaded down with sins, captured by various lusts,

7 Always learning, but never able to come to the Knowledge of the Truth.

According to Strong's Exhaustive Concordance, the word perilous is word #5467 and means:

5467. χαλεπός (2x) chalēpós, khal-ep-os'; perh. from 5465 through the idea of reducing the strength; difficult, i.e. dangerous, or (by impl.) furious: —fierce (1x), perilous (1x). This word means hard to do or deal with, difficult, fierce, perilous and is said

Also notice in II Timothy 3:1, the Apostle Shaul was speaking of and used the words "the Last Days". Keep the previous Scriptures in mind as you read the following:

● II Timothy 3:12-13—

12 Yes, and all who will live righteously, as Yahshua Messiah, will suffer persecution.

13 But evil men and imposters will grow worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived.

In II Timothy 3:1-7, 13, the Apostle Shaul described today's religions which seek after pleasure, but never read, teach or follow the Holy Scriptures. They have a form of holiness, but it's not based on the Laws of Yahweh that would guide one away from the evil that is being wrought on the earth today. They deny Yahweh and His Laws, and by so doing, their followers have all turned to sin.

Sin is exactly what is causing the STDs, the worst of which you have not yet seen, until this year. Yes, STDs and the curses of sin will continue to grow worse until four-fifths of the earth's population are gone. Notice what the Savior said the Last Days would be like.

● Mattithyah 24:3-7—

3 Now as He sat on the Mount of Olives, the Disciples came to Him privately, saying; Tell us, when will these things be? What will be the sign of Your coming and The End of the Age?

4 Yahshua answered, and said to them: Be on guard, so that no man deceives you;

5 For many will come against My Name, saying: I am anointed to preach salvation!—and will deceive many.

6 And you will hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you are not troubled; for all these things must come to pass. But the end is not yet.

7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes in place after place.

● Mattithyah 24:11-12—

11 And many false prophets will rise, and will deceive the many.

12 And because iniquity; the breaking of Yahweh's Law, will abound, the love of the many will grow cold.

● Mattithyah 24:21-22—

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

● Mattithyah 24:29—

Immediately, but after the Great Tribulation of those days will the sun be darkened, and the moon will not give her light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

● Mattithyah 24:37-39—

37 But just as the days of Noah were, so will also be the coming of the Son of Man;

38 For just as in those days before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying while giving in marriage, until the day that Noah went into the ark, 39 And did not know until the flood came and swept them all away. So also will be the coming of the Son of Man.

● Genesis 6:5, 11-12—

5 Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually.

11 The earth also was corrupt before Yahweh, and the earth was Lawless, filled with violence.

12 So Yahweh looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

All religions today ignore and even teach against the Laws of Yahweh. They dropped all of Yahweh's Laws, including the Laws against fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality and bestiality. When television became popular in the 1950s, every household, from the richest to the poorest, had a television.

● Isayah 24:1-6—

1 Before Yahweh's very eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priests; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

When the Laws are not taught and practiced, sin abounds; when sin increases, the result of sin increases, in the form of sickness, disease, STDs and death.

Now let's finish the previous news article.

Described by Douglas as a "very wily" disease, gonorrhea has worked its way through decades of other treatment regimens, from sulfa drugs used in the 1930s and 1940s, to penicillin, which was used from the 1940s until the mid-1980s.

"We are running out of options to treat this disease," said Douglas, who said there are "no new drugs for gonorrhea in the drug development pipeline."

The CD estimates that more than 700,000 people in the U.S. acquire gonorrhea each year through sexual contact. It is the second most commonly reported infectious disease in the United States, trailing only chlamydia, which the CDC says affects more than 2.1 million people yearly in the U.S.

The highest rates of infection are among sexually active teens, young adults and African-Americans. Because many people do not have obvious symptoms, they can unknowingly spread it to others. In women, gonorrhea can cause pelvic inflammatory disease. In men, it can cause, epididymitis, a painful condition of the testicles that can lead to infertility.

The news articles you just read are only a small portion of what STDs are doing in and to the world. Remember, the Prophets and the Savior showed that those in this time period in which we now live, will witness or die witnessing what sin, permitted by all religions, has done and is still doing to the world. Again notice the following verses:

● Isayah 24:1-6—

1 Before Yahweh's very eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priests; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

In verse 2, Yahweh shows that the religious leaders are the real cause of today's curses—sickness, disease, defilement, confusion, hatred, violence, fighting, war and destructive burning—yet, the people will suffer along with the priests (preachers/pastors).

Sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws.

● I Yahchanan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

In this time period, most people desire to be deceived. If they did not desire deception, they would believe the Inspired Prophets and Apostles. There is no mistaking their words.

● I Yahchanan 3:7-8—

7 Little children, let no man deceive you; he who practices Righteousness is Righteous, just as He is Righteous.

8 He who commits sin is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of Yahweh was manifested; that He might destroy the works of the devil.

Notice, the Apostle Yahchanan, in every Bible, says that every person, preacher, Pope, rabbi, priest or whatever you may call yourself, if you practice breaking Yahweh's Laws, any Law, you belong to Satan, not to Yahweh or the Savior. Unless you desire to be deceived, you would believe the Savior when He says to you the following:

● Mattithyah 7:15, 17—

15 Beware of false prophets who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravaging wolves.

17 Likewise, every Righteous tree brings forth Righteous fruit; but a tree of evil brings forth fruit of iniquity.

Righteousness is keeping Yahweh's Laws. Read this for yourself in your own Scriptures.

● I Yahchanan 3:7—

Little children, let no man deceive you; he who practices Righteousness is Righteous, just as He is Righteous.

● Deuteronomy 6:1, 25—

1 Now these are the Laws, the Statutes, and the Judgments which Yahweh your Father has commanded me to teach you: so that you may observe them in the land you are crossing over to possess;

25 And it will be our Righteousness, if we observe to do all of this Law before Yahweh our Father, as He has commanded us.

Righteousness is the opposite of sin. Sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws.

● I Yahchanan 3:8—

He who commits sin is of the devil, for the devil has sinned from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of Yahweh was manifested; that He might destroy the works of the devil.

The Savior said the following:

● Mattithyah 7:17—

Likewise, every Righteous tree brings forth Righteous fruit; but a tree of evil brings forth fruit of iniquity.

Take careful notice of His words in the next verse:

● Mattithyah 7:19—

Every tree which does not bring forth Righteous fruit is cut down, and cast into the fire.

Now notice what Yahshua says to religious leaders—preacher, priest, Pope, rabbi, or whatever they call themselves:

● Mattithyah 7:21-23—

21 Not everyone who says to Me; Teacher! Teacher! will enter into the Kingdom of Yahweh, but only he who does the Will of My Father Who is in heaven.

22 Many will say to Me in that day; Teacher! Teacher! Have we not prophesied in Your Name, and cast out demons in Your Name, and in Your Name performed many wonderful works?

23 But then I will declare to them; I never knew you. Get away from Me, you who practice iniquity; you who break the Law of Yahweh!

According to the Greek dictionary in Strong's Exhaustive Concordance, the word iniquity is word #458 from word #459, and means transgression of the law, not subject to the Law.

458. ἀνομία anōmia, an-om-ee'-ah; from 459; illegality, i.e. violation of law or (gen.) wickedness:—iniquity. × transgress (-ion of) the law, unrighteousness.

459. ἀνομος anōmōs, an'-om-os; from 1 (as a neg. particle) and 3551; lawless, i.e. (neg.) not subject to (the Jewish) law; (by impl. a Gentile), or (pos.) wicked:—without law, lawless, transgressor, unlawful, wicked.

Who will be allowed eternal life? Seek the answer in the words of the Savior; He does not lie.

● Revelation 22:12-14—

12 And behold, I come quickly, and My Reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work will be.

13 I am the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End.

14 Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.

Yahweh's Laws have not been taught for about 2,000 years. Sometimes a preacher or the Pope will say that we should keep the Laws, but they do not teach that we should keep the Laws of Yahweh, which the Savior and the Prophets referred to. Look at what the Savior said to you— preachers, priests and Popes.

● Luke 24:25—

Then He said to them: O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the Prophets have spoken!

Can these words be any plainer? You either choose deception or you choose the Savior's Words. He does not lie.

Sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws. Ten of those Laws are found in:

● Exodus 20:2-17—

2 I am Yahweh your Heavenly Father Who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

3 You shall have no hinder gods (elohim) at all. They are in opposition against Me.

4 You shall not make for yourself any carved image; an idol, in the form of anything in heaven above, or on the earth beneath, or in the waters below.

5 You shall not bow down to them nor serve them; for I, Yahweh your Father, am a Heavenly Father Who is zealous for My House. I will make it known that the diseases caused by the sexual misconduct of the fathers will be upon their children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, 6 But I will show My love to thousands who love Me by keeping My Laws.

7 You shall not take the Name of Yahweh your Heavenly Father to bring it to nothing, for Yahweh will not hold him guiltless who brings dishonor upon or profanes His Name.

8 Remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it Holy.

9 Six days you shall labor and do all your work,

10 But the Seventh Day is the Sabbath of Yahweh your Heavenly Father. In it you shall do no regular work: you, nor your wife, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your manservant, nor your maidservant, nor your cattle, nor the stranger who dwells within your gates.

11 For in six days Yahweh made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them; and rested the Seventh Day. Therefore, Yahweh blessed the Sabbath Day, and hallowed it; Yahweh made the Sabbath Day Holy.

12 Honor your father and your mother, so your days may be long upon the land which Yahweh your Father is giving you.

13 You shall not murder.

14 You shall not commit adultery.

15 You shall not steal.

16 You shall not bear false testimony against your neighbor.

17 You shall not covet; lust after, your neighbor's house; you shall not covet your neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his donkey, nor anything that belongs to your neighbor.

These are some of the Laws spoken of by the Savior, the Prophets, and the Apostles. If you break one, you are guilty of sin.

● Yaaqob 2:5-12—

5 Listen, my beloved brothers: Has not Yahweh chosen the poor of the world, to be rich in Faith, and Heirs of the Kingdom which He has promised to those who love Him?

6 But you have despised the poor! Do not rich men oppress; persecute, you, and drag you into court?

7 Do they not blaspheme that Worthy Name; Yahweh, by which you are called?

8 If you fulfill the royal Law according to the Scripture: You must love your neighbor as yourself, you do Righteousness;

9 But if you show respect to persons, you commit sin, and are convicted by the Law as transgressors.

10 For whoever keeps the whole Law, and yet offends in one point, he is guilty of all.

11 For He Who said: Do not commit adultery, also said: Do not murder. Now if you do not commit adultery, yet you do murder, you have become a transgressor of the Law.

12 So speak, and so do, as those who are being judged by the Law of liberty.

Now notice the following verses:

● Hebrews 10:16, 24-25—

16 This is the Covenant that I will renew with them after those days, says Yahweh: I will put My Laws into their hearts, and in their minds I will write them;

24 And let us consider one another, how we may urge one another on toward love and Righteous Works;

25 Not forsaking the gathering of ourselves together, as the manner of some is, but exhorting one another; and so much the more as you see the Day approaching.

The gathering of ourselves together is speaking of the Holy Convocation we are commanded to have on the Seventh Day Sabbath, which is Saturday of each week. This is the Fourth Commandment.

● Exodus 20:8-11—

8 Remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it holy.

9 Six days you shall labor and do all your work,

10 But the Seventh Day is the Sabbath of Yahweh your Heavenly Father. In it you shall do no regular work: you, nor your wife, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your manservant, nor your maidservant, nor your cattle, nor the stranger who dwells within your gates.

11 For in six days Yahweh made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them; and rested the Seventh Day. Therefore, Yahweh blessed the Sabbath Day, and hallowed it; Yahweh made the Sabbath Day Holy.

The Apostle Shaul was inspired to write the following:

● Hebrews 4:1-11—

1 Therefore, since a promise of entering His Rest remains, let us fear so that none of you should come short of it.

2 For this Message was preached to us, as well as to them; but the Word which they heard did not benefit them, because they did not share in the Faith of those who obeyed—

3 However, we who have believed do enter that Rest, as He has said: So I vowed in My Judgment, they will not enter into My Rest.

4 For He spoke in a certain place of the Seventh Day, in this way: And Yahweh rested the Seventh Day from all His Works.

5 And in this place again: If they will enter into My Rest.

6 Since therefore it remains that some must enter it, and those to whom it was first preached did not enter because of disobedience,

7 Again, He designates a certain day, saying in David: "Today," after so long a time, as it has been said: Today, if you will hear His Voice, do not harden your hearts.

8 Now Yahshua caused them to rest in obedience to the Law, spoken of by Yahweh in a day previously.

9 Therefore, there remains the keeping of the Sabbath to the People of Yahweh,

10 For he who has entered into His Rest has also ceased from his own works, as Yahweh did from His.

11 Therefore, let us be zealous to enter into that Rest, so that no one may fall after the same example of unbelief.

Notice, verse 6 says that they don't enter because of unbelief. That is the same reason religious leaders do not enter today, unbelief. Where does that place the religious leaders today? Get your answer from the Savior; He does not lie.

● Revelation 21:8—

But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and worshipers of gods (elohim), and all liars, will have their part in the lake which burns with fire and brimstone—which is the second death.

Let's look at:

● Hebrews 4:9—

Therefore, there remains the keeping of the Sabbath to the People of Yahweh.

The Sabbath Law was never done away with. Although, I know you have heard otherwise. Again, let's seek our answer in the teachings of the Savior; He does not lie.

● Mattithyah 5:17-19—

17 Do not even think that I have come to destroy the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to destroy them, but to establish them.

18 For truly I say to you; Unless heaven and earth pass away, one yodh—the smallest of the letters—will in no way pass from the Law, until all things are perfected.

19 Whosoever, therefore, will break one of the least of these Laws, and will teach men so, he will be called before the Judges and cut off from the Kingdom of Yahweh; but whosoever will do and teach them, the same will be called before the Judges and proclaimed great in the Kingdom of Yahweh.

Remember, the Savior said that those who break the Father's Laws will be put out.

● Mattithyah 7:23—

But then I will declare to them; I never knew you. Get away from Me, you who practice iniquity; you who break the Law of Yahweh!

● Revelation 22:14-15—

14 Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the City.

15 For outside are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and worshipers of gods (elohim) and everyone who professes to love, yet practices breaking the Law.

Now let's look at:

● Hebrews 4:10—

For he who has entered into His Rest has also ceased from his own works, as Yahweh did from His.

On what day did Yahweh rest?

● Hebrews 4:4—

For He spoke in a certain place of the Seventh Day, in this way: And Yahweh rested the Seventh Day from all His Works.

The only reason anyone would follow religions that do not keep Yahweh's Laws is because they desire to be deceived. The truth is, the Savior's Words are too plain for deception. The Apostle Shaul spoke of them in:

● II Timothy 4:1—

Therefore, I charge you before Yahweh, and Yahshua Messiah Who will sentence who is to live and who is to die at His appearing and His Kingdom.

Who is to live?

● Mattithyah 7:21—

Not everyone who says to Me; Teacher! Teacher! will enter into the Kingdom of Yahweh, but only he who does the Will of My Father Who is in heaven.

● Revelation 22:14—

Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the City.

● II Timothy 4:3-4—

3 For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts they will heap to themselves teachers, who will tickle their ears; telling them what they want to hear.

4 And they will turn away their ears from the Truth, and will be turned to fables.

Fables means falsehood. Today's religions are filled with fables to lead the people into deception.

FABLE: Christmas, December 25th is the birthday of the Savior. Look this up in any encyclopedia.

Get our booklet, True Stories About Christmas.

FABLE: The resurrection was on Easter Sunday morning. Get our booklets, Was the Resurrection on Sunday and An Easter Remembrance.

FABLE: The Savior did away with Yahweh's Laws. Read the Savior's own teachings.

The list of fables that fill the religious organizations goes on and on.

But These Deceptions Will End Soon

The nuclear baby that was conceived on September 12, 2006 will be born around June 12, 2007, and the nine month nuclear war will erupt, resulting in a third part of man dead over a fourth part of the earth in and around the great River Euphrates. The results of man's sins will not stop June 12, 2007.

Notice:

● Revelation 9:18-21—

18 By these three were the third part of man killed: by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

19 For their power is in their mouths and in their tails; for their tails were similar to serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt.

20 And the rest of the men who were not killed by these plagues, still did not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship demons, and gods (elohim, teraphim) of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which can neither see, nor hear, nor walk;

21 Neither did they repent of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

Sorceries

The word translated sorceries is shown in Strong's Exhaustive Concordance and Thayer's Greek Lexicon to mean: medication, pharmacy, druggist, pharmacist or poisoner.

5331. φάρμακία pharmakēia, far-mak-i'-ah; from 5332: medication ("pharmacy"), i.e. (by extens.) magic (lit. or fig.):—sorcery, witchcraft.

φάρμακία [WH κία, so T (exc. in Gal. v. 20; cf. the Proleg. p. 88); see I, κ], -as, ἡ, (φάρμακίω); a. the use or the administering of drugs (Xen. mem. 4, 2, 17). b. poisoning (Plat., Polyb., al.): Rev. ix. 21 [here WH txt. Tr mrg. φαρμάκων; many interpp. refer the pass. to next head]. c. sorcery, magical arts, often found in connection with idolatry and fostered by it: Gal. v. 20 [where see Bp. Lghtft.] (Sap. xii. 4; xviii. 13; for דַּבְּשָׁ, Is. xlvii. 9; for דַּבְּשָׁ, Ex. vii. 22; viii. 18; for דַּבְּשָׁ, Ex. vii. 11); trop. of the deceptions and seductions of idolatry, Rev. xviii. 23.*

5332. φάρμακός pharmakōs, far-mak-yoos'; from φάρμακον pharmakon (a drug, i.e. spell-giving potion); a druggist ("pharmacist") or poisoner, i.e. (by extens.) a magician:—sorcerer.

(4204) πόρνη, -ης, ἡ, (fr. πρᾶω, πέρνημι, to sell; Curtius §358), properly a woman who sells her body for sexual uses [cf. Xen. mem. 1, 6, 13], Sept. for πόρ; 1. prop. a prostitute, a harlot, one who yields herself to defilement for the sake of gain, (Arstph., Dem., al.); in the N. T. univ. any woman indulging in unlawful sexual intercourse, whether for gain or for lust: Mt. xxi. 31 sq.; Lk. xv. 30; 1 Co. vi. 15 sq.; Heb. xi. 31; Jas. ii. 25. 2. Hebraistically (see πορνεία, b. and πορνείω, 3), metaph. an idolatress; so of 'Babylon' i.e. Rome, the chief seat of idolatry: Rev. xvii. 1, 5, 15 sq.; xix. 2.*

Why Rome, the chief seat of idolatry (rebellion)?
Read on and you will see.

In the 1940s, we thought that penicillin was the answer to the death of STDs. What the medical establishment (scientists) has since found out is that none of their antibiotics kill all the germs that cause the symptoms of STDs. Many of these germs survive and set up house in the victim's body. They then breed, cross with other germs, and mutate into stronger, more deadly germs that go forth claiming more victims by entering their bodies also. In turn, those germs breed, cross with other germs, and mutate. With each mutation the germs continue to get stronger. It becomes a vicious cycle.

If the mutation is part man that gives it the key to transfer from man to man. If it is part bird, such as the case in the bird flu virus, it has the key to transfer from bird to bird, and so forth.

Depending on the sickness of the mind yielding to illegal lust, the germs created can come in any number of forms capable of entering any number of victims, affecting them in many ways, and yes, even the stratosphere. Science has yet to learn all there is to know about the ozone layer within the stratosphere, or what it actually does for the earth and inhabitants other than absorb ultraviolet radiation.

Changing Yahweh's Laws Is The Cause For Curses

Yahweh's Prophets, Apostles and the Savior spoke of a religion that became the major religion of the world, which devoured (took into her teaching) the whole earth. This system started with the fourth beast (kingdom) written in the Book of Daniyl, the Roman Empire.

● Daniyl 2:40—

Then the fourth kingdom will be strong as iron—since iron breaks to pieces and subdues all things, it will break in pieces and crush.

This fourth kingdom was joined by a religion, the Roman Catholic Church, whose spokesman (little horn) became the leader and powerful agent to devour the earth.

● Daniyl 7:7-8—

7 After this I saw in the night visions, and behold, a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and exceedingly strong; and it had great iron teeth; it devoured and broke in pieces, then trampled the residue with its feet. It was different from all the beasts that were before it; and it had ten horns.

8 I considered the horns, and behold, there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots; and behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth speaking great things.

● Daniyl 7:21, 25, BOY—

21 I beheld, and the same horn made war with the Saints, and prevailed against them;

25 And he will speak great words against Yahweh, and will wear out; mentally attack to cause to fall away, the Saints of Yahweh, and think to change the Feasts, Holy Days, and Laws; and they will be given into his hand until a time, and times, and the dividing of time.

● Daniyl 7:25, KJV—

And he shall speak great words against the most High, and shall wear out the saints of the most High, and think to change times and laws; and they shall be given into his hand until a time and times and the dividing of time.

● Daniyl 7:25, Amplified Bible—

And he shall speak words against the Most High [God] and shall wear out the saints of the Most High and think to change the time [of sacred feasts and holy days] and the law; and the saints shall be given into his hand for a time, two times, and half a time [three and one-half years]. [Rev. 13:1-6.]

Notice verse 25, this religion changed the Laws of Yahweh. They changed the Sabbath (Exodus 20:8-11) from the Seventh Day Sabbath, Saturday, to Sunday, the first day of the week. They also replaced the Feast Days with pagan holidays, worshiping the sun god, Baal and the Easter goddess, the queen of heaven. All of this was done, as the Apostle Shaul said in Hebrews 4, because of unbelief. You need our book, Unveiling Satan, Her True Identity Revealed.

The Prophet Isayah was inspired to write that changing Yahweh's Laws is the cause for all the curses the world is now experiencing.

● Isayah 24:1-6—

1 Before Yahweh's very eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priests; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

The Revelation given to Yahshua Messiah, Who gave it by messenger to Yahchanan to copy for us, shows this same religious power.

● Revelation 13:1-8—

1 And I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the names of blasphemy.

2 And the beast which I saw was similar to a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion; and the dragon gave him his power, and his throne, and great authority.

3 And I saw one of his heads, as it were, wounded to death. And his deadly wound was healed; and all the world wondered; followed, after the beast.

4 And they worshiped the dragon which gave power to the beast; and they worshiped the beast, saying: Who is like the beast? Who is able to make war with him?

5 And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things, and blasphemies; and power was given unto him to make war for forty-two moons; months.

6 And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against Yahweh, to blaspheme His Name, and His House, and those who dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given unto him to make war with the Saints, and to overcome them. And authority was given him over all tribes, and peoples and languages, and nations.

8 And all who dwell upon the earth will worship him—whose names have not been written from the foundation of the world, in The Book of Life of the Lamb Who was slain.

These are the Savior's Words. He says they, the religions, will fight against Yahweh and His Saints, those who keep Yahweh's Laws.

● Revelation 12:17—

And the dragon was enraged with the woman, and went to make war with those who forsook her seed; her seed being those who keep the Laws of Yahweh, and have the Testimony of Yahshua Messiah.

● Revelation 17:1-6—

1 And there came one of the seven Malakim who had the seven bowls, and talked with me, saying to me: Come, I will show you the sentence of the great whore that sits upon many waters,

2 With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication; practiced idolatry: godworship (the worship of elohim), and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 So he carried me away in the Spirit into the midst of godworshippers (worshippers of elohim); and I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet colored beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet color, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication.

5 And upon her head was a name written: Mystery Babylon the great the mother of the harlots and of the abominations of the earth.

6 And I saw the woman drunk with the blood of the Saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Yahshua. And when I saw her, I wondered with great astonishment.

She is also shown as a great city that sits on seven hills.

● Revelation 17:18—

And the woman whom you saw, is that great city which reigns over the kings of the earth.

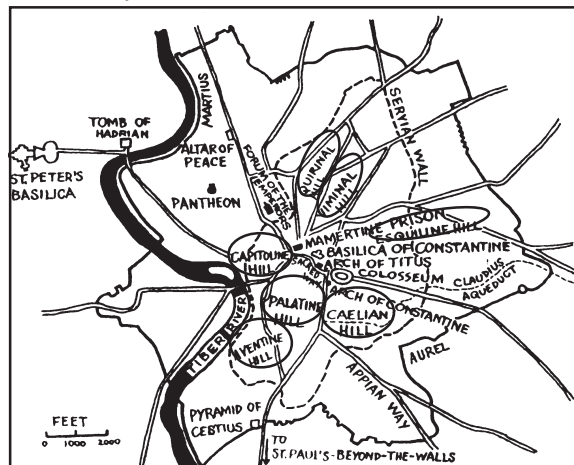

A city that sits on seven hills.

● Revelation 17:9—

And here is the mind which has wisdom: The seven heads are seven mountains on which the woman sits.

The Basic Everyday Encyclopedia page 451 gives us the following information concerning these seven mountains (hills).

Rome (the "Eternal City"), ... Traditionally founded 753 BC by Romulus and Remus, built on 7 hills...

(Map From Unger's Bible Dictionary, page 934)

● Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia, 1948, Volume 12, page 144, also tells us about the city of seven hills.

...the “City of Seven Hills.” ...the Capitoline, Palatine, Aventine, Quirinal, Viminal, Esquiline, and Caelian hills. ...the seat of the papacy, the head of the great Roman Catholic Church.

She has brought forth sin by changing Yahweh's Laws (Isayah 24:4-5) and has created a world of drug addicts. Revelation 9:21 speaks of her sorceries and murders—over 46 million babies are murdered each year through abortion. Fornication, sodomy, adultery, and bestiality are strongly warned against in many Prophecies. Also in these Prophecies are the harmful effects and the results of sin that are sent into the earth and the atmosphere. The Prophets said that the false prophets and the people who follow them would be as Sodom and Gomorrah.

● Yeremyah 23:14—

I have also seen in the prophets of Yerusalem a horrible thing—they commit adultery and walk in lies; they turn from Yahweh and follow after the gods (elohim)! They also strengthen the hands of evildoers, so that no one turns back from his wickedness. All of them are like Sodom to Me, and her inhabitants are like Gomorrah.

The Apostle Shaul referred to them in the following ways:

● Romans 1:18-32—

18 For the Justice of Yahweh is revealed from heaven concerning all unholiness and unrighteousness of men or women, who suppress the Truth in unrighteousness.

19 For that which is known about Yahweh is manifest to them, because Yahweh has shown it to them.

20 For since the creation of the world, the invisible things of Him are clearly seen—His Eternal Power and Holiness—being understood by the things that are written; so that they are without excuse.

21 Because that, when they knew Yahweh, they did not glorify Him as Father, nor were thankful, but became idolatrous; god-worshippers (worshippers of elohim), in their reasoning, and their senseless minds were darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools; simpletons,

23 And exchanged the Glory of the Uncorruptible Father for images, made to resemble corruptible man, and birds, four-footed beasts, and creeping things.

24 Therefore, Yahweh also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own minds, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves:

25 Who exchanged the Truth of Yahweh for the lie; lords (baalim), gods, goddesses (elohim) and demons, and worshiped and served the creation, rather than the Creator, Who is blessed forever. Praise Yahweh! HalleluYahweh!

26 For this reason it came to pass that they gave themselves up to degrading passions: for even their women exchanged the natural use into that which is against nature.

27 And the men did the same thing: leaving the natural use of the woman, they burned in their lusts for one another; men committing shameful acts with men, and suffering in their own bodies the penalty for their error, which is their fitting reward.

28 And so, since they did not like to retain Yahweh in their knowledge, it came to pass that they were given over to deadly diseases that damaged their brains, robbing them of Righteous Judgment, thus doing those things which are perverted;

29 Causing to arise all unrighteousness, sexual impurity, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; total envy, murder, strife, deceit, and malice. They even practice sorcery and witchcraft to protect themselves from these deadly plagues,

30 They are backbiters; slanderers, haters of Yahweh, spiteful, arrogant, and boastful, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 And without understanding. They are Covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable; truce breakers, and unmerciful:

32 Who, knowing the Righteous Judgment of Yahweh, that those who practice such things deserve death, not only continue to do these very things, but also approve of those who practice them.

These verses are referring to sexual sins—sodomy, fornication, adultery, homosexuality, bestiality, and of course pedophilia.

According to the written words of the late Malachi Martin, one of the top writers of the Catholic Church, pedophilia is only one of the acts of worship coming from the gods, which Scripture calls demons. The following excerpt is from The Keys of This Blood, page 632.

It was what knowledgeable Churchmen called the “superforce.” Rumors, always difficult to verify, tied its installation to the beginning of Pope Paul VI's reign in 1963. Indeed, Paul had alluded somberly to “the smoke of Satan which has entered the Sanctuary” an oblique reference to an enthronement ceremony by Satanists in the Vatican. Besides, the incidence of Satanic pedophilia—rites and practices—was already documented among certain bishops and priests as widely dispersed as Turin, in Italy, and South Carolina, in the United States. The cultic acts of Satanic pedophilia are considered by professionals to be the culmination of the Fallen Archangel's rites.

Please understand, the sins of the Catholic Church are many but all sins, no matter what they are, add to the harmful effects that bring harm to all the things with which the earth creeps.

Oddly enough, one of the reasons mankind was created was to guard against the defilement of the earth and our food supply. This information is found in the Hebrew words used in the Book of Genesis but it's somewhat obscure in the English translations. For more information get our book, The Lost Faith of the Apostles and Prophets.

Back to sin and defilement. The Prophet Isayah was inspired to write that changing Yahweh's Laws is the cause for the earth being defiled. Again notice:

● Isayah 24:1-6—

1 Before Yahweh's very eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priests; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

Notice verse 4 again.

● Isayah 24:4—

The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

The word translated earth means earth but it also means everything on and in the earth. In the King James Version, in Genesis, the phrase “everything that creepeth upon the earth” is written. However, the Hebrew meaning is “all the things with which the earth creeps”. This takes into account what science calls microorganisms, microscopic animals, plants, bacteria, viruses, etc.

In fact, each handful of earth is teaming with thousands of kingdoms of microorganisms. These kingdoms are what keeps the earth alive and actively producing our food supply. They work together to both clean and turn everything that dies into reusable substances for the fruits, grains, and vegetables for man and his animals, even the fish and birds.

If all the microorganisms were to die, food production would stop, which means famines and starvation. These microorganisms can be killed out of the earth in many different ways. I ask you to please consider what Yahweh says now, because the earth is getting into bad shape. Back to:

● Isayah 24:4—

The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

The Hebrew word translated fades means to fall or fail, come to nought, deteriorate, make vile, deprave, sick.

As you can see, Yahweh has prophesied that mankind is, through sins, defiling, making sick, and making to fall, or fail all the creeping things with which the earth creeps (kingdoms of microorganisms) in the earth and atmosphere. Now notice verse 5:

● Isayah 24:5—

The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

The Hebrew word for defile means to corrupt, containing alterations, errors, desecrate, to violate the sacredness of; to make unclean or impure, or poison.

The earth is so defiled at this time that science is scrambling to find drugs for the animals, birds and fish just as they are for people to prolong their lives. But the bugs are getting more resistant to the drugs and the earth, people, animals, birds, and fish are getting less resistant.

Will Genetically Engineered Crops Mean Adulterated And Toxic Food, Bodies, and Ecosystems

Without any scientifically or empirically verified evidence, advocates of agricultural biotechnology claim that genetically engineered (GE) or genetically modified (GM) crops are the answer to world hunger and will give security to an ever increasing population. They claim that by making conventional “production” agriculture efficient, biodiversity can be protected and endangered species saved.

There is increasing scientific evidence to the contrary, which is why Great Britain is leading the European Economic Community to put agricultural biotechnology on hold until more is known about the risks and benefits of GE crops, foods, additives supplements (enzymes, vitamins, etc.); to more carefully monitor and effectively regulate agrobiotechnology; and to apply the precautionary principle to this new technology.

At the 12th (1999) annual Scientific Conference of the International Federation of Organic Agriculture Movements (IFOAM), more than 600 delegates from over 60 countries voted unanimously for a declaration against the use of genetically modified organisms in food production and agriculture. The delegates called on governments and regulatory agencies throughout the world to immediately ban genetic engineering in agriculture and food production since it involves:

- Negative and irreversible environmental impacts.
- Release of organisms of an unrecalable nature.
- Removal of the right of choice, both for farmers and consumers.
- Violation of farmers' fundamental property rights and endangerment of their economic independence.
- Practices which are incompatible with the principles of sustainable agriculture as defined by IFOAM.
- Unacceptable threats to human health.

To regard many genetically engineered (GE) crops and food as being adulterated and even potentially toxic, and therefore posing potential risks to human and other consumers (including insects, birds, and wild and domesticated mammals) and to the environment is not unreasonable considering the following scientifically documented findings:

1. There is evidence that foreign DNA can enter the body via the gastrointestinal tract and cross the placenta.
2. Genetically modified organisms can produce unanticipated toxins or allergens.
3. Gene transfer can occur between transgenic plants and bacteria, the ecological consequences of which can be catastrophic.
4. Milk from cows injected with r-BGH, which is not analogous to normal BGH, has elevated insulin-like growth factor that is implicated as a risk factor in human breast cancer.
5. Considering the documented evidence that horizontal transfer between species is a natural phenomenon, the precautionary principle must be applied in creating transgenic organisms that could transfer novel genes and viral vectors to other species. The ecological, evolutionary, and public health consequences of such transfers we will only know after the fact. Horizontal gene transfer is even likely to take place in the digestive systems of protozoa, nematodes, insect larvae, and other soil macro-organisms.
6. That genes, like viruses, can infect should serve as a warning to us all of the potential risks of transgenic organisms serving as reservoirs for new diseases, and as a medium for the evolution of new pathogens because of their altered physiology and biochemistry.
7. Unanticipated multiple side effects of gene insertion (called pleiotropic effects) have been well-documented. Viral "promoters" and "enhancers" that boost expression of transgenes could result in the production of high levels of Bt toxin and other chemicals in transgenic crops. Even more serious harm to the ecology of the soil may result, because this Bt toxin does not rapidly degrade in certain soils after the crop has been harvested and the remains used compost. This toxin in transgenic crops is likely to accumulate more and more in the soil after each crop, and will poison many beneficial insects and other organisms essential for the ecological health and fertility of the soil. This could effect the nutritive value of crops grown in sterilized soil. Genetic alterations in crops like soybeans to make them resistant to herbicides may result in unpredictable, unnatural genetic recombinations and change the biochemistry and nutritive value. Higher levels of phyto-estrogens are produced in beans grown in the presence of the herbicide glyphosate, which may be of particular risk to children.
8. The highly controversial research findings of a reputable scientist, Dr. Arpal Puztai from the UK government's Rowett Research Institute, revealed adverse health effects in rats fed genetically engineered potatoes. He reported abnormal organ development and weakening of the immune system attributable to either the cauliflower mosaic virus that was used as a promoter (and in many other transgenic crops), or to the ative genetically spliced insecticidal lectins present in these GE potatoes. Liver, brain, and heart sizes of the rats all decreased.
9. Some 99 percent of commercial transgeneic crops incorporate virus genes, either as promoters or to control virus infections. These virus genes can recombine with other viruses and may result in new diseases and more invasive pathogens. With the inclusion of antibiotic-resistance markers, transgenic crops could therefore increase the probability of new viral and bacterial pathogens and the spread of antibiotic and drug resistance genes.

10. DNA released from living and dead cells can persist in the environment and be transferred to other organisms. An organism may be dead, but its "naked" DNA released from decaying cells may remain biologically active for potentially thousands of years, especially in certain soils and marine sediments. Naked DNA (nucleic acids) ingested by mice can be transferred to offspring and be voided and spread in animals' feces.

11. One must therefore consider not only the "fate" of transgenic organisms but also the genes and viruses or parts thereof, that have been inserted into them. Such "naked DNA", in the form of recombinant and modified nucleic acids, has been found capable of surviving and remaining functional longer after organisms' death than was assumed previously. Furthermore, xenobiotics, especially dioxins and various agrichemicals, can act as mutagens, altering the structure and sequence of DNA and also increasing the permeability of cells and the incorporation of foreign DNA into living organisms.

12. The instability of transgenic crops is a major concern. There is, in fact, no data documenting the stability of any transgenic line in gene expression, or in structure and location of the insert in the genome. Such data must include the level of gene expression, as well as a genetic map and DNA base sequence of the insert and its site of insertion in the host genome in each successive generation. No such information has been provided by industry, nor requested by regulatory authorities.

Conclusions: Contamination of the "life stream" by naked recombinant DNA, by transgenic viral vectors, and antibiotic resistant genes is probably already taking place. Since a recall is impossible, our best hope if it is not already too late to control genetic pollution, is a five-year-worldwide moratorium on the creation and release of all genetically engineered living entities and products, from new vaccines to transgenic crops, so that science-based risk assessments can be properly completed.

www.progress.org/archive/gene10.htm

New Strain Of Norovirus Hits Hard

BOSTON, April 1, 2007

(CBS) Six weeks ago, 82-year-old Roccina Scuvera battled a wicked stomach bug.

"I was throwing up, I had a headache," she said. "It was not pleasant."

The norovirus had just paid a visit to Massachusetts' largest nursing home, Hebrew SeniorLife, reports CBS News correspondent Michelle Miller.

The norovirus is a very common virus. By the age of four, almost every child has had some form. But the virus that hit Hebrew SeniorLife was a new strain: stronger, longer lasting, and more contagious.

In approximately 36 hours, beginning on February 21, the norovirus quickly spread from one unit of five people to at least three or four other floors. The virus passed from person to person by touch or through food.

Nurses at SeniorLife quickly found that the hospital germicidals they used had no effect on the virus...

In 25 years of practice, Dr. Robert Schreiber, physician-in-chief at Hebrew SeniorLife, says he has never seen anything so contagious.

"The bug was the worst we have ever seen in terms of outbreaks," he said. "The way it's spread, despite the fact we were prepared for this, demonstrated that we were dealing with something new. We have had flu outbreaks here that were nothing compared to what we experienced here."

Major outbreaks of norovirus have been reported nationwide this season. In addition to nursing homes, outbreaks have overwhelmed colleges, prisons, elementary schools, and cruise ships. Preliminary studies conducted by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention show at least 60 percent of the outbreaks this winter were of a new strain, the Minerva II, named after the cruise ship upon which it was first detected.

Norovirus mutations are different from the development of increasingly resistant bacteria, which doctors attribute to the overuse of manmade antibiotics. Researchers like Widdowson at the CDC are trying to explain the surge in norovirus not only in the United States, but worldwide, but they have no answer yet.

Dr. Schreiber says the emerging presence of organisms more resistant and contagious than ever before has the facility expecting more outbreaks...

www.cbsnews.com

Bacteria Thrives In Pesticide Environment

Pesticides Breeding Ground for Bacteria

Germs thrive in certain farm chemicals, study shows. Pesticides kill insects, but new research suggests they may be a breeding ground for different types of bugs—bacteria.

Four out of 15 pesticides tested proved to be a very friendly environment for germs that cause human diseases, says Rick Holley, professor of food microbiology at the University of Manitoba in Canada.

...the incidents of illness carried by plants have doubled or tripled in the last decade, Holley says.

"Normally one used to find food-borne illness associated with animal-based products," he says. "There's been a shift toward fruits and vegetables."

In his research, Holley mixed 15 kinds of pesticide—five herbicides, five insecticides and five fungicides—according to manufacturers' directions. He then inoculated the pesticides with bacteria, including salmonella, shigella, listeria and Escherichia coli. The pesticides sat in 71.6-degree Fahrenheit temperatures for four days.

"What we found was that in four of those pesticides, including at least one in each category, the bacteria in 24 hours increased 1,000-fold, and if we held it longer, it increased 10,000-fold," he says. "That's a significant increase in a small amount of time, and it surprised us."

"We're very concerned about the fact that the bacteria grew in these products, but we don't know what the full impact might be," Holley says.

Both Holley and Porterfield recommend consumers wash fruits and vegetables before eating them.

Even so, there's no guarantee of germ-free produce.

"I'd like to be able to say you could successfully wash away any problem bacteria, but the fact is that isn't 100 percent certain," Holley says.

www.annieappleseedproject.org

The only way a disease can jump to mankind is by being part man. Just as multiple men's seeds in a woman's body create, mutate and spread STDs, bestiality (man with beast) creates bugs that are part animal and part man, which can infect man or beast. The same is true with men defiling birds.

Growing Number of Diseases Jump to Humans

ST. LOUIS Humans risk being overrun by diseases from the animal world, according to researchers who have documented 38 illnesses that have made that jump over the past 25 years.

That's not good news for the spread of bird flu, which experts fear could mutate and be transmitted easily among people.

There are 1,407 pathogens viruses, bacteria, parasites, protozoa and fungi that can infect humans, said Mark Woolhouse of the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. Of those, 58 percent come from animals. Scientists consider 177 of the pathogens to be "emerging" or "reemerging."

Humans have always been attacked by novel pathogens. This process has been going on for millennia. But it does seem to be happening very fast in these modern times," Woolhouse said.

Woolhouse argues that either many of those diseases and other afflictions will not persist in humans or that there is something peculiar today allowing so many of them to take root in humans.

www.newsmax.com

Why is it "happening" so fast in modern times? The answer is:

● Isaiah 24:5-6—

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

It Sounds Like AIDS!

What science calls HIV/AIDS, the Scriptures call an abomination. The English word abomination comes from the Hebrew word towebah and means something or someone having a sickness or disease that will transfer from that person to someone else.

How an abomination is acquired is simple, and is outlined for us in the Holy Scriptures. It's created by mankind and passed from person to person or from man to animals, birds, and fish. It even defiles the soil and the air (ozone-firmament).

● Genesis 1:6, 8, KJV—

6 And [Yahweh] said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

8 And [Yahweh] called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and the morning were the second day.

We are told by the Inspired Prophets that Yahweh's Creation is Perfect. Even scientists cannot disagree with this fact.

We are also told by the Prophets to guard Yahweh's Creation—do not mix or change it. Otherwise, we would bring defilement to ourselves and all creation. Mankind rebelled and the defilement came. The more Laws of Yahweh that were broken the more defilement grew in the earth and the more the sickness and disease spread.

The Prophets also foretold that a major religion would change Yahweh's Laws. As it turned out, that prophecy was admittedly fulfilled by the Catholic Church and all religions of the earth follow in the same rebellion today. Yes, the Catholic Church changed Yahweh's Laws by means of deception and persuaded all religions and governments to turn from keeping any of Yahweh's Laws.

To a certain extent, sexual sins were taught against up until the 1940s. Therefore, the earth was not as defiled then as it is today. The defilement started increasing when television was invented and introduced into all homes, and Hollywood became the teacher of the world. Since that time sexual sins have increased—fornication, adultery, homosexuality, sodomy and even bestiality.

Each time a Law is broken, a defilement is created. As sin continues, defilements continue to be created, mixed, mutated and multiplied. HIV/AIDS is only one of the many pathogens that mankind's sins have created.

AIDS is turning into a kingdom of killers. It is capable of associating with many different microorganisms, which the Scriptures refers to as the things with which the earth creeps, breeding and mixing with them, making them helpers in the kingdom of HIV/AIDS.

With all of this in mind, carefully read the following articles.

HIV/AIDS

Infections Associated with AIDS

Because people with AIDS have weakened immune systems, they're more prone to infections, called opportunistic infections. Opportunistic infections are caused by organisms that typically don't cause disease in healthy people but affect people with damaged immune systems. These organisms attack when there's an "opportunity" to infect.

Deterioration of the immune system is caused by the decline in CDE4+ and T cells, the immune system's key infection fighters. As soon as HIV enters the body, it begins to destroy these cells.

Many opportunistic infections associated with AIDS cause serious illness. Some may be prevented. Below is a list of infections and how they affect the body.

Eyes

- Cytomegalovirus

Gastrointestinal Tract

- Cryptosporidiosis
- Cytomegalovirus
- Mucobacterium Avium Complex - The bacteria that cause this infection is found in water, dust, soil and bird droppings.

Genitals

- Candidiasis - Candidiasis is an infection caused by the candida fungi. Also known as a yeast infection... It can affect the entire body, but most commonly occurs in the mouth...
- Herpes Simplex - This virus causes genital herpes, which are painful blisters... more common in the advanced stage of AIDS.
- Human Papilloma Virus (HPV)

Liver

- Liver Disease - one of the leading causes of death among AIDS patients...

Lungs

- Coccidiomycosis - caused by inhaling an infective fungus called Coccidioides immitis, found mainly in contaminated soil in the southwestern United States, Mexico, Central America and parts of South America.
- Histoplasmosis
- Pneumocystis Carinii - This condition occurs when a fungus infects the lungs.
- Recurrent Pneumonia - People with AIDS are at risk for recurrent bacterial pneumonia.
- Tuberculosis - This is a serious, and often deadly, bacterial infection...

Mouth and Throat

- Candidiasis - This is the most common HIV-related fungus infection. It can affect the entire body, but most commonly occurs in the mouth (thrush) or vagina. An overgrowth of yeast causes white patches on gums, tongue or lining of the mouth, pain, difficulty in swallowing and loss of appetite.

Skin

- Herpes Simplex

www.ucsfhealth.org

Alarming rise in HIV/AIDS cases in Bihar

There has been an alarming rise in HIV/AIDS cases in Bihar during the past six years even as the state government has spent scores of rupees to contain the deadly disease.

Quoting the Santinei Surveillance Report for 2006-07 carried out by the State Aids Control Society, its Executive Director KP Ramaiah confirmed "alarming" rise in HIV/AIDS cases.

The dreaded disease was spreading to new areas as ten districts, where no case of HIV/AIDS was detected earlier, we're now having high prevalence of it, he said.

According to the report, the number of cases of HIV positive patients rose to 4,254 during 2006-07 as against 2,786 in 2005-06.

In 2001-02 only seven HIV/AIDS cases were detected in the state, while it went up to 348 in 2002-03, 812 in 2003-04 and 824 in 2004-05, the report showed.

www.hindustantimes.com

Common birds hit hard by West Nile virus

Disease can be blamed for the decline of crows, blue jays, robins, wrens, chickadees and bluebirds

TORONTO – The West Nile virus has had a devastating impact on the bird population, killing hundreds of blue jays, crows, a study has found.

The U.S. study published today in the journal Nature says the virus, transmitted through the bite of an infected mosquito and believed to have arrived in North America in 1999, has not only infected more than 21,000 people in Canada and the United States, but is the culprit in the decline of seven common bird species.

The study found that seven bird species were hit by the virus: the American crow, the blue jay, the tufted titmouse, the American robin, the house wren, the chickadee and the Eastern bluebird. ...in Maryland, for example, the Chickadee population was 68 per cent below expected levels in 2005. Eastern bluebirds and American robins were 52 per cent and 32 per cent below. The American crow was hit hardest, losing 45 per cent of its numbers across the United States.

Dr. LaDeau said crows may be seen as nuisances, but they also clean up animal carcasses and regulate other bird populations by being predators: "If you take out crows, are we going to see more rates?"

The West Nile virus can be a mild or potentially fatal disease. Humans who are infected may contract encephalitis, meningitis or become comatose and die.

Dr. LaDeau said it is not known how severe the impact of the virus has been on rare birds and birds of prey, such as the owl, hawk and eagle because there is no survey that monitors them.

www.theglobeandmail.com

This same mixture that is affecting mankind can also affect the birds and bees.

Avian Flu

The next pandemic?

It's one of 16 varieties of avian influenza or bird flu.

American researchers now say the deadly H5N1 form of bird flu has split into two distinct strains...

Antiviral drugs like Tamiflu and Relenza...have to be taken within 48 hours of getting the flu.

Killing millions of birds has not eliminated the threat to people from avian flu.

Indonesia, 2005. A man and his two daughters die of H5N1, although none of them worked around poultry. The WHO says it cannot rule out the possibility of human-to-human transmission of avian flu in these cases.

The WHO is paying particular attention to H5N1 for several reasons:

- It mutates rapidly and now has a history of being able to acquire genes from viruses infecting other animal species.
- It has caused severe disease in humans.
- Laboratory studies have demonstrated that isolates from this virus have a high pathogenicity and can cause severe disease in humans.

- Birds that survive infection excrete the virus for at least 10 days making it easier to spread the virus at live poultry markets and by migratory birds.

Symptoms of Avian Flu

(Notice how closely these relate to AIDS)

- Fever
- Fatigue
- Cough
- Sore throat
- Eye infections
- Muscle aches

The WHO also says the epidemic in birds caused by H5N1, which started in December 2003 in Korea, has spread to other countries. More infected birds increases the opportunities for direct infection of humans. If more humans become infected, the WHO says the odds also increase that humans, if they're infected with human and avian influenza strains at the same time could serve as a "mixing vessel" for a mutated virus that spreads easily from person to person. That would mark the start of a flu pandemic.

"What worries me most is the ignorance of people in the public who assume that if they get sick there will be something there for them, and they don't realize the devastation this could be."

Flu would hit health-care workers as well.

"The virus has gained the ability to infect a large number of hosts...not only the chickens that it normally infects but tigers, cats, and transmitted to humans, and there's some evidence that it's refining its genes [same as AIDS], if you will. I'll suggest that it's pretty good evidence that this will probably be the next one."

In February 2004, another strain of avian influenza H7N3 swept through B.C.'s poultry industry. The province ordered more than 17 million birds killed. It took about six months for the province to be declared free of avian flu. The outbreak was devastating to the poultry industry. There were also two documented cases in people, who showed mild influenza illness and eye infections.

There are few warning signs before a pandemic strikes except a large and rapidly growing number of new and unrelated cases every day. The WHO says in the best-case scenario, two to seven million people will die in the next pandemic and tens of millions will need medical attention. But if the virus is particularly virulent, the number of deaths could be dramatically higher.

The organization warns that the global spread of a pandemic can't be stopped — but preparing properly will reduce its impact.

Launched in March 2007, the avian influenza futures market aims to recruit epidemiologists, veterinarians, and other medical experts who will use seed money to bet on a series of events, including the probability that a person will be infected with bird flu in Hong Kong by July 1.

Doctors with the experiment say the project aims to gather as much information from people around the world to complement conventional disease surveillance systems.

www.cbc.ca

Again, I Say, It Sounds Like AIDS!

The following information shows us that the honey bees are developing AIDS-like symptoms.

Under the Weather Bees

By Rick Leventhal

When I first got the assignment to do a story on dead honeybees, I was intrigued and curious ... not just about why they were dying, but why people would care.

What I didn't know is that bees pollinate more than flowers. They're partially responsible for one out of every three bites of food the average American eats.

Scientists are reporting a dramatic loss of honeybee colonies. Some beekeepers say they're losing 20 percent of their bees, others say half, some say 80 percent. They open the hives to find the bees dead, or gone.

Diana Cox-Foster, a professor of entomology at Penn State University, has been working on the problem for months now. She says the die-off is unprecedented, and she's made some dramatic discoveries. For example, the normally resilient bees she dissected showed traces of not one or two diseases, but nearly every disease known to affect them over the past century. They had ALL the diseases at once, a sign their immune systems have been compromised.

"It sounds like bee AIDS...?" I asked.

"It is in a way," she said. "AIDS in humans is caused by HIV. We don't have anything like that yet but we are seeing something very similar in terms of bee AIDS here. The bees are immuno-compromised, being stressed somehow."

It's uncommon, unusual, and frightening to everyone associated with the often-overlooked industry.

www.foxnews.com

What's Killing Billions of Bees?

Aired May 16, 2007 - 22:00 ET

COOPER: Here's a story you need to know about. There's something very strange happening to America's bees, the honey bees, in particular. They're vanishing by the billions.

Considering how vital they are to our crops and to our food supply, unraveling the mystery has become a top priority. Congress is holding hearings. Even the vice president has been briefed.

CNN's Randi Kaye investigates.

RANDI KAYE, CNN CORRESPONDENT (voice-over): This is the scene of the crime. But where are the bodies?

DAVE HACKENBERG, BEEKEEPER: The bees are gone.

KAYE (on camera): so this is what you call a dead hive?

HACKENBERG: Yep. Empty box, no bees.

KAYE (voice-over): They're gone and presumed dead. But no corpses, no clues.

(on camera) The buzz began with Dave's bees at Dave Hackenberg's bee farm, ground zero for the mystery of the missing bees. Hackenberg believes he's lost more than 2,000 hives. With about 40,000 bees per hive, that's 80 million bees gone.

HACKENBERG: I mean, boxes are empty. There's just, you know, nothing here. No dead bees on the ground, no bees anywhere.

KAYE: Billions of honey bees in more than 25 states and five Canadian provinces have simply vanished.

And there's more than just honey at stake for all of us. The USDA estimates bees contribute $15 billion to U.S. agriculture each year. We get an astonishing 30 percent of our food from plants pollinated by honeybees. Crops like almonds, apples, blueberries and broccoli wouldn't grow without them.

HACKENBERG: Somewhere between a quarter and a third of all the bees in the United States disappeared last year. You know, we're talking about a serious situation.

KAYE: Serious enough for scientists to give this bizarre syndrome a name: colony collapse disorder.

(on camera) How does a honey bee simply vanish without a trace?

HACKENBERG: That's a good question, a real good question.

KAYE (voice-over): Colony collapse disorder appears to throw off the bees' homing skills. They can't find their way home, so they die. Without them, the queen and babies die, too.

Most of Hackenberg's hives, if not already dead, are in the midst of collapse.

Meanwhile, the search for clues has moved to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's lab in Beltsville, Maryland, which is responsible for honey bee health. Investigators here are painstakingly conducting bee autopsies.

(on camera) I would imagine doing an autopsy on a bee is a bit challenging, given their size.

JAY EVANS, USDA RESEARCH GENETICIST: Yes. But if you do enough of them, it gets easy after a while.

On the left is a viral disease.

KAYE: The USDA research geneticist, Jay Evans, is doing his own detective work.

EVANS: So what we're doing now is devising experiments where we can inject them or expose bees to those pathogens and see if the symptoms after that are similar to what's been observed in the field.

KAYE: Think of it this way, recreating a murder to catch the killer. Already, some popular theories have been ruled out, like cell phone radiation interfering with the bees' natural ability to navigate.

DIANA COX FOSTER, ENTOMOLOGIST, PENN STATE:

KAYE: Cox Foster's suspicions are now focused on an insecticide farmers started using a few years ago.

(on camera) What alarms you most about this?

FOSTER: The impact and how quickly the colonies are dying. And there's some evidence, very good evidence to suggest that there is a pathogen involved.

KAYE (voice-over): A pathogen or disease, but which one?

FOSTER: We did sort of do our own little CSI, if you will.

KAYE (voice-over): In some bees at least five different diseases have been discovered, which suggests...

FOSTER: Their immune system has broken down completely, gone haywire.

KAYE: Something similar to what happens in humans who have AIDS.

Honey bee specialist Maryann Frazier says even trace amounts of an insecticide could be lethal.

MARYANN FRAZIER, ENTOMOLOGIST, PENN STATE: It could interfere with their ability to learn or to navigate. This is well documented that pesticides can have these kind of effects.

KAYE: Whatever it is, more bees are disappearing every month. Dave Hackenberg's hives tell him there isn't much time left.

(on camera) How do you feel when you look at something like this? I mean, this is your livelihood?

HACKENBERG: I feel pretty empty.

KAYE (voice-over): For the bees and for the rest of us, it's time to figure out how this mystery ends.

Randi Kaye, Lewisburg, Pennsylvania.
transcripts.cnn.com

When the religions let television teach fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality, and bestiality, and followed the Catholic Church in changing Yahweh's Laws, they let sin increase to what the Savior described as the days of Noah.

● Mattithyah 24:37—

But just as the days of Noah were, so will also be the coming of the Son of Man.

● Genesis 6:5, 9—

5 Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually.

9 These are the begettings of Noah. Noah was a just man, perfect in his begettings. Noah walked in the Reverence of Yahweh.

Yahweh tells mankind the cause for the escalation of all diseases is sin increasing, in fact, reaching its peak in this time period. Man keeps lying to himself, pretending he doesn't know the cause and letting it worsen to the point that the Savior described, which is what Yahweh says this world's religions will do.

● Isayah 24:1-6—

1 Before Yahweh's very eyes, the earth is made empty and it is made waste; the face of it is perverted and its inhabitants scattered abroad;

2 And it will be: as with the people, so with the priests; as with the servant, so with his owner; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with him who takes usury, so with him who gives usury to him:

3 The land will be utterly emptied and utterly plundered, for it has come to pass that this Judgment has been pronounced.

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

6 Because of this, the curse has devoured the earth, and they who dwell therein are desolate; therefore, the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left.

As a result of the Laws being changed, illegal lust is totally out of control and the Savior showed what such behavior would bring in this time period.

● Mattithyah 24:12—

And because iniquity; the breaking of Yahweh's Law, will abound, the love of the many will grow cold.

● Mattithyah 24:21-22, 29—

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

29 Immediately, but after the Great Tribulation of those days will the sun be darkened, and the moon will not give her light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

● Revelation 9:20-21—

20 And the rest of the men who were not killed by these plagues, still did not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship demons, and gods (elohim, teraphim) of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which can neither see, nor hear, nor walk.

21 Neither did they repent of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

You can continue in these sins and you will see your end, or The End, by October 13, 2007.

Nuclear war, yes, nuclear war—the birth of the nuclear baby will take place around June 12, 2007. At that time, a third part of mankind will have been killed over a fourth part of the earth in and around the great River Euphrates, but that will not be the end the Savior spoke of in Mattithyah 24:29.

Even after the birth of the nuclear baby, mankind's religions still will not repent. You can follow them if you choose or you can repent and come out from among them, if you desire to turn from sin, repent, and start keeping Yahweh's Laws of Righteousness.

● Revelation 18:1-5—

1 And after these things I saw another Malak come down from heaven, having Great Authority; and the earth was enlightened with His Glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying: Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of demons, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying: Come out of her, My people, so that you do not partake in her sins, and so that you do not receive of her plagues.

5 For her sins have reached unto heaven, and Yahweh has remembered her iniquities!

● Revelation 22:12-16—

12 And behold, I come quickly, and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work will be.

13 I am the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End.

14 Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.

15 For outside are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and worshipers of gods (elohim) and everyone who professes to love, yet practices breaking the Law.

16 I, Yahshua, have sent My Malak to testify to you these things in the congregations of The House of Yahweh. I am the Root and the Offspring of David, and the Bright and Morning Star.

From all the previous articles, one fact stands clear, the results of sin are defiling the earth. If the Laws of Yahweh had been taught to all the world for the last 2,000 years, the earth and atmosphere would not be defiled today.

Only a few of the Laws remained in the teachings of the religions from the time of the deaths of the Disciples of Yahshua until 1940. The Laws against fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality, bestiality, seduction, murder, and theft were still taught, until about fifty years ago. After the introduction of television into homes in the 1940s, the Laws against these sins were heard less and less. In the last fifteen years, these sins have actually become acceptable to the majority as the Apostle Shaul wrote in Romans.

● Romans 1:23-32—

23 And exchanged the Glory of the Uncorruptible Father for images, made to resemble corruptible man, and birds, four-footed beasts, and creeping things.

24 Therefore, Yahweh also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own minds, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves:

25 Who exchanged the Truth of Yahweh for the lie; lords (baalim), gods, goddesses (elohim) and demons, and worshiped and served the creation, rather than the Creator, Who is blessed forever. Praise Yahweh! HalleluYahweh!

26 For this reason it came to pass that they gave themselves up to degrading passions: for even their women exchanged the natural use into that which is against nature.

27 And the men did the same thing: leaving the natural use of the woman, they burned in their lust for one another; men committing shameful acts with men, and suffering in their own bodies the penalty for their error, which is their fitting retribution.

28 And so, since they did not like to retain Yahweh in their knowledge, it came to pass that they were given over to deadly diseases that damaged their brains, robbing them of Righteous Judgment, thus doing those things which are perverted;

29 Causing to arise all unrighteousness, sexual impurity, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; total envy, murder, strife, deceit, and malice. They even practice sorcery and witchcraft to protect themselves from these deadly plagues,

30 They are backbiters; slanderers, haters of Yahweh, despiteful, arrogant, and boastful, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 And without understanding. They are Covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable; truce breakers, and unmerciful:

32 Who, knowing the Righteous Judgment of Yahweh, that those who practice such things deserve death, not only continue to do these very things, but also approve of those who practice them.

When Righteous Teachers of the Holy Laws of Yahweh are taken away, no one notices. And when they cease to teach, there is nothing to stop the growth of evil, which defiles man, beast, land, water and the atmosphere.

Notice the sexual sins that Yahweh warns us against:

● Leviticus 18:1-30—

1 And Yahweh spoke to Mosheh, saying:

2 Speak to the children of Israyl and say to them; I am Yahweh your Father.

3 After the doings of the land of Egypt where you dwelt, shall you not do; and after the doings of the land of Canaan, where I am bringing you, shall you not do; neither shall you walk in their ordinances.

4 You shall observe and do My Judgments, and keep My Ordinances, to walk in them. I am Yahweh.

5 You must therefore keep My Statutes, and My Judgments, which, if a man does, he will live through them. I am Yahweh.

6 None of you shall approach anyone who is near of kin to him, in order to have sexual relations. I am Yahweh.

7 The nakedness of your father, which is the nakedness of your mother, you shall not uncover; she is your mother. Do not have sexual relations with her.

8 Do not have sexual relations with your father's wife, though not your own mother; it is your father's nakedness.

9 You shall not have sexual relations with your sister, the daughter of your father or of your mother, whether born at home or born abroad.

10 You must not have sexual relations with your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter; your granddaughters. Their nakedness you shall not uncover, for they are your own flesh.

11 You must not have sexual relations with your father's wife's daughter, begotten by your father; she is your sister; you shall not uncover her nakedness.

12 You shall not have sexual relations with your father's sister; your aunt. She is your father's near kinswoman.

13 You shall not have sexual relations with your mother's sister; your aunt. She is your mother's near kinswoman.

14 You shall not have sexual relations with your father's brother's wife. You shall not approach his wife; she is your aunt.

15 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law. She is your son's wife; you shall not have sexual relations with her.

16 You shall not have sexual relations with your brother's wife; your sister-in-law. She belongs to your brother.

17 You shall not marry a woman and her daughter, nor shall you take her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter; her granddaughter, to have sexual relations.

They are her near kinswomen; it is wickedness and lewdness.

18 You must not marry a woman in addition to her sister, to be a rival to her, having sexual relations with the second sister while in the dwelling in which the first sister is living.

19 Also, you shall not have sexual relations with a woman during the uncleanness of her monthly period; niddah, nor during any similar uncleanness; zavah.

20 Moreover, you shall not have sexual relations with your neighbor's wife, to defile yourself, along with her.

21 You shall not give any of your children to be passed through the fire, to sacrifice them to Molech. You shall not profane the Name of Yahweh by giving your children to gods (elohim). I am Yahweh.

22 You shall not have sexual relations with a man, as with a woman. It is an act that is injurious to others.

23 Neither shall you have sexual relations with any animal and defile yourself, along with it; neither shall any woman present herself to have sexual relations with an animal. It is confusion and perversion.

24 Do not defile yourselves in any of these ways, for this is how the nations who are going to be driven out before you became defiled:

25 For the world is defiled because they have given themselves over to sin; and the land itself vomits out her inhabitants.

26 You shall therefore keep My Statutes and My Judgments, and you must not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation nor any of the strangers that sojourn among you—

27 (For all these abominations have the people of the land done, who were before you, and thus the land is defiled; unholy)—

28 Or the land will vomit you out, if you defile it, as it vomited out the nations that were before you.

29 For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, the person who commits them shall be cut off from among his people.

30 Therefore you shall keep My Ordinance, and commit none of these customs that injure others, which were committed before you, and that you do not defile yourselves with them. I am Yahweh your Father.

Now notice these same sins not only cause animals and people to become defiled, but also the land becomes defiled.

● Leviticus 18:25—

For the world is defiled because they have given themselves over to sin; and the land itself vomits out her inhabitants.

The Hebrew word translated land in Leviticus 18:25 means also world and is translated such in several Scriptures, such as:

● Isaiah 34:1—

Come near to hear, you nations; and listen, you people! Let the earth hear, and all that is in it; the world, and all things that come forth from it.

This verse is speaking of this time period and the global warming that has only just started. Notice:

● Isaiah 34:2-4—

2 For the Judgment of Yahweh is upon all nations, and He will become zealous because of all their armies. They are utterly destroyed; cherem. They have been delivered over to the slaughter.

3 Also their slain will be cast out and their stink will come up out of their carcasses, and the mountains will be melted along with their blood.

4 And all the host of heaven will be dissolved, and the heavens will be rolled together like a scroll; all their host will fall down, as the leaf falls from the vine, and as figs falling from the fig tree.

When People Sin

When a woman has more than one sex partner, bugs are created inside her body that later become known as STDs. This sin is known as fornication or adultery. When the person dies, the bugs live on. They are dispersed into the earth and the atmosphere. These bugs are not beneficial to mankind; they are harmful.

Once these bugs are created they do not vanish. It is now known that they lie dormant in the soil, in the water and even in the atmosphere for years, even generations, until they are picked up by another victim.

They are never noticed until symptoms begin to show in their victim. The damage they do to the body cannot always be seen. While the bugs are carried by their host, they mix with other bugs in the host's body, breed, cross-breed, mutate and multiply.

After The Death Of The Victim

After the host dies the bugs are dispersed into the land, sea, and atmosphere. The beneficial bugs (microorganisms) that Yahweh placed in the earth try to rid the soil of this mixture. Mixture is exactly what the Hebrew word translated confusion means.

● Leviticus 18:23—

Neither shall you have sexual relations with any animal and defile yourself, along with it; neither shall any woman present herself to have sexual relations with an animal. It is confusion and perversion.

● Leviticus 20:12, BOY—

If a man has sexual relations with his daughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death. They have committed perversion. Their blood shall be upon their own heads.

● Leviticus 20:12, KJV—

And if a man lie with his daughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death; they have wrought confusion; their blood shall be upon them.

● Leviticus 20:12, Amplified Bible—

And if a man lies carnally with his daughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death; they have wrought confusion, perversion, and defilement; their blood shall be upon their own heads.

The word wrought from Websters Dictionary means:

wrought (rôt) vi., vt. alt. pt. & pp. of WORK —adj. 1 formed; made 2 shaped by hammering, etc.: said of metals

The Hebrew word translated wrought means to create, make, bring forth. Yahweh is showing you that when you break His Laws, you, yes you, create, make, and bring forth a deadly mixture into your body, starting a kingdom of deadly bugs that soon after start biting back. Notice what the Hebrew word means:

8397 תִּבְלָה {2x} tebel, teh'-bel; appar. from 1101; mixture, i.e. unnatural bestiality:—

confusion {2x}. See: TWOT—248d; BDB—117d, 1061d.

As Sins Increase, The Earth And The Atmosphere Are Overwhelmed

● Isaiah 24:4-5—

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

Proverbs 26:2 states that a curse causeless does not come. The following are curses caused by breaking Yahweh's Laws: mad cow disease, mad deer disease, whirling disease, scrapie disease, bird flu, etc.

Please try to remember what Yahweh shows, that sin causes these bugs that are foreign to man's healthy environment. These harmful bugs cause defilement to the land, the water and all life on the earth, even the microorganisms that the Holy Scriptures describe as "all the things with which the earth creeps".

Isayah was inspired to write that all of this defilement is caused by man's sins.

● Isaiah 24:4-5—

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

Yahweh is showing us that the result of sexual sins is defilement that affects the earth, its inhabitants, and the atmosphere.

With the above information in mind, let's take a look at global warming and the ozone.

We already know that sin is the cause for the defilement of the earth, creeping things of the earth, mankind, and the atmosphere. Yahweh's Laws do not forbid the burning of wood, coal, gas, oil, candle wax, etc. Contrary to the world's thinking, the earth and atmosphere have no trouble taking care of smoke from burning. It does, however, have trouble with the live harmful organisms that are being created through sexual sins.

Ask any veterinarian and he will tell you that if you raise dogs, they must be given vaccines to prevent about 20 or more diseases that have been created in the soil and atmosphere. These bugs are increasing each year and they are not what is called natural, they are foreign to nature.

Although the vet may not know it, these bugs were created by fornication and adultery in the bodies of women who had sex with more than one man. Men having sex with men, animals, birds, etc. have created others.

These bugs, as many veterinarians can tell you, can live in the soil, and fifty years later be picked up by mankind or animals and start causing symptoms of illness. If these bugs can stay alive in the soil and do damage to the earth's enzymes, can they also live and collect in the earth's atmosphere? The answer is, yes.

Microbe Census Reveals Air Crawling with Bacteria

Thousands of microbes that change with the weather drift in the atmosphere

By David Biello

The air is a hostile place for a microbe. Often dry, lacking in nutrients and filled with deadly ultraviolet radiation, the atmosphere would seem to be the last place a microbe would want to find itself. Yet, a new genetic census of some air samples from Austin and San Antonio, Tex., finds that as many as 2,000 different kinds of microbes may be present in the air we breathe on any given day.

Microbial ecologist Gary Andersen of Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory and his colleagues collected air samples in the two Texas cities over a period of 17 weeks, starting in 2003.

In the air samples, the researchers uncovered at least 1,800 different types of microbes, including those such as the diarrhea-causing Arcobacter and ulcer-inducing Helicobacter genera that can be dangerous to human health.

This puts the diversity of microbes in the air on par with the diversity of microbes in the soil, a fertile environment for such life-forms. In fact, there is a large crossover between the microbes in the air of a city and the microbes in its soil.

...fresh, clean, bacteria-free air is rarer than previously thought.

www.sciam.com

Study finds the air rich with bacteria

BERKELEY, CA—Want biodiversity? Look no further than the air around you. It could be teeming with more than 1,800 types of bacteria, according to a first-of-its-kind census of airborne microbes recently conducted by scientists from the U.S. Department of Energy's Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory (Berkeley Lab).

Surprisingly, they found a widely varied bacterial population that rivals the diversity found in soil. They also found naturally occurring relatives of microbes that could be used in bioterrorist attacks—although many of these relatives are harmless.

"Before this study, no one had a sense of the diversity of the microbes in the air," says lead author Gary Andersen of Berkeley Lab's Earth Sciences Division.

"We found that there are a lot of airborne bacteria, including pathogens, which we did not know are out there."

www.eurekalert.org

According to science, a pathogen is a microorganism capable of causing disease.

The Sins Of Mankind Are Defiling The Earth And The Atmosphere

Remember again:

● Isayah 24:4-5—

4 The earth mourns and fades away, the world mourns and fades away, and the haughty people of the earth languish.

5 The earth also is defiled because of the inhabitants of it, because they have transgressed the Laws, changed the Ordinance, and broken the Everlasting Covenant.

Every Prophet, Apostle and the Savior preached—repent of sin. But there is one thing that stands clear about the religions in these Last Days; they do not repent of their sins. So the cause of the curses continues. Remember, sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws.

● I Yahchanan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

● Revelation 9:20-21—

20 And the rest of the men who were not killed by these plagues, still did not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship demons, and gods (elohim, teraphim) of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which can neither see, nor hear, nor walk;

21 Neither did they repent of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

Scriptures show that the sins of mankind are defiling the earth and the atmosphere. Global warming is becoming a major problem. Prophecy shows it will get worse.

● Revelation 16:8-11—

8 And the Fourth Malak poured out his bowl upon the sun, and power was given to him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the Name of Yahweh, Who had power over these plagues; and they did not repent and give Him glory.

10 And the Fifth Malak poured out his bowl upon the throne of the beast; and his kingdom became full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues because of pain,

11 And blasphemed Yahweh in heaven because of their pains and their sores, and did not repent of their works.

Burning wood, coal, or oil is not sin. Yet we are told that sin is the cause of defilement of the earth, seas, and atmosphere.

Fornication, adultery, sodomy, homosexuality and bestiality are all sins. Her sins have reached into the heavens Yahweh says.

● Revelation 18:5—

For her sins have reached unto heaven, and Yahweh has remembered her iniquities!

Do not partake of her sins Yahweh says.

● Revelation 18:4—

And I heard another voice from heaven, saying: Come out of her, My People, so that you do not partake in her sins, and so that you do not receive of her plagues.

Her plagues will come in one time period. The King James Version says one day but Brown, Driver and Briggs says the Hebrew from which the Greek was translated means set time.

The Savior also shows this to be a set time.

● Mattithyah 24:21-22—

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

The sins that have reached into the heavens causing the ozone to diminish are named fornication.

● Revelation 18:3, 9—

3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

9 And the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication and lived luxuriously with her, will wail over her, and lament for her, when they will see the smoke of her burning—

● Revelation 17:2—

With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication; practiced idolatry: godworship (the worship of elohim), and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

● Revelation 9:21—

Neither did they repent of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

There is much money in sexy clothing, songs, and movies. You have left the natural use of the woman and have burned in your lust. Now you will burn in another way, because you have caused the protective shield that Yahweh placed in the heavens for man to diminish, but you will not repent.

● Revelation 16:10-11—

10 And the Fifth Malak poured out his bowl upon the throne of the beast; and his kingdom became full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues because of pain,

11 And blasphemed Yahweh in heaven because of their pains and their sores, and did not repent of their works.

Yes, STDs, the result of your fornication, are destroying man, beast, everything with which the earth creeps (microorganisms) and the atmosphere.

This year the earth will fail, because it will not be able to defend itself due to the load you have placed on it.

Ozone Layer, So-called. We Need To Reconsider! What Is Causing It To Diminish?

To this point in time, the scientific world has a very narrow view of the true cause for global warming and the atmosphere that protects our earth. So anyone reading this article and looking for the Truth, I will show you some of the things that we are somewhat convinced of, but I would also like to show you some facts from the True Source of all Knowledge and what you can find out there if you look in the right direction.

If you've studied closely the previous writings and you believe the Inspired Message of the Creator Yahweh, you are on the right track to finding in this book the Truth concerning the global warming and the famines that will follow, this year 2007.

Ozone layer

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The ozone layer, or ozonosphere layer (very rarely used term), is the part of the Earth's atmosphere which contains relatively high concentrations of ozone (O₃). "Relatively high" means a few parts per million—much higher than the concentration in the lower atmosphere but still small compared to the main components of the atmosphere. It is mainly located in the lower portion of the stratosphere from approximately 15 km to 35 km above the Earth's surface, though the thickness varies seasonally and geographically.

The ozone layer was discovered in 1913 by the French physicists Charles Fabry and Henri Buisson. Its properties were explored in detail by the British meteorologist G.M.B. Dobson, who developed a simple spectrophotometer that could be used to measure stratospheric ozone from the ground. Between 1928 and 1958 Dobson established a worldwide network of ozone monitoring stations which continues to operate today. The "Dobson unit," a convenient measure of the total amount of ozone in a column overhead, is named in his honor.

Although the concentration of ozone in the ozone layer is very small, it is vitally important to life because it absorbs biologically harmful ultraviolet (UV) radiation emitted from the sun.

Most of the ozone is found in the mid-to-high latitudes of the northern and southern hemispheres, and the highest levels are found in the spring, not summer, and the lowest in the autumn, not winter.

During winter, the ozone layer actually increases in depth. This puzzle is explained by the prevailing stratospheric wind patterns, known as the Brewer-Dobson circulation. While most of the ozone is indeed created over the tropics, the stratospheric circulation then transports it poleward and downward to the lower stratosphere of the high latitudes.

Brewer-Dobson circulation in the ozone layer.

The ozone layer is higher in altitude in the tropics, and lower in altitude in the extratropics, especially in the polar regions. The altitude variation of ozone results from the slow circulation that lifts the ozone-poor air out of the troposphere into the stratosphere. As this air slowly rises in the tropics, ozone is produced by the overhead sun which photolyzes oxygen molecules.

ox-y-gen n. colorless, odorless gaseous chemical element; it is essential to life processes and to combustion chem-i-cal adj. 1. of, made by, or used in chemistry.

n. 1. any substance used in or obtained by a chemical process.

mol-e-cule n. 1. the smallest particle of an element or compound that can exist in the free state and still retain the characteristics of the substance.

Ozone depletion

The ozone layer can be depleted by free radical catalysts, including nitric oxide (NO), hydroxyl (OH), atomic chlorine (Cl), and atomic bromine (Br). While there are natural sources for all of these species, the concentrations of chlorine and bromine have increased markedly in recent years due to the release of large quantities of manmade organohalogen compounds, especially chloro-fluorocarbons (CFCs) and bromo-fluorocarbons. These highly stable compounds are capable of surviving the rise to the stratosphere, where Cl and Br radicals are liberated by the action of ultraviolet light. Each radical is then free to initiate and catalyze a chain reaction capable of breaking down over 10,000 ozone molecules. Ozone levels, over the northern hemisphere, have been dropping by 4% each decade.

rad-i-cal adj. 1. fundamental; basic 2 favoring basic change as in the social or economic structure. —n. 1 a person holding radical views 2 Chem. A group of two or more atoms acting as a single atom.

cat-a-lyst n. 1 a substance servicing as the agent in catalysis 2 anything bringing about or hastening a result.

Regulation

On January 23, 1978, Sweden became the first nation to ban CFC-containing aerosol sprays that are thought to damage the ozone layer.

Please notice I underlined the word thought because this is only theory and the thought was rejected by most countries. Since this date, there has been very little to add to this theory.

Ozone

Ozone (O₃) is a triatomic molecule, consisting of three oxygen atoms. It is an allotrope of oxygen that is much less stable than the diatomic species O₂. Ground-level ozone is an air pollutant with harmful effects on the respiratory systems of animals. On the other hand, ozone in the upper atmosphere protects living organisms by preventing damaging ultraviolet light from reaching the Earth's surface. It is present in low concentrations throughout the Earth's atmosphere.

Ozone, along with reactive forms of oxygen such as superoxide, singlet oxygen (see oxygen), hydrogen peroxide, and hypochlorite ions, is naturally produced by white blood cells and other biological systems (such as the roots of marigolds) as a means of destroying foreign bodies. Ozone reacts directly with organic double bonds. Also, when ozone breaks down to dioxygen it gives rise to oxygen free radicals, which are highly reactive and capable of damaging many organic molecules. Ozone has been found to convert cholesterol in the blood stream to plaque (which causes hardening and narrowing of arteries). Moreover, it is believed that the powerful oxidizing properties of ozone may be a contributing factor of inflammation. The cause-and-effect relationship of how the ozone is created in the body and what it does is still under consideration and still subject to various interpretations, since other body chemical processes can trigger some of the same reactions. A team headed by Dr. Paul Wentworth Jr. of the Department of Chemistry at the Scripps Research Institute has shown evidence linking the antibody-catalyzed water-oxidation pathway of the human immune response to the production of ozone. In this system, ozone is produced by antibody-catalyzed production of trioxidane from water and neutrophil-produced singlet oxygen. See also trioxidane for more on this biological ozone-producing reaction.

Ozone has also been proven to form specific, cholesterol-derived metabolites that are thought to facilitate the build-up and pathogenesis of atherosclerotic plaques (a form of heart disease). These metabolites have been confirmed as naturally occurring in human atherosclerotic arteries and are categorized into a class of secosterols termed "Atheronals", generated by ozonolysis of cholesterol's double bond to form a 5,6 secosterol as well as secondary condensation product via aldolization.

One thought I want to place in your mind at this point. What man calls ozone up to this point does not come from the exhaust pipes of cars. What you just saw in these past few articles found in this protective layer that surrounds the earth are the same things Yahweh put in the earth itself.

If we could, at this point, dismiss Charles Darwin's theory and start looking at this very needful, protective shield as being designed for this purpose it will be relatively easy to understand the truth about this protective shield and what mankind is doing to destroy it.

For this understanding, you must get some facts in your mind which will be presented in this article first. You must understand facts about viruses, where they live, how they were made and what they can do.

Bacteria and viruses showing the ability to be transmitted through aerosols are considered to be airborne. Viruses such as Human Influenza Viruses are transmissible through aerosols.

Theory behind Airborne Transmission

Before the theory is explained, a phenomenon will first be presented. Everyone has felt a cool ocean breeze on their face before, but did they know that the ocean breeze contains more ocean bacteria in its few aerosolized water particles than in 1m³ of ocean water?

When air moves rapidly above a water surface, some particles aerosolize and are carried in the air. It might seem by chance that some particles are not others are carried, but this is not the case and the phenomenon of surface tension plays a role.

Water forms fairly strong bonds with itself due to hydrogen bonding. However, when something gets in the way of water molecules and disturbs the lattice that they form, water can no longer make strong bonds with each other and water molecules can be separated more easily. In the case of the ocean breeze, when wind passes above ocean water, it picks up portions of water with the weakest bonds, which are most easily aerosolized. Bacteria have surface proteins that are charged and attract water molecules, they act as particles that disturb the lattice of water molecules, so places on the surface where bacteria reside have weakened water molecule bonds and so become aerosolized.

This brings us to the requirements for an airborne virus or bacterium. There must be charged proteins present on the surface that will lower surface tension of water allowing aerosolization of the particles.
Wikipedia.org

Here we see one of the many problems affecting the protective shield. Keep this information in mind as we proceed to finding out why this protective shield is failing and what we see coming because of this failure.

In a report released on Monday, the former generals warned that weak governments could fall following increasing water and food shortages caused by global warming. This would pull US troops into such flash points as a part of humanitarian missions to those regions.

They added that the melting or arctic ice would lead to sea water becoming less salty and thereby affecting the workings of sonar used by American submarines in the sea. The report was published by CAN Corporation, a Virginia-based think-tank

President Bush has rejected appeals from various quarters to take a tough stand against rising global temperatures and has refused to join an international community group to curb rising greenhouse gas emissions.

The report predicts that water resources will be the main bone of contention between countries and the subsequent chaos that occurs will boost "civil strife, genocide and the growth of terrorism".

www.earthtimes.org

Higher temperatures over the coming decades are expected to cause more smoggy days and heat waves, contributing to a greater number of illnesses and deaths in the United States, according to international climate scientists.

Severe heat waves characterized by stagnant masses of warm air and consecutive nights with high minimum temperatures intensify in the United States and Canada, according to the data on North America released Monday by the United Nations Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change.

Southern California, the Southwest and the upper Midwest are already experiencing drought. Late in the century, in Los Angeles the number of heat wave days is projected to increase from 12 days a year to between 44 and 95 days, the report said. The number of heat wave days in Chicago is expected to increase by 25 percent.

Warmer temperatures lead to greater concentrations of ground-level ozone, which forms on hot, sunny days when pollution, cars, and other sources mix. Smog can damage lung tissue, increasing respiratory and heart disease and death.

High temperatures perpetuate malaria and other mosquito-borne disease in the tropics. As global warming occurs, the mosquitoes can expand their range to higher elevations and northward.

William Reisen, a research entomologist at UC Davis, said mosquitoes—and the parasites in the mosquitoes—are beginning to exploit highland habitats that were once too cold for them.

The mosquitoes that carry the disease are already in the United States, Reisen said. But the U.S. public health effort, particularly in California, helps prevent infections because of the aggressive system to control mosquitoes, he said.

"As the virus moved westward at northern latitudes it tracked abnormally warm summers," he said.

Food- and water-borne disease

Ebi said a rise in salmonella has been linked to higher temperatures. Studies in Canada, Europe and Australia have shown a correlation between rising temperature and cases of salmonella, she said.

"Unless we do better about food-handling practices and other factors that lead to salmonella, rising temperature would lead to more cases."

www.sfgate.com

From this next article, notice carefully that what is found in the air, is also found in our soil.

Please remember what you see in this article because worse things are coming.

Study finds the air rich with bacteria

19-Dec-2006

BERKELEY, CA—Want biodiversity? Look no further than the air around you. It could be teeming with more than 1,800 types of bacteria, according to a first-of-its-kind census of airborne microbes recently conducted by scientists from the U.S. Department of Energy's Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory (Berkeley Lab).

The team used an innovative DNA test to catalog the bacteria in air samples taken from the Texas cities of San Antonio and Austin. Surprisingly, they found a widely varied bacterial population that rivals the diversity found in soil. They also found naturally occurring relatives of microbes that could be used in bioterrorist attacks—although many of these relatives are harmless.

"Before this study, no one had a sense of the diversity of the microbes in the air," says lead author Gary Andersen of Berkeley Lab's Earth Sciences Division.

The research, which will be published this week in the online early edition of the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, serves two purposes. It paves the way for regional bacterial censuses that will help a Department of Homeland Security bioterrorism surveillance program differentiate between normal and suspicious fluctuations in airborne pathogens. It will also help scientists establish a baseline of airborne microbes, which they can use to track how climate change affects bacterial populations.

"We want to determine the background levels of airborne pathogens and other microbes because only very limited work has been conducted on cataloging organisms in the air," says Andersen. "This work underscores how much we don't know about airborne bacterial populations, or where the bacteria come from."

The scientists also sought to determine whether background levels of airborne bacteria change from city to city, or are generally the same throughout a region. To explore this question, they chose Austin and San Antonio because the two cities have similar population densities, elevation and topography, and they are only about 100 kilometers apart. After taking into account these similarities, they determined that the two cities shared a similar microbial composition.

"This gives us hope that we can eventually develop a regional airborne microbial census, perhaps even a nationwide or global census," says Andersen. "This will also help us determine the sources of airborne bacteria. Does it come from nearby farms and water treatment plants, or is it imported by the wind from another state or country?"

The team also determined that location was not as strong a source of microbial variation as time and weather. Specifically, the time of the year during the 17-week testing period was the most significant source of variation, followed by atmospheric conditions. For example, warmer and dryer conditions led to increased amounts of spore-forming bacteria.

"This information may help explain temporal spikes, which is important in bioterror surveillance," adds Eoin Brodie, also with Berkeley Lab's Earth Sciences Division. "A spike may not be due to a biological attack, but to normal weather fluctuations that draw bacteria up from their natural reservoir."

In this way, bacterial censuses can help explain whether a pathogen's presence is natural or indicative of a biological attack. In one example, the team detected relatives of Francisella tularensis, a naturally occurring bacterium that causes tularemia, also known as rabbit fever. This especially potent bacterium is a possible candidate as a bioterror weapon. But it's also very common. Tularemia has been reported in all U.S. states except Hawaii. This natural background can confound the detection of a terrorist attack and trigger false alarms. The trick is to determine whether the amount of F. tularensis detected in an air sample is in synch with normal levels, or if it's suspicious.

"Almost all of the bacterial bioterror pathogens are in the environment and in the air naturally, so we need to find their natural backgrounds," says Andersen.

An airborne bacterial census will also enable scientists to track how climate change impacts the microbial composition of the atmosphere. This process is already occurring. Wind-blown dust and biomass from Africa's expanding Sahara desert are reaching North America in significant quantities. Recent research links this dust to an increase in asthma cases in the Caribbean.

"We need to determine what's in the air, so we can determine how climate change affects microbial diversity," says Andersen. "We found that there are a lot of airborne bacteria, including pathogens, which we did not know are out there."

www.eurekalert.org

Microbe Census Reveals Air Crawling with Bacteria

Thousands of microbes that change with the weather drift in the atmosphere

December 19, 2006

By David Biello

The air is a hostile place for a microbe. Often dry, lacking in nutrients and filled with deadly ultraviolet radiation, the atmosphere would seem to be the last place a microbe would want to find itself. Yet, a new genetic census of some air samples from Austin and San Antonio, Tex., finds that as many as 2,000 different kinds of microbes may be present in the air we breathe on any given day.

Microbial ecologist Gary Andersen of Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory and his colleagues collected air samples to detect specific genetic information—to search for a gene involved in the making of a protein (16S) that is found in many microbes.

In the air samples, the researchers uncovered at least 1,800 different types of microbes, including those such as the diarrhea-causing Arcobacter and ulcer-inducing Helicobacter genera that can be dangerous to human health. Previous efforts to determine microbe counts in the atmosphere had relied on culturing the air to see what grew. "Over 90 percent you can't recover even though it was not only present but viable," Andersen notes. "It's just something about the physiological state it gets in; when it's not in rich media, it has a different physiology."

This puts the diversity of microbes in the air on par with the diversity of microbes in the soil, a fertile environment for such life-forms. In fact, there is a large crossover between the microbes in the air of a city and the microbes in its soil. The ecologists found that airborne microbes were broadly the same in Austin and San Antonio as well, and varied more depending on the weather than any other factor.

The most common microbes included those that thrive in hay fields and deteriorating exterior paint, according to the paper published online December 18 in Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences USA. "We were surprised at how many different types of sequences we were seeing," Andersen adds. "Obscure phyla, like TM7, which have been seen in soil and gum tissue; hot springs type organisms; and microbes from sewage treatment plants."

The census provides a background for ongoing efforts by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security to monitor city air for potential bioterrorism attacks as well as fills in a gaping hole in the understanding of where microbes persist. For example, storms of Saharan dust—and their attendant microbes—have been linked to local meningitis outbreaks and tracked across the Pacific to coral deaths and an increase in childhood asthma in the Caribbean. "It's important to do a microbial census to see what's in the air we breathe. I believe it's going to change as the climate changes," Andersen says. "We may see very different populations of microbes in the air and that may have some health implications."

www.sciam.com

HIV is a member of a group of viruses called retroviruses. A retrovirus is a virus that changes itself very rapidly. One reason why HIV is a particularly serious infection is that it attacks and destroys cells of the immune system—called T-cells or CD4 cells—that are designed to fight infections and disease. After HIV penetrates these cells, it takes over their machinery (or reprograms the cell) so that it begins to produce many copies of the virus. Eventually, HIV destroys the immune cells. Another reason why HIV is a very serious infection is that it has the ability to mutate (change itself) rapidly. This makes it especially difficult for researchers to find an effective treatment or vaccine.

There are two types of HIV. HIV-1 is responsible for a vast majority of infections and cases of AIDS in the world. HIV-2 is the more common type in West Africa and has a slower course than HIV -1.

From the time a person is infected with HIV, the virus begins to damage the immune system. Although an infected person's immune system struggles to fight back—and can do so for as many as 10 years or more in an otherwise healthy adult—the virus continues to destroy these defenses until the immune system is too weak to fight off infections.

A person can be infected with HIV and not know it, because any symptoms or illnesses related to HIV may not occur for many years after infection...he or she can pass the infection on to others.

AIDS is advanced HIV infection—it is the late stage of the infection, when the immune system is weakened. Advanced infection with HIV weakens the immune system to the point that it cannot fight off infections as effectively as usual. The individual becomes more susceptible to a variety of infections (called opportunistic infections) and other conditions (e.g. cancer).

Now, we can see that this protective shield must deal with, at least 1,800 types of bacteria. And notice, too, that in the bacteria in air samples they found a widely varied bacterial population that rival the diversity found in soil. Very limited work has been done in this field of cataloging organisms in the air.

Notice, also found were organisms and microbes from sewage treatment plants. They found in the atmosphere microbes capable of killing people and animals but also capable of killing Pacific coral.

These microbes, Andersen stresses, were very different populations of microbes in the air. Thousands of microbes that change. How do they change? In the following article, please remember this statement, microbes that change.

Following, you will see the microbes that kill; they kill other microbes.

They are multiplying in the earth, in the animals and people and in the so-called ozone layer. Please keep this in mind as we study the following articles.

HIV is a member of a group of viruses called retroviruses. A retrovirus is a virus that changes itself very rapidly. One reason why HIV is a particularly serious infection is that it attacks and destroys cells of the immune system—called T-cells or CD4 cells—that are designed to fight infections and disease. After HIV penetrates these cells, it takes over their machinery (or reprograms the cell) so that it begins to produce many copies of the virus. Eventually, HIV destroys the immune cells. Another reason why HIV is a very serious infection is that it has the ability to mutate (change itself) rapidly. This makes it especially difficult for researcher to find an effective treatment or vaccine.

There are two types of HIV. HIV-1 is responsible for a vast majority of infections and cases of AIDS in the world. HIV-2 is the more common type in West Africa and has a slower course than HIV -1.

From the time a person is infected with HIV, the virus begins to damage the immune system. Although an infected person's immune system struggles to fight back—and can do so for as many as 10 years or more in an otherwise healthy adult—the virus continues to destroy these defenses until the immune system is too weak to fight off infections.

A person can be infected with HIV and not know it, because any symptoms or illnesses related to HIV may not occur for many years after infection...he or she can pass the infection on to others.

AIDS is advanced HIV infection—it is the late stage of the infection, when the immune system is weakened. Advanced infection with HIV weakens the immune system to the point that it cannot fight off infections as effectively as usual. The individual becomes more susceptible to a variety of infections (called opportunistic infections) and other conditions (e.g. cancer).

Remember these facts.

- HIV-AIDS is a retrovirus.
 - A retrovirus can change itself.
 - A retrovirus attacks and destroys cells.
 - They can destroy the immune cells.
 - They mutate, change rapidly, in order to destroy.
- HIV is a retrovirus, a type of virus that stores its genetic information on a single-stranded RNA molecule. After a retrovirus penetrates a cell, it creates a DNA version of its genes, and its DNA becomes part of the infected cell's DNA.

That created DNA version is then welcomed into any part of the body, in fact the immune system is not alarmed by its presence, so it can do its killing anywhere it is located in the host.

HIV infects one particular type of immune system cell, called CD4 cells (or T-cells). T-cells coordinate immune regulation and secrete specialized factors that activate other white blood cells to fight off infection. In healthy individuals, the number of CD4 cells normally ranges from 450 to 1,200 cells per microliter of blood (this measurement is known as the T-cell count).

When infected with HIV, a T-cell becomes an HIV-replicating cell. In other words, the virus binds with the cell, copies itself into the cell's DNA and causes the cell to begin producing new HIV viruses.

HIV attacks the immune system itself, weakening its ability to fight back.

HIV replicates in large quantities that are more than the compromised immune system can handle.

HIV has the ability to mutate (change itself) very quickly, making it more difficult for the body to fight the infection.

An infected person's body tries to fight off HIV infection by aggressively manufacturing antibodies, which are tiny bits of protein designed to bond with the HIV particles and neutralize them before they can infect more cells. (Most HIV tests actually detect the presence of these antibodies, not HIV itself.)

Remember these facts and they will help you understand what is actually destroying the protective shield that surrounds the earth.

The Earth Is Alive So Are Our Water And Air

Our sub-terrestrial allies are nature's most efficient recyclers

The soil is indeed a living, breathing firmament in which the primary action taking place is the breakdown of organic matter and the release of plant nutrients.

The soil is the decomposer part of the natural cycle that flows from plant and animal production...

With over 10,000,000,000 microbes per teaspoon of dry soil, and some 5,000 different species (most unknown to science) working that teaspoon, it is premature to evaluate respiration levels in any meaningful way.

Healthy crops, turf and ornamentals rely on the soil for food and water. For plants to develop, nutrients, particularly nitrogen (N), phosphorous (P) and potassium (K), must be available in the proper form and amount. Soil microorganisms have a significant impact on converting nutrients into the form necessary for plant uptake. Plus microbes are directly involved in improving the water-holding capacity of the soil; improving the structure of the soil so air, water and roots can penetrate deep into the soil; alleviating high salt soil conditions, and controlling plant disease by keeping harmful organisms in check. Ideally, soil nutrients, air, water, microorganisms and the physical structure of the soil work in concert to maximize plant growth and crop productivity.

Viruses are entities that require bacteria or other cells in order to make copies of their genetic material and to construct new casings that house the genetic material. Scientific studies have shown that 10 to 100 million viruses can be present in a teaspoonful of seawater.

For example, high numbers of disease-causing viruses and a bacterial species called Escherichia coli can occur in coastal waters influenced by human wastes (e.g., sewage). If ingested, these microbes can cause intestinal upset and organ damage that varies from inconvenient to life-threatening. Furthermore, the viruses that cause hepatitis A, hepatitis E, and polio, along with protozoan pathogens that cause giardiasis and cryptosporidiosis, are sometimes found in coastal waters and estuaries.

Drugs in water raise concerns

Residues of birth control pills, antidepressants, painkillers, shampoos and a host of other compounds are finding their way into the nation's waterways, and they have public health and environmental officials in a regulatory quandary.

The pharmaceutical and personal care products, or PPCPs, are being flushed into the nation's rivers from sewage treatment plants or leaching into groundwater from septic systems. According to the Environment Protection Agency, researchers have found these substances, called "emerging contaminants," almost everywhere they have looked for them.

Others are adding pharmaceuticals to the list of hazardous household waste, like leftover paint or insecticides, periodically collected for safe disposal, often by incineration.

Worries about water-borne chemicals flared last summer when researchers at the U.S. Geological Survey said they had discovered "intersex fish" in the Potomac River and its tributaries. The fish, small mouth and large mouth bass, were male but nevertheless carried immature eggs...

KeeP this in mind. It shows how the environment is changed by bugs (microorganisms) created by man. In abundance, our protective environment is altered, along with our soil, our water and our air.

...Chris Metcalfe of Trent University in Peterborough, Ontario, reports finding a broad mix of drugs, including anticancer agents, psychiatric drugs, and anti-inflammatory compounds. "Levels of prescription drugs that we have leaving sewage-treatment plants in Canada are sometimes higher than what's being seen in Germany," he says.

We have all come to understand that our soil and water are alive and are brimming with bugs that work for mankind, beneficial for our food supply, called in Scriptures creeping things.

● Genesis 1:26—

Then Yahweh said: I will make man in My Image, according to My Likeness; they will have rulership over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, over the cattle, and over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps upon the earth.

Correctly translated, instead of creeping things that creep, it should read "all with which the ground creeps (teems)."

In this generation, we have come to realize that these beneficial bugs can be harmed and by so doing diminish the food supply on which all life on earth depend.

Remember the purpose for this segment of this chapter is to explain the protective shield that Yahweh placed around this earth and what is causing this shield to diminish.

Pesticides

Pesticides, although some are made from natural substances, are none the less called chemicals. When certain kinds of substances are placed together or when one is used in extra strength, such as E-coli or Escherichiacoli bacillus found in the intestinal system, is used in protein synthesis experiments, it can become dangerous and hard for the creeping things in the earth to defeat. But they can defeat them in time because the microorganisms were designed to overcome and turn them and their protein back into useable things.

Yahweh designed all the creeping things, with which the earth creeps to benefit mankind. Yahweh also designed what is now being called the ozone layer, the protective shield; it's called the firmament in English.

Dr. Hershel's discoveries by means of his magnifying telescopes show that what we call the sun (meaning we cannot actually see the sun itself) is only the atmosphere of that luminary; that this atmosphere consists of various elastic fluids that are more or less lucid and transparent; that the clouds belonging to our earth are decompositions of some of the elastic fluids belonging to the atmosphere itself, so that in the vast atmosphere of the sun, similar decompositions take place.

This decomposition that Dr. Herschel and his team noted was a continual cleansing of the firmament, or atmosphere.

The Hebrew word rakia translated firmament means to spread out like a curtain or tent or pavilion.

● Isayah 40:21-22—

21 Have you not known? Have you not heard? Has it not been told you from the beginning? Have you not understood from the foundations of the earth?

22 It is He Who sits above the circle of the earth, and its inhabitants are like grasshoppers. He stretches out the heavens like a curtain, and spreads them out like a tent to dwell in.

The Hebrew word rakia also means expanse or space, and that space or expansion separating the clouds, which are in the higher regions of it, from the seas, which are below. This we call atmosphere, the orb of atoms or small particles.

This firmament, or atmosphere, or sphere, was created by Yahweh, as a protection and continual cleansing shield of the earth's dispersents, so the air we breathe can renew or purify itself.

● Genesis 1:6-8—

6 And Yahweh said: Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters and let there be separation between waters from the waters.

7 So Yahweh made the firmament, and separated the water under the firmament from the water above it. And it was so.

8 And Yahweh called the firmament Heaven. And the evening and then the morning were the Second Day.

Think of it. If the air was not being continually cleansed, it would be like a group of people in an unventilated room. Now, think of this. We know that the earth is alive with beneficial (enzymes/microorganisms) as Yahweh says, with all the creeping things with which the earth creeps.

The waters are the same, brimming alive with beneficial life, made for man.

Now, think of the firmament as being alive with kingdoms, living kingdoms of bugs (microorganisms), whose job it is to keep pure the air for mankind. Remember, the earth was made for man and the firmament, made for man.

The Warning

Yahweh warned that mankind would be capable of defiling the earth and even showed how it could be defiled to the point where it couldn't survive.

Yahweh gave us Laws to guide us away from diseases called curses in the Holy Writings.

Breaking these guiding Laws is called sin, and sin brings curses that man calls sickness and disease.

● I Yahchanan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

The Savior said that in this last generation, we would have the worst disease epidemics ever in the history of mankind.

● Mattithyah 24:7—

For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes in place after place:

The word translated pestilences means disease epidemics. Verses 21-22 show they will be the worst ever.

● Mattithyah 24:21-22—

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

Global Warming Caused By Sins

Yahweh warned us that if we do certain sexual acts, we would defile the earth.

● Leviticus 18:1-30—

1 And Yahweh spoke to Mosheh, saying:

2 Speak to the children of Israyl and say to them; I am Yahweh your Father.

3 After the doings of the land of Egypt where you dwelt, shall you not do; and after the doings of the land of Canaan, where I am bringing you, shall you not do; neither shall you walk in their ordinances.

4 You shall observe and do My Judgments, and keep My Ordinances, to walk in them. I am Yahweh.

5 You must therefore keep My Statutes, and My Judgments, which, if a man does, he will live through them. I am Yahweh.

6 None of you shall approach anyone who is near of kin to him, in order to have sexual relations. I am Yahweh.

7 The nakedness of your father, which is the nakedness of your mother, you shall not uncover; she is your mother. Do not have sexual relations with her.

8 Do not have sexual relations with your father's wife, though not your own mother; it is your father's nakedness.

9 You shall not have sexual relations with your sister, the daughter of your father or of your mother, whether born at home or born abroad.

10 You must not have sexual relations with your son's daughter or your daughter's daughter; your granddaughters. Their nakedness you shall not uncover, for they are your own flesh.

11 You must not have sexual relations with your father's wife's daughter, begotten by your father; she is your sister; you shall not uncover her nakedness.

12 You shall not have sexual relations with your father's sister; your aunt. She is your father's near kinswoman.

13 You shall not have sexual relations with your mother's sister; your aunt. She is your mother's near kinswoman.

14 You shall not have sexual relations with your father's brother's wife. You shall not approach his wife; she is your aunt.

15 You shall not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law. She is your son's wife; you shall not have sexual relations with her.

16 You shall not have sexual relations with your brother's wife; your sister-in-law. She belongs to your brother.

17 You shall not marry a woman and her daughter, nor shall you take her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter; her granddaughter, to have sexual relations. They are her near kinswomen; it is wickedness and lewdness.

18 You must not marry a woman in addition to her sister, to be a rival to her, having sexual relations with the second sister while in the dwelling in which the first sister is living.

19 Also, you shall not have sexual relations with a woman during the uncleanness of her monthly period; niddah, nor during any similar uncleanness; zavah.

20 Moreover, you shall not have sexual relations with your neighbor's wife, to defile yourself, along with her.

21 You shall not give any of your children to be passed through the fire, to sacrifice them to Molech. You shall not profane the Name of Yahweh by giving your children to gods (elohim). I am Yahweh.

22 You shall not have sexual relations with a man, as with a woman. It is an act that is injurious to others.

23 Neither shall you have sexual relations with any animal and defile yourself, along with it; neither shall any woman present herself to have sexual relations with an animal. It is confusion and perversion.

24 Do not defile yourselves in any of these ways, for this is how the nations who are going to be driven out before you became defiled:

25 For the world is defiled because they have given themselves over to sin; and the land itself vomits out her inhabitants.

26 You shall therefore keep My Statutes and My Judgments, and you must not commit any of these abominations; neither any of your own nation nor any of the strangers that sojourn among you—

27 (For all these abominations have the people of the land done, who were before you, and thus the land is defiled; unholy)—

28 Or the land will vomit you out, if you defile it, as it vomited out the nations that were before you.

29 For whosoever shall commit any of these abominations, the person who commits them shall be cut off from among his people.

30 Therefore you shall keep My Ordinance, and commit none of these customs that injure others, which were committed before you, and that you do not defile yourselves with them. I am Yahweh your Father.

● Verses 20, 23, 24, 25 and 30 show these sins will defile mankind.

● Verses 25, 27 and 28 show the same sins defile the land.

Her Sins Have Reached Into The Heavens

The Book of Revelation shows these sexual sins have reached into heaven.

● Revelation 18:1-5—

1 And after these things I saw another Malak come down from heaven, having great authority; and the earth was enlightened with His glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying: Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of demons, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying: Come out of her, My People, so that you do not partake in her sins, and so that you do not receive of her plagues,

5 For her sins have reached unto heaven, and Yahweh has remembered her iniquities!

What sins have reached into heaven? Notice the following information:

Marine Mammals Contract Human Diseases

Parasites from cat feces are causing deadly brain damage in California sea otters. A combination of toxic chemicals and herpes is killing off California sea lions.

HIV Infection

HIV is a member of a group of viruses called retroviruses. A retrovirus is a virus that changes itself very rapidly. One reason why HIV is a particularly serious infection is that it attacks and destroys cells of the immune system—called T-cells or CD4 cells—that are designed to fight infection and diseases.

Notice the above article, how the AIDS virus attacks and destroys T-cells that were designed to fight infection and disease.

Imagine the atmosphere, firmament, being alive with protective rebuilding kingdoms of bugs (microorganisms) designed to protect the earth, but at the same time stay just the right amount to allow the earth to receive just the right amount of the sun's radiation; without which all life on earth, as we know it, would die. Something as important as this kingdom must be as finely tuned as the protective enzymes in our bodies.

Now, imagine STDs of which there are uncountable numbers of and kingdoms of, which are changing themselves, mutating very rapidly and all they do is attack and destroy; created to attack and destroy. Imagine them drifting into the heaven, that protective shield designed to protect mankind.

Remember, sin, not following the protective Laws set for us and the earth, defiles the earth. Remember, her sins have reached into the heavens.

Burning coal, wood or gas or grass fires are not sin. What is destroying the ozone, the firmament, is sin.

STDs are the creation of mankind. They are created by men's sins. They defile the earth, the sea and the firmament. These sins are now reaching into the heavens and as a result, the Prophets have written this warning to the world.

● II Kepha 3:12-13—

12 You must look for and earnestly long for the day of Yahweh, because of which the heavens will be dissolved in fire, and the elements will melt with fervent heat.

13 Nevertheless we, according to His promise, look for the restored heavens and the restored earth, in which Righteousness dwells.

The solar ice-cap is already melting. What's next?

● Revelation 16:9—

And men were scorched with great heat, and they blasphemed the Name of Yahweh, Whose Law protects the Righteous from these plagues; and they did not repent and give Him glory.

The Great Wisdom Of Yahweh Rejected

The subjects listed in this chapter are only a few of the many sicknesses and diseases, that the Scriptures call curses or plagues, that the world is suffering from today because they ignore the Great Wisdom of Yahweh—the Laws He gave to guide all mankind.

Yahweh gave 613 equally important healthful Laws to mankind. Those who had kept them benefited greatly, so much so that they were immune to many sicknesses for many years even after they turned back to sin. A great example was when the black plague swept the world killing millions, those who kept a few simple guidelines, as written in The Book of Yahweh, never suffered from that plague or any other.

● Proverbs 1:7—

The Reverence of Yahweh is the beginning; first requirement, chief part, of Knowledge; Wisdom. Only fools; evilim, morally perverse, turning from what is right, despise wisdom and instruction.

● Proverbs 2:1-2, 6-9, 12-22—

1 My son, if you will accept my words, and will treasure my Laws within you;

2 If you will incline your ears to wisdom, and apply your mind to understanding;

6 For it is Yahweh Who gives Wisdom; from His mouth comes Knowledge and Understanding.

7 Yahweh reserves sound understanding for the Righteous; He is a Shield of protection to those who walk uprightly:

8 For Yahweh guards the path of the Just and protects the way of His Saints;

9 So that you may understand Righteousness, Justice, and Equity—every Righteous path.

12 To deliver you from the way of evil, from the man who speaks froward; perverse and deceitful, things,

13 From those who leave the paths of uprightness, to walk in the ways of darkness;

14 Who find joy in doing evil, and who find delight in the frowardness; perversity and deceitfulness, of the wicked;

15 Whose ways are crooked, and their paths froward; untruthful.

16 Discretion and understanding will deliver you from the strange woman, from the adulteress who flatters with seductive words,

17 Who forsakes the companion of her youth; her husband, and forgets the Covenant of her Father Yahweh; her marriage vows.

18 Her house slopes down into death, and her paths lead to the dead.

19 None who go to her return again, neither do they take hold of the paths of life.

20 So may you walk in the Way of Uprightness, and follow the Paths of Righteousness:

21 Because the upright will live in the land, and the perfect will remain in it;

22 But the wicked will be cut off from the earth, and the transgressors will be rooted out of it.

● Proverbs 5:7-14—

7 So listen to me now, my children, and do not turn aside from what I say.

8 Keep your way far from her, and do not go near the door of her house;

9 Or you will give your honor to others, and your years to those without mercy;

10 Then strangers will be filled with your wealth, and the fruits of your labor will go to the house of a stranger;

11 And you will mourn in the end times, as your flesh and your body waste away, 12 And you will say: How I hated instruction! How my mind resented rebuke and warning!

13 I would not obey my Teachers, nor listen to those who instructed me!

14 Now I am on the verge of total ruin, in the midst of the congregation and the assembly!

This is speaking of deceiving religions who come to you in sheep's clothing, pompous showboats, who impress with looks while they turn you from the Great Wisdom of Yahweh; the Laws that would have guided the world away from the sicknesses and diseases throughout the world today and the coming holocaust.

This Generation

Think of this. No man can predict the future. No man can tell you what will take place even tomorrow. This is truly a miracle.

Thousands of years ago, Yahweh inspired His Prophets to write that there would be a decline in morals in this generation—this generation with all its religions and preachers, coming into every home by means of television, spilling out the deception of their deceived, sin-filled minds and actually reverting back to the evil actions and attitudes of those living before the Flood.

The Prophets, as far back as Mosheh, wrote about this proud, deceitful generation that rejects the Laws of Yahweh. Proclaiming to be civilized, this present generation has actually become the worst in history.

The Words Of The Savior

The Savior spoke the following Words to this generation's preachers and to you with the purpose of enlightening some.

● Mattithyah 7:15-20—

15 Beware of false prophets who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

16 You will know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes from thorns, or figs from thistles?

17 Likewise, every Righteous tree brings forth Righteous fruit; but a tree of evil brings forth fruit of iniquity.

18 A Righteous tree cannot bring forth fruit of iniquity, nor can a tree of evil bring forth fruits of Righteousness.

19 Every tree which does not bring forth Righteous fruit is cut down, and cast into the fire.

20 Therefore, by their fruits you will know them.

The definition of Righteousness is the same throughout the Holy Scriptures. Righteousness is keeping Yahweh's Laws.

● Deuteronomy 6:25—

And it will be our Righteousness, if we observe to do all of this Law before Yahweh our Father, as He has commanded us.

The definition of iniquity in Mattithyah 7:17-18 is as follows: Sin is the opposite of Righteousness. Sin is the breaking of Yahweh's Laws.

● I Yahchanan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

All the Apostles, Prophets and the Savior taught the same thing: "Repent of sin," repent of breaking each and every one of Yahweh's Laws, not just some, but all.

● Yaaqob 2:10-12—

10 For whoever keeps the whole Law, and yet offends in one point, he is guilty of all.

11 For He Who said: Do not commit adultery, also said: Do not murder. Now if you do not commit adultery, yet you do murder, you have become a transgressor of the Law.

12 So speak, and so do, as those who are being judged by the Law of liberty—

Preachers who declare that they know the Savior or the Creator, yet practice breaking one or more of Yahweh's Laws, are merely practicing a life of deception, while they promise you eternal life. They are called liars and false prophets.

● I Yahchanan 2:4—

He who says: I know Him, but does not keep His Law, is a liar, and the Truth is not in him.

● Mattithyah 7:15—

Beware of false prophets who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves.

Speaking directly to the preachers of this generation, Yahshua said the following:

● Mattithyah 7:21-23—

21 Not everyone who says to Me; Teacher! Teacher! will enter into the Kingdom of Yahweh, but only he who does the Will of My Father Who is in heaven.

22 Many will say to Me in that day; Teacher! Teacher! Have we not prophesied in Your Name, and cast out demons in Your Name, and in Your Name performed many wonderful works?

23 But then I will declare to them; I never knew you. Get away from Me, you who practice iniquity; you who break the Law of Yahweh!

Remember what the word translated iniquity means.

458. ἀνομία anōmia, an-om-ee'-ah; from 459; illegality, i.e. violation of law or (gen.) wickedness:—iniquity, × transgress (-ion of) the law, unrighteousness.

459. ἄνομος anōmōs, an'-om-os; from 1 (as a neg. particle) and 3551; lawless, i.e. (neg.) not subject to (the Jewish) law; (by impl. a Gentile), or (pos.) wicked:—without law, lawless, transgressor, unlawful, wicked.

By deceiving the world with their lies, they can continue in sin, pulling children and adults into sin and the curses of sickness, disease and death.

● Mattithyah 24:37—

But just as the days of Noah were, so will also be the coming of the Son of Man;

● Genesis 6:5—

Then Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and every intent of the thoughts of man's heart was only evil, continually.

This generation, which is fully described in the following Scriptures, has rejected Yahweh's Great Wisdom.

● Romans 1:16-32—

16 For I am not ashamed of the Message, for it is the strength of Yahweh unto life everlasting for everyone who believes: to the Yahdai first, and also to the Greek.

17 For in this Message is the Righteousness of Yahweh revealed, originating from the Faith and leading to the Faith; as it is written: The just will live by the Faith.

18 For the Justice of Yahweh is revealed from heaven concerning all unholiness and unrighteousness of men or women, who suppress the Truth in unrighteousness.

19 For that which is known about Yahweh is manifest to them, because Yahweh has shown it to them.

20 For since the creation of the world, the invisible things of Him are clearly seen—His eternal power and holiness—being understood by the things that are written; so that they are without excuse.

21 Because that, when they knew Yahweh, they did not glorify Him as Father, nor were thankful, but became idolatrous; godworshippers (worshippers of elohim), in their reasoning, and their senseless minds were darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools; simpletons,

23 And exchanged the Glory of the Uncorruptible Father for images, made to resemble corruptible man, and birds, four-footed beasts, and creeping things.

24 Therefore, Yahweh also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own minds, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves:

25 Who exchanged the Truth of Yahweh for the lie; lords (baalim), gods, goddesses (elohim) and demons, and worshiped and served the creation, rather than the Creator, Who is blessed forever. Praise Yahweh! HalleluYahweh!

26 For this reason it came to pass that they gave themselves up to degrading passions: for even their women exchanged the natural use into that which is against nature.

27 And the men did the same thing: leaving the natural use of the woman, they burned in their lusts for one another; men committing shameful acts with men, and suffering in their own bodies the penalty for their error, which is their fitting reward.

28 And so, since they did not like to retain Yahweh in their knowledge, it came to pass that they were given over to deadly diseases that damaged their brains, robbing them of Righteous Judgment, thus doing those things which are perverted;

29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, sexual impurity, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, and malice. They are gossips,

30 Backbiters; slanderers, haters of Yahweh, spiteful, arrogant, and boastful. They are inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 And without understanding. They are Covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable; truce breakers, and unmerciful:

32 Who, knowing the Righteous Judgment of Yahweh, that those who practice such things deserve death, not only continue to do these very things, but also approve of those who practice them.

The U.N. warned the people to brace themselves for what is coming on them in this time period. The Savior warned us over 2,000 years ago of these disease epidemics and showed that nuclear wars will also become a part of the lifestyle of this generation.

● Mattithyah 24:5, 7-8, 21-22, 29, 34, 37—

5 For many will come against My Name, saying: I am anointed to preach salvation!—and will deceive many.

7 For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there will be famines, and pestilences; disease epidemics, and earthquakes in place after place:

8 All these are the first half of the sorrows; Great Tribulation!

21 For then will be Great Tribulation, such as has not come to pass since the beginning of the world to this time—no, nor ever will be.

22 And unless those days were shortened, there would no flesh be saved; but for the Elect's sake, those days will be shortened.

29 Immediately, but after the Great Tribulation of those days will the sun be darkened, and the moon will not give her light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

34 Truly I say to you: That generation will not pass away, until all these things are fulfilled.

37 But just as the days of Noah were, so will also be the coming of the Son of Man.

Will all the religions repent of what they have done? Notice carefully the next Scriptures.

● I Yahchanaan 2:4—

He who says: I know Him, but does not keep His Law, is a liar, and the Truth is not in him.

● I Yahchanaan 3:4—

Whoever commits sin, transgresses also the Law; for sin is the transgression of the Law.

● Revelation 9:20-21—

20 And the rest of the men who were not killed by these plagues, still did not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship demons, and gods (elohim, teraphim) of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which can neither see, nor hear, nor walk;

21 Neither did they repent of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

● Fornication is defined as voluntary sexual intercourse engaged in by an unmarried person.

This is the religious world today. There is no Salvation promised in any of the Holy Inspired Scriptures to those who follow these practices. Following the religions that practice breaking Yahweh's Laws will only bring the followers curses on top of curses. There is only one way to Life Eternal, as shown in your Holy Scriptures, that is as follows.

● Revelation 18:1-5—

1 And after these things I saw another Malak come down from heaven, having great authority; and the earth was enlightened with His Glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying: Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of demons, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the cup of her destruction because of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying: Come out of her, My People, so that you do not partake in her sins, and so that you do not receive of her plagues.

5 For her sins have reached unto heaven, and Yahweh has remembered her transgressions against His Laws!

We have shown only a few of the many plagues with which the earth, men, women and children, are suffering today. There are over 125 sexually transmitted diseases, many of which are passed on from parents to the children. These children suffer greatly, as do the parents, from these diseases caused from sin.

Sin is the breaking of simple guidelines given to mankind to guide him away from curses. The religions are saying this Great Wisdom was done away with by the Savior. However, the Savior Himself calls them deceivers in the written Word.

While they promise you eternal life, they cause you, as well as themselves, to sink deeper into sin and death.

The only ones promised Life Eternal are those who keep Yahweh's Laws. The Savior's Words below come from the last revelation given.

● Revelation 22:12-16—

12 And behold, I come quickly, and My Reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work will be.

13 I am the First and the Last, the Beginning and the End.

14 Blessed are those who keep His Laws, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the gates into the City.

15 For outside are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and worshipers of gods (elohim) and everyone who professes to love, yet practices breaking the Law.

16 I, Yahshua, have sent My Malak to testify to you these things in the congregations of The House of Yahweh. I am the root and the offspring of David, and the Bright and Morning Star.

The curses we see around us are getting more numerous, stronger and easier to acquire. There are cleanses and ways of preventing this growing number of sin-caused plagues. If you wait much longer, you will lose the opportunity to avoid or overcome these epidemics.

You need our book The Mark of the Beast, Volume 1 now. This book shows step by step the plans of what the Prophets described as a beastly system that will soon take the lives of four-fifths of the world's population. You also need our book The End. This book shows you what is coming and how you can avoid the destruction.

Hatred and confusion are spreading. There is little time left for you to make preparations to save yourself and your loved ones. YOU NEED TO ACT NOW!

A Warning To The World!

The Savior showed another action that is taking place at this time.

● Mattithyah 24:12—

And because iniquity; the breaking of Yahweh's Law, will abound, the love of the many will grow cold.

Unless one is blind or too ignorant to understand simple world news, one can see that sin has abounded, and the so-called love of the religions is growing colder and colder as hate for others and other nations increases.

For this same time period, the Prophets were inspired to write that in the Last Days Yahweh would establish His House. The Savior called the Last Days the last generation.

A generation according to Scripture is 3 score and 10 which is 70 years. This would annul the entire BEASTLY SYSTEM with its forms of religion, fields of science, financial systems and education. Everything established earlier than this generation and all authority without the name, The House of Yahweh.

Yahweh's Prophets said that Yahweh's House would teach the Laws of Yahweh to all nations. After the Great Tribulation those left alive would be keeping Yahweh's Sabbaths from year to year. This also annuls all religions on earth unless they repent. The Savior strongly suggests they do because they have all rebelled against Yahweh's Sabbaths and other Laws. For full details of these Wonderful Prophecies and the Work of the one Spokesman of the Two Witnesses, who the Prophets said would take this Message to all the world, get our book The End and The Prophetic Word issues on The Two Witnesses.

The Savior said in:

● Mattithyah 24:14—

And this Message of the Kingdom will be preached to all the world by the one who bears witness to all nations; and then The End will come.

He also said you are a fool if you do not believe the Prophecies.

● Luke 24:25—

Then He said to them: O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the Prophets have spoken!

Let's look at:

● Hebrews 10:26-27

26 For if we sin willfully after we have received the Knowledge of the Truth, there no longer remains a sacrifice for sins,

27 But a certain fearful expectation of Judgment, and fiery indignation which will devour the adversaries.

This is speaking of the very soon Great White Throne Judgment. The Judgments are already set.

Soon they will be administered. Notice in:

● Daniyl 7:9-10—

9 I beheld until the Thrones were set in place, and the Ancient of Days did sit, Whose Vesture was white as snow, and the hair of His Head like the pure wool; His Throne was like the fiery flame, and His wheels as burning fire.

10 A fiery stream issued and came forth from before Him; thousand thousands ministered to Him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before Him; the Judgment was set, and the books were opened.

There is no Salvation in any of the religions. They all refuse to keep Yahweh's Laws including Yahweh's Sabbaths but the people left alive after October 13, 2007 (which will bring an end to man's governments and religions of and by the people) will be those willing to keep Yahweh's Sabbaths and all of Yahweh's Laws.

● Zecharyah 14:16—

Then it will come to pass that everyone who survives of all the nations which came against The House of Yahweh at Abel and the Priest who teaches peace, will also go up from year to year to worship their Heavenly Father, Yahweh of Hosts, by keeping the Feasts at The House of Yahweh.

The Nuclear Baby

● Daniyl 7:9-10—

11 I beheld, then, because of the voice of the great words which the horn spoke; I beheld until the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning flame.

12 As concerning the rest of the beasts, they had their governments taken away; yet their lives were prolonged for a season and time.

This burning is nuclear wars, the activities of which began with the conception of a nuclear baby on September 12, 2006 that will be born around June 12, 2007, killing a third part of man over a fourth part of the earth in and around the great River Euphrates. But the governments and religions will still not repent even after that.

● Revelation 9:20-21—

20 And the rest of the men who were not killed by these plagues, still did not repent of the works of their hands, that they should not worship demons, and gods (elohim, teraphim) of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood: which can neither see, nor hear, nor walk;

21 Neither did they repent of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

We are in the last year of the last 3½ years spoken of by Daniyl the Prophet. By June 12, 2007 a third part of man will be killed over a fourth part of the earth in and around the great River Euphrates.

